

SCHOOL BOARD MET MONDAY

COMMITTEES REPORT PRO- GRESS IN ERECTION OF NEW ANNEX

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Board of Education was held on Monday evening in Mr. H. C. Martin's office, with Chairman W. Wright presiding, and Messrs Wm. Patterson, C. F. Linn, J. B. Belshaw, Elwart Bailey, J. S. Morton, E. G. Bailey and Dr. C. F. Walt in attendance.

Following the adoption of the minutes of previous meetings, H. C. Martin, Chairman of the Building Committee addressed the Board on matters pertaining to the construction of the addition to the High School. Good progress was reported in the construction work and a statement of expenditures given. A contract for the laying of a flexible tile floor in the Home Economics room had been let to A. Sills, of Belleville, for $440, reported Mr. Martin.

J. B. Belshaw gave a brief outline of what had been accomplished in procuring the new equipment needed for the new departments. Prices had been received from various firms and in practically every instance the committee had decided to place the orders through the local dealers. The list of equipment needed at present, with the price quoted, will be submitted to the Department of Education for approval before any purchase is made. The remainder of the equipment may be purchased any time within the next two years, to comply with Department regulations, stated Mr. Belshaw.

Speaking for the Property Committee, Trustee Belshaw enumerated the repairs made at the public school during the vacation months, including redecorating the interior.

Principal C. A. Wells expressed his appreciation to the members of the Board for making the school brighter and more pleasant to occupy and spoke of a list of supplies needed for the beginners' class.

The appreciation of the Board for the splendid work done by the Building and Purchasing Committees was expressed by Dr. C. F. Walt.

The following accounts were ordered paid, on motion of Dr. C. F. Walt and J. B. Belshaw.

High School
Stirling News-Argus	$5.00
J. S. Morton	3.00
L. & R. W. Melkejohn	9.30
Mrs. E. T. Ward	3.50
Public School
J. S. Morton	7.05
Fred Elgie	92.51

The matter of holding an official opening of the new addition to the High School was introduced by Trustee J. B. Belshaw, who submitted a tentative programme for such an event. A number of suggestions were made by the members of the Board and on motion of H. C. Martin and J. B. Belshaw, a committee comprising Dr. C. F. Walt, J. S. Morton and E. Bailey was appointed to investigate the holding of an official opening with power to act.

Meeting adjourned.

FOUND LUCKY OMENS

Four-leaved clovers are omens of good luck, Mrs. Geo. Wallace, who resides west of the village, on the Campbellford Road, should have plenty of it. On Monday last, while working in the yard at her home, she discovered a number of three, four and five-leaved clovers, all growing from one root, which she later displayed at the office of the News-Argus.

HONOURED WITH TEA

Mrs. Wm. Matthews, Burnbrae, entertained in honour of Miss Freida Matthews, of Shaughnessy, Alberta, who has been spending her vacation in this district, on Tuesday of last week. Among those present were Mrs. Malcolm Totton, Mrs. Robert Clough, Misses Isabel and Ellen Clough, Miss Marion Bedford, Miss Hazel McKenzie, Mrs. Elvin Pollock, Mrs. Lindsay Pollock, Mrs. W. Hume, Mrs. Stanley Irvin and Mrs. Clifford Barrager.

School Opens Sept. 6

Public and High Schools in Stirling will reopen on Tuesday, September 6th. There will be three changes in the High School staff, Misses Doris Cooper, B.A., of Toronto, Helen Lacey, B. H.Sc., of Chesterville, and Margaret Walt, of Stirling, being the new members, but the Public School teaching staff will be the same as last year. During the summer months repairs have been made and the interior of the Public School redecorated, while the High School has been remodelled and a large wing addition constructed.

HAD TONSILS REMOVED

Rev. W. R. Tristram, of West Hunt-Ingdon, underwent an operation for the removal of his tonsils at the surgery of Dr. W. H. Pedley, on Saturday last.

FREAK CUCUMBER

Mrs. Eli Spry, who resides near Bonarlaw, exhibited a cucumber which had assumed an unusual shape at this office on Saturday last. The "cuc" had the appearance of being three in one and is 6 3/4 inches long and 14 inches in circumference at its largest point.

ERROR IN EXAM REPORT

Through an error in the Department of Education at Toronto, Miss Helen Morrow, of Stirling, was not given credit for Modern History in the Upper School results which were published in last week's issue. The attention of the Department officials was drawn to their error and it has since been corrected.

Won Scholarship

Word was announced by Mr. J. L. Good, Principal of Stirling High School, yesterday, that J. Douglas Scott, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Scott, was the winner of the Hon. J. R. Cooke Scholarship. This scholarship is granted to the student from Stirling High School obtaining the highest aggregate on eight papers in the Upper School Departmental examinations, and consists of a cash payment of $50.00. The congratulations of his many friends are being extended to Douglas on his success.

SEVERE ELECTRIC STORM

The season's worst electrical storm swept over this district about 7.30 on Monday evening. It was accompanied by heavy rainfall, but no damage was reported from the immediate vicinity. A large barn owned by Carlton Rowe, of Crowe River, in the Campbellford district, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. A second storm passed over during the night, but was not so severe as the first.

TO CELEBRATE IN 1930

An "Old Home Week" celebration will be sponsored by the Stirling Agricultural Society in the summer of 1940. So decided the directors of the Society at a meeting held on Tuesday evening. It was in 1930 that Stirling had its last "Old Home Week" and the decision of the Agricultural Society to sponsor another of these popular celebrations will doubtless be good news to the citizens of the community.

New Business Opens

Another business enterprise, will open its doors in Stirling during the coming week and make a bid for public support. The new addition to Stirling's business section is Mr. J. Diamond, of Belleville, who will conduct a gent's furnishings store in the premises formerly occupied by J. C. Beacock, furniture dealer. During the past week Mr. Warren Harlow, owner of the building, has had it remodelled, with a modern store front being constructed.

P. O. HOURS MONDAY

Monday next, September 5th, is Labour Day and a public holiday, and all places of business will be closed in Stirling for the day. The public wicket at the post office will be open from 8 to 9.30 a.m. and the rural mail will be delivered as usual.

To Celebrate Birthday

Two of Stirling's "grand old men" will celebrate their 81st birthdays during the coming week.

On Saturday, September 3rd, Mr. Robert Eggleton will observe his anniversary quietly at his home on Mill St. Coming to Stirling from Sidney Township some twenty years ago, he followed the occupation of carpenter and contractor until his retirement two years ago, and many of the buildings of the district are the result of his handiwork. Despite his years, Mr. Eggleton is keenly interested in every sphere of local activity, and is a familiar figure on the streets of the village. He is a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church, and has served St. Andrews in various capacities throughout the years he has resided here. Fraternally he is a veteran member of the Orange Order.

Two days later, on Monday, Sept. 5th, Mr. F. T. Ward will celebrate the 81st anniversary of his natal day. For over fifty years Mr. Ward conducted a gent's furnishings business in Stirling and took an active part in the various spheres of community life, until his retirement not quite a year ago, due to ill-health. He has been an active worker in the various organizations of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, and is still a regular attendant at its services. Fraternally he is a veteran member of Stirling Lodge, I.O.O.F. No. 239. Despite his eighty-one years, he is keenly interested in the events of the day and is very popular with all those who know him.

The News-Argus joins with the many friends of both Mr. Eggleton and Mr. Ward in extending congratulations and wishing them many more happy birthdays.

Prize Lists Ready

The prize lists for the Stirling Fair are ready for distribution and may be obtained from the Secretary, F. R. Mallory. This year's list is a most attractive one, over two hundred dollars being added to the prize money in different classes, while the list of special prizes offered compares favourably with other years. Prospective exhibitors should procure their copy at once.

BOWLING ACTIVITIES

On Friday last Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, Mrs. P. W. Long and Mr. A. Heyworth attended the mixed rinks tournament held on the greens of the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club. Mr. and Mrs. Whitty were successful in winning the prize for one win, the former receiving a pair of pyjamas and the latter a pitcher.

Three rinks of local bowlers attended the mixed doubles tournament held in Campbellford on Monday afternoon but failed to get in the money. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, Mrs. P. W. Long and Mr. A. Heyworth.

Bowlers at Brighton

Messrs F. R. Mallory, W. Wright, T. W. Solmes and Dr. E. A. Carleton attended a men's rinks tournament in Brighton yesterday afternoon. The local rink won two of their three games, but failed to win a prize.

Mrs. W. J. Whitty, with Mrs. W. Wiggins, of Campbellford, is competing in the Globe and Mail Ladies' Doubles Tournament being held in Toronto today.

LOCAL EXECUTIVE MAKES PLANS

JUDGES SELECTED FOR VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS — COMMITTEES REPORT

Further plans for the holding of Stirling Fair on September 20th and 21st, were made by the Directors of the Agricultural Society at a meeting held in the Agricultural Office on Tuesday evening. President J. B. Belshaw was in the chair and was supported by F. R. Mallory, E. J. Pyear, C. F. Linn, A. Duncan, Wm. Patterson, A. Scott, W. Fitchett, H. P. Ellis, Thos. Solmes, E. Carlisle and H. R. Tompkins.

The selection of the judges for the exhibits in the several departments occupied considerable time of the directors, and Secretary F. R. Mallory was instructed to secure the services of the following:

Horses — W. E. Lewis, Port Hope, Dairy Cattle — R. M. Holby, Port Perry.

Swine — H. L. Messervy, Point Anne.

Cheese and Dairy Products — C. F. Linn to procure Judge.

Roots and Vegetables — W. Ketcheson, Trenton.

Grain and Seeds — W. Michael, Belleville.

Domestic Service — Mrs. O'Hara, Campbellford.

Ladies' Work — Mrs. Whytock, Madoc.

Manual Training — S. A. Murphy, Stirling.

A request from the ladies of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, for permission to operate a booth on the grounds on Fair Day was referred to the Concession Committee.

H. P. Ellis, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, outlined what had been done towards providing a full programme for the second afternoon of the Fair, and suggested that a dance be held in the evening. This met with the approval of the directors and the committee will make the necessary arrangements. Owing to the fact that Mr. Ellis will be away at the time of the Fair, Mr. Thos. W. Solmes was chosen chairman of the Program Committee and Messrs E. J. Pyear and C. A. Wells added to the members.

The need of a great deal of work being done on the softball diamond at the Fair Grounds to put it into shape was stressed by a number of the members and the grounds committee will see that this is done. Arrangements were made for holding a bee at the Fair Grounds on Wednesday afternoon Sept. 7th, when all the members are requested to be present to lend a hand in putting everything in shape.

The next meeting of the Board will be held on Tuesday evening next, at 8 o'clock, in the Agricultural Rooms.

A NATTRACTION PRIZE LIST

Three weeks from yesterday, September 21st, will be Stirling Fair and the Championship School Fair. During the past week the prize lists have been issued and it is doubtful if a more attractive list, especially in regards to the list of special prizes offered, has ever been offered. There have been a few changes made in the list, with over two hundred dollars being added in increased prizes, particularly in the homes and cattle classes, and all those interested in the Fair should make it a point to obtain a copy and peruse its contents — then plan to be an exhibitor.

In addition to the prizes offered by the Society, there are a number offered by the Horticultural Society for flowers. The list also includes a lengthy list of special prizes in the various classes, which far exceeds that of other years. The Committee in charge of this part of the work has been fortunate in securing some very fine prizes and it is hoped that the exhibitors, particularly the ladies, will show their appreciation with a large exhibit.

Altogether, it is an attractive list and there should be one of the largest exhibits in the history of the fair. It is only by the co-operation of the citizens of the district that the local Fair is able to carry on, and everyone should do his or her share to keep up the good work. The directors are confident that this year's fair will surpass any of the past. Let us help them realize their expectations.

SCHOOL OPENS

School bells will ring again on Tuesday morning next, after the summer vacation and the boys and girls of the village and throughout the province will again go back to their studies and further education. It is estimated that some 750,000 school children in Ontario alone will register on the opening date, many of them for the first time, while 700,000 teachers of the Dominion will return to their duties.

A new course of studies, which was inaugurated in the first six grades of the public schools last year will be enlarged this year to include the whole of the elementary course, while in the High Schools the second year of the new course will be introduced, thus making heavier demands upon the teachers.

At Stirling Public School the personnel of the staff will remain the same as last year, when good success was obtained under the leadership of Principal C. A. Wells. It is fully expected that the same high standard will be maintained during the coming year. While to the majority of those at the Public School, school life will be nothing new, there will be those who will be just making a start in the long grind for an education leading from public to high school, and thence to Normal School or University. For these beginners particularly we trust that their first impressions of school life will be pleasant ones and that they may make rapid progress in their studies. Stirling school is fortunate in having a teacher of exceptional ability in beginners' work in charge of this department and parents sending their children off to school for the first time may feel confident that they will receive expert attention.

At the High School there have been some changes in the staff, with three of the lady teachers resigning. To replace them, Misses Doris Cooper, B.A., Margaret Walt, B.A., and Helen Lacey, B.H.Sc., have been engaged. An addition has been erected to the old school to permit the teaching of Home Economics and General Shop Work, as well as providing space for an up-to-date gymnasium. The latest type of equipment is being installed throughout and everything is being done in order that both teachers and pupils shall have the best that can be obtained in accommodations and equipment. In past years the local school has had splendid results and many who hold high and responsible positions in different parts of Canada and even in the neighbouring country to the south, can thank the local institution for their early training. It ranks high with officials of the Department of Education, and holds an enviable position among the similarly-sized schools throughout the province. With the accommodation and equipment being brought up-to-date, the citizens of Stirling and community may well expect the reputation established in the past to be equalled in the years to come.

All the boys and girls of school age in the community should take advantage of the opportunities afforded them for obtaining an education in the local institutions and be on hand next Tuesday morning to begin their year's work. Parents are urged to co-operate with the teachers and have their children attend the first day regularly thereafter throughout the year. Such co-operation is forthcoming, little can be offered if a son or daughter fails to pass examinations set by the teachers at various times during the school year. It has been said that the boys and girls of today are the nation-builders of tomorrow, and who knows but that numbered among those who will start their education here next week there may be some of the great leaders of a few years hence.

CANADA YEAR BOOK 1938

The publication of the 1938 edition of the Canada Year Book, published by authorization of the Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education, etc. — in brief, a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1938 Canada Year Book extends to almost 1,200 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress which the country has made since the first census of the Dominion was taken in 1871, sixty-seven years ago.

Attention may be called to some of the more important features of the present volume.

In Chapter I, which treats of Physiography, a revised article on the Geology of Canada appears at pp. 16-27; Part III. — Seismology — last published in the 1931 Year Book is brought up to date this year; and a special article, "The Flora of Canada", prepared by John Adams, M.A. (Cantab.), Division of Botany, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, appears at p. 30-59 as Part IV. In Part VII, which deals with Climate and Meteorology, a new section and tables on Times of Sunrise and Sunset in Canada are given.

At pp. 78-90, an additional Part on Historic Sites and Monuments in Canada is added to Chapter II. A section on the Government of Canada's Arctic Territory has been added to Chapter III. At pp. 92-93, and at pp. 110-119, the provincial legislatures from 1924 to the present are tabulated, tying-in with the series from Confederation to 1933 published in the 1924 Year Book.

A special feature of Chapter VIII. — Agriculture — this year is the article appearing at pp. 223-230 dealing with the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Program inaugurated by the Dominion Government to alleviate the conditions brought about by the incidence of the recent agricultural crisis in the West, and to provide for permanent improvements in areas suffering from drought and soil-drifting.

All the space that could be spared in Chapter XIX. — Labour and Wages — has been given to a summary review of Labour Legislation in Canada, which appears at pp. 787-796, and to an extended treatment of Mothers' Allowances by individual provinces.

A list of special articles appearing in past editions from the year 1922-23 to 1937 will be found at page vi, immediately preceding the map of Canada.

There are over thirty maps and charts contained in the volume, and two photo-gelatine inserts illustrating the sections on "The Flora of Canada" and "Historic Sites and Monuments" respectively. Three lithographed maps are included.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession, a limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain copies at the nominal price of 50 cents each.

CURRENT COMMENT

Local disciples of Isaac Walton will note with satisfaction that the open season for speckled trout has been extended until September 15th. It is said the Department feels that the annual propagation and subsequent restocking of lakes and streams with this species of fish justifies the longer season.

Municipalities which have been collecting fees for the operation of slot machines will be definitely on the spot on and after September 1st, when the recent addition to the criminal code affecting these machines comes into force. It will either be a case of rebating the license fee or permitting their operation until the year is completed.

Next Monday, September 5th, is Labour Day and all places of business in Stirling will be closed for the day. Just a reminder that summer is over and within a few weeks will come cooler weather, with Jack Frost making his nightly visits. The next holiday will be Thanksgiving Day, and the time for doing many odd jobs about the home in preparation for winter will soon be here.

What Others Say

THEY KNOW THE SOUNDS

Some women who hear a man prowling around the house at 4 a.m. are frightened; others are married to men who fish. — Victoria Times.

HOME NEWS FIRST

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

If we were employing an announcer to give the news every day we imagine we would insist that he start off with the nearby news first and leave all this war talk to the last. At present one must listen to a lot of scare stuff put on the wires and cables by newsgatherers who must eat before they get to the stuff that the public wants to know. The old saying that a dog-fight in Ontario is more important than a war in Timbuctoo still holds good.

THE REASON IS PLAIN

In a letter to Toronto Globe and Mail one who signs, "Builder since 1881" says: "Eighty thousand young couples married so far this year and not one per cent. of them will buy a home and 70 per cent. will buy a motor car and live in apartments."

We are not vouching for the correctness of the figures; but the fact remains that while many are buying automobiles and living in apartments, very few are buying homes. And the explanation is in one word — Taxes. And the explanation for so many living in apartments and not in even rented houses lies in the same word — Taxes. With taxes on real estate what they are, there is not much inducement to build homes. — (Cornwall Standard Freeholder).

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

(Deseronto Post)

Many of the folks who find fault with their home towns, can't be persuaded to join any organization formed to improve that community.

The business people who complain of mail order competition, should note that kind of business was created by advertising. And advertising is the way to meet it. You can't keep a boy contented and satisfied with his home town, merely by saying "No" whenever he wants to try out something new. If he wants to try out some impossible scheme, make some practical suggestion in its place, by which he can earn money or improve his abilities.

RELIEF COSTS

(Napanee Beaver)

Dr. Manion, the newly-elected leader of the Conservative Party has come out definitely in favour of having the Dominion Government bear all the cost of relief in the country. The Premier of Ontario has been pressing for that for some time now. The large municipalities where the relief burden is particularly heavy are in sympathy with Dr. Manion's suggestion.

It seems strange, but it is nevertheless true, that many people even in responsible positions somehow or other think that they are getting rid of a debt or an obligation when they are able to transfer it to some other and more remote collecting agency. We have heard men on a school board, for example, justify an item of expenditure on the grounds that it would not be a charge on the municipality but would be covered by a Provincial grant. There is a tendency for the municipalities to look on the Provincial Government as a sort of Santa Claus and for the Provincial to have a similar view of Ottawa. It is self-evident and ought to be clear to every thinking person that there is no source of funds outside the people themselves. Ultimately the people pay. Whether they pay through the Dominion, through the Province, or through the Municipality, in the long run the money comes out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

So far as the smaller municipalities are concerned, and we speak of them because we know them best, the present arrangement works well. Here the needs of the people are fairly well known. Their conditions are personally investigated and the relief is granted after all factors have been taken into consideration. The municipal officers keep a sharp eye on these expenditures and do not allow undue extravagance, nor do they allow those to go on relief who should not be there.

We knew exactly how it would work out if the burden was shifted to the Dominion. There would be a slackening up all around. Municipal representatives would not need to be so careful, for they would not be held accountable to the electorate. The officers would become much more generous than they are at the present time. Of course, if that is the intention of the proposed change, well and good; but if it is hoped to get rid of an obligation by transferring it from one group to another, or if it is supposed that economies will be effected past experience leads us to believe that neither of these things will happen. We will not get rid of the obligation. It will have to be paid, and certainly a great deal more money would be spent on relief if the Dominion had charge of the whole administration than under the present system.

Taking these matters into account, it would appear that the present method of distributing the relief costs might better be left alone.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

Prusa depatches last week carried a story that brought the Old Sceptic out of hiding. Under a Detroit date-line, it was stated that Horace E. Dodge, designer, builder and driver of speedboats, had recommended to the committee in charge of the Gold Cup powerboat race that certain changes be made in the course of this year's Labor Day whirl, and also that the rules governing the contest, recognized as the premier piece of American speedboating, be revised. Just what revisions in rules and course Dodge had in mind were not given but Chairman Otto F. Barthel, of the committee in charge was quoted as being heartily in accord with the proposed changes.

The Old Sceptic, we said, has come out of hiding with one of his usual cynical interrogations. "I wonder," he wonders, "if the fact that Harold Wilson, of Ingersoll, Ont., is pointing to the big event with a specially designed and built boat has anything to do with the proposed changes?"

We all know that the Old Sceptic is nothing but an old sceptic, but still it must be granted that Wilson, perennial winner of the International 225 Class championship and other events at the Canadian National Exhibition, failed in last year's Gold Cup race at Detroit because of hull trouble. It is also true that Wilson has a new boat, Miss Canada III, specially built by Tom Greavette, of Gravenhurst, embodiment radical changes in hull design that Wilson believed would overcome the difficulties he encountered a year ago. The boat was launched a few weeks ago in Lake Muskoka, and its speed and general performance was said to have given the young Ingersoll speed-demon high hopes of bringing the Gold Cup to Canada.

Whether the purported last-minute rule and course changes will have any bearing on Wilson's chances is, of course, a moot point, but as the Old Sceptic points out, Wilson's boat is designed and built for the course as originally designated, and it is doubtful if revisions will greatly enhance his possibilities of victory.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — What fight-er added 15 pounds to his weight in one day? (Answer at foot of column).

The Martins and McCoy's said it with muskets in their famous Kentucky Hill feud, but Ontario's veteran feuders, W. A. "Old Bill" Fry, editor of the Dunnville Chronicle, and Walter McCullen, venerable one-legged sports editor of the Hamilton Spectator, carry on their little battle of jibes through the medium of type-writers and printers ink.

It seems that "Old Bill" was confined for a brief period to the hospital, and Walter offered the following comment: "William Alexander Fry has been confined to bed for a few days owing to a throat infection. He must have changed his brand of tonsil polish."

Back on his feet again, Bill was quick on the draw. His latest column states: "I am sorry to learn that Walter was in a bad way himself last week. A little bird told me that one day about five minutes before the Charles Street emporium's official closing time he put through an emergency call to one of the boys imploring him to hurry and secure a quart of jumped berry juice. It developed that termite had invaded his clothes closet and ganged upon his artificial underpinning. In this predicament he accepted Charlie McCarthy's advice for a sure cure if applied externally."

A YEAR AGO IN SPORT — On August 31, 1937, Frank Pritchard, of Buffalo, cleaved his way through the waters of Lake Ontario off the exhibition grounds at Toronto to win the C.N.E. men's swim and the professional 10-mile championship of the world. Bill Nolan, of Chelsea, Mass., was second and Gianni Gambi, of Italy, third, in what has turned out to be the last of the Exhibition "swims".

The introduction of six-man football this fall under a scheme sponsored by the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union may in the years to come be a boon to the game in small towns and villages. The abbreviated game was started in the United States several years ago, originated especially for the smaller centres where high school students longed for a chance to take part in the great fall pastime on an organized basis, but were denied the privilege because of lack of numbers. In the midwest game almost every school, no matter how small, was given a chance to have its own team, at a considerably reduced cost for equipment and without the necessity of a large playing field. Thrills were almost on a par with the regulation game, student body enthusiasm was no less rabid, and thousands of youths gained healthful outdoor exercise.

Without a doubt the six-man edition of football will spread in Canada as it has in the United States, and we venture to say that in a few years every small town, village or rural secondary school will be sponsoring the sport, along with a host of public schools in the larger centres. The result, as is hoped by the senior union that is instigating its inception in this country, should be greatly increased interest in the full-sized game in future years.

Doug Vaughan, writing in the Windsor Star, states that the six-man game has been played in Sudbury for several years. Joe Costigan, former Assumption College baseball and football star, and now director of athletics at Sudbury high school, is credited with fostering the pee-wee pigskin pastime in the north country. With no high schools within a feasible travelling distance, Costigan formed a six-man football league within the school, and had every able-bodied youngster take part.

SPORTS ODDITY — A jockey is considered an apprentice until a year after his first winning mount.

THIS AND DATA — The injury to Eric "Rusty" White, Fergus Thistles lacrosse star, allegedly resulting from a blow from the stick of Jerry Connell, Orillia centre man in a game two weeks ago, is the second serious handicap Connell has been involved in within the last six months. White is still in hospital in a critical condition with a fractured jawbone and acute infection due to ruptured blood vessels. In the closing game of the Port Colborne-Sailors-Toronto Good-years senior O.H.A. series late last winter Connell, playing on defence for the Sailors, sent "Red" Heron, Toronto centre-star, to hospital with a brain concussion following a collision between the pair. Another such incident would show the Hespeler giant in a decidedly bad light. Incidentally, he goes up to Springfield Indians on Canadiens Reserve list this coming winter. Canadian box-fighters are getting quite a play in New York these days. First was Frankie Genovese victory in the semi-final bout on the Ambers-Armstrong card. Last week Walt Franklin, native of Hamilton, wowed the Gothamites with a three-round kayo in the semi-windup to the Escobar-Dronilard go. The latter of course, is also a Canuck. Abe Eliowitz, former Ottawa and Montreal star in the Big Four, is trying out with the Detroit Lions pro football squad. St. Catharines hockey fans are whistling while they work, but Sarnians are moaning low. The reason — a new artificial ice plant is going up in St. Kitts, while similar plans in Sarnia have fallen through.

ANSWERS DEPT. — Mickey Walker, in the days when he was bossing the world's middleweights, often had to reduce 10 to 20 pounds to make the class limit. After one fight for which he had undergone a strenuous reducing campaign, the Toy Bulldog added 15 pounds the next day, merely by drinking water copiously.

FREAK THRESHING ACCIDENT DEPRIVES HORSE OF ITS TAIL

A peculiar and distressing accident occurred last week at the farm of Thane McIntosh, near Maple Ridge. Threshing operations were going forward with the grain being hauled from the field to the mill. A load was being threshed which had been brought in by Harold Windsor's team and whether it had been driven too close to the shaft and not far enough up along the belt is not known.

The day was warm and the horses, bothered by the flies, were switching their tails when the tail of one horse became entangled in the shaft and almost before one could move it was detached entirely from the animal. The horses made a break to run away and were controlled with difficulty. A veterinary was summoned and the loss of blood stopped but not before the animal was very much weakened, but is now regaining its strength. — Chesterville Record

MacMullen; Married Ladies' Race, Mrs. Clayton Wright; Cardboard Race, Couples, Eileen MacMullen, Karl Sharp and Annie Cooke and Hugh MacMullen; Tie Race, Couples, Quickest tied tie — Annie Cooke and Owen Sharp, nearest tied tie — Mrs. George MacMullen, Mr. Clayton Wright; Coat Race (Couples) Ormel MacMullen and Alma Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Leon MacMullen; Boys' Cup Race — Ormel MacMullen and Ralph MacMullen; Girls' Shoe Race — Annie Cooke, Mrs. C. Wright; Singing Contest, Mabel Sharp, Eileen MacMullen. Two Scramble Contests were held for Juniors and Seniors. Twenty took part in an "Eating Contest", and the winning side won chocolate bars. The sports were directed by Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Miss Bessie MacMullen, Mr. Clifford Sharp, Mr. Leon MacMullen, Mr. George MacMullen and Mr. James MacMullen. The afternoon passed all too quickly and those in attendance found it necessary to start on the homeward trail with plans made for a picnic in 1939.

SETS NEW RECORD

Captain George E. T. Eyston smashed the world's automobile speed record to shreds at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, on Saturday, boosting his own mark to 345.49 miles per hour. Roaring through the measured mile in two directions within one hour, the retired British army captain far exceeded his world land speed record of 311.42, chalked up here last November. Eyston's mighty "Thunderbolt" painted black to overcome a glaring sun which robbed him of a new record last Wednesday, hit 347.49 miles per hour on the outward trip and 343.51 miles per hour on the return jaunt.

Newlyweds Showered

A large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Warren, Bethel, on Tuesday evening to honour their son, Albert, and his bride. Rev. J. E. Beckel was master of ceremonies and after a few remarks presided over a short program. A reading was given by Mrs. Harry Preston, followed by a duet by Miss Irene Tucker and Mr. Eric Capelle. Speeches were given by Messrs B. C. Tucker, John Scott and John Farrell. Everyone then sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds". Mr. Clifford Green was then called upon to read the following address:

Sine, Ontario, August 23rd, 1938

Dear Albert and Leola, — Your friends of yesterday and today are gathered together tonight to wish you joy and happiness in your married life. So we are here to hope and pray that in all the years to come the way will grow brighter as the days go by.

Albert, we have known you all the days of your life. From childhood you have grown up with us. We have followed with interest your success in the educational world. We are glad to know you have secured the principality of a school nearer home, for we will see you more often. We feel assured that you will not only be the headmaster of a school but the real head of your home and that you will never forget the responsibility that rests on you to make your home a real happy one.

Leola, we do not know you so well. You are somewhat of a stranger amongst us. But stranger as you may be, we are going to take you into our hearts and affections. We are taking you on Albert's recommendation. We hope you will feel at home with us at once. We will follow your future with great interest and may you be happy in your new home. May you and your teacher husband live happily together, is our wish for you.

And now we want you to accept these gifts as an expression of our good will for you. Every time you look at them, please remember that back at Sine the people of Bethel Community are thinking of you and following you with their interests and prayers. And may God, who planned that two souls should be knit together as one, keep you and cause his face to shine upon you, and bless you all the days of your life.

Signed on behalf of your friends, Messrs Bill Sutherland, Wesley Farrell and Ray Sine stepped forward and presented them with a beautiful electric floor lamp and two occasional chairs.

Both Albert and his bride spoke very fittingly in appreciation of their kindness and for the beautiful gifts and invited all to visit them in their home at Frankford. Lunch was then served.

Following the shower, about mid-night, a group of young folks gathered on the lawn and enjoyed Albert and his bride a noisy charivari.

MARMORA MAN FOUND IN BARN LOFT
After being missing for two days Hugh Devine age 66 years, was found late on Friday, August 26th, in the hay loft of the barn on the farm of his sister, Mrs. Rose Johnston, near Deloro. His sister became anxious at his absence and notified Constable George O'Neill of Marmora, who made the search and found the body. Traffic Officer Hatch, of Marmora, assisted in the search. Upon finding the body, Dr. S. Eagleson, Coroner, Madoc, was notified and upon investigation he decided that death was from natural causes and an inquest was unnecessary. Death had occurred about 48 hours before the body was found. Surviving him are two brothers, Daniel Devine, Montreal, and Laughlin Devine, Spokane, Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Nelson Darling, Toronto, and Mrs. Rose Johnston, Deloro, Ont.

Theatrical News
"Conditions are so bad that the bouncers are throwing the customers in".

NAPPEKYNES

The perfect diner should tuck his napkin under his chin, some Chicago chefs claimed recently.

Napkins were used by the old Romans but for a very different purpose from that which they serve today. A guest at a dinner would wrap delicacies from the table and fruit baskets in his napkin and so carry them home. The general custom was to carry away food in this manner. The guest who neglected to do so risked hurting his host's feelings.

The old method of offering hospitality was to extend an invitation "to take sheet and napkin." The first written reference to the later useful article appears to have been in 1420 when it was referred to as "nappe-kyenne."

WM. BEDELL DIED AT DRESDEN

Word was received by Mr. Neil Bedell, of Minto, on Thursday, of the death of his brother, William Bedell, at Dresden, Ont., following a lengthy illness. The deceased was born on the second concession of Thurlow Township and was in his 86th year. When a young man, he learned the blacksmith trade at Mountain View, in Prince Edward County, and went to reside in Dresden nearly sixty years ago. He was a member of the Masonic Order of sixty years standing and was held in high esteem in the community. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, with interment in Dresden cemetery.

SALES PROMOTION HEAD IS APPOINTED BY HYDRO

Formation of a Hydro sales promotion department under the direction of Morris J. McHenry is announced by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, through its chairman and chief engineer, Dr. T. H. Hogg.

Mr. McHenry, the central figure in this new departure of Ontario's publicly-owned power system, will be responsible for dissemination of information on the varied uses of electric service. The Commission, it was explained in the announcement, believes that its duties are not fully discharged by simply making available low-cost electric service throughout the Province. It feels that if the great range of uses and benefits of electric service in the home, farm and industry were better known, the consumption of power would be increased and its cost to the consumer further diminished.

Long and intimate contact with the electrical industry and the power problems of Ontario highly qualify Mr. McHenry to direct this new department with the Hydro Commission. He was graduated from McGill University, Department of Electrical Engineering, in 1910; was associated with Messrs Smith, Kerry & Chase, consulting engineers, Toronto; in 1912 joined the staff of the Apparatus Division, Toronto District Office, Canadian Hydro Electric System, where he completed an extensive rehabilitation program; became sales manager of the Ferranti Electric Company Limited; and in 1926 returned to the Canadian General Electric Company as manager of the U.S. Sales Department. Since 1930 he has been Toronto district manager of C-G-E.

Widely known in power circles across the entire continent, Mr. McHenry is past president of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities of Ontario, and at present vice-president for Canada of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He is a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, and a former member of the Board of Governors. He is president of the Electric Service League, Toronto.

In his new capacity Mr. McHenry will report directly to the Ontario Hydro Commission, and he will commence his duties about the middle of September.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

© AUTOCASTER

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Mary decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

"You're hit," she cried. "Are you?" "I forgot," Dave answered. The last shot of the outlaw had seared his arm. Dorsey bandaged it expertly.

"How did you get here?" he asked. "I heard 'em talk about a girl and I thought it was Mary."

"I went home a little after dark. I put Rancho in the stable and went in the house. In the kitchen a man grabbed me and told me not to make a noise. There were two of them and one asked the other if they'd left the note. Then they put a sack over my head and tied me on my horse and we rode all night, it seemed. They treated me all right." She looked at Dave, her eyes puzzled. "What's this all about?"

"I dunno," Dave answered. "I was forced to sign over my share of our ranch to Crowell."

"Crowell? The man you and dad are looking for? The one behind the dynamiting?"

"Yeah," Dave nodded. "I thought he was behind it but there's someone else. Someone they all call boss. He's payin' Crowell for gettin' the ranch an' mine. Sayres and his gang for the dynamitin'." A wave of anger swept over Dave. "I'm going to get out of here an' track him down like—"

"Yes, that's your way, isn't it?" Dave swung around to face her. "Why what else should I do? What would any man—" he caught himself. "Here's the horses," he said quietly.

It was close to dusk when Dave and Dorsey neared the pass. Dave had been scanning the rocky ridge ahead of them that barred their way to the valley.

"It's a prison," he pronounced. "What will we do," Dorsey asked. "A little more butcherin'."

"Do you have to?"

"We've got to get by the guard at the pass," Dave said, "and he'll shoot."

They pulled in at a small draw and dismounted. Dave took the carbine from the saddle-bag.

Dorsey came close to him and laid a hand on his sleeve.

"Isn't there any other way besides blood?" she asked quietly.

He shook his head soberly. "It's us or them. It's gone too far to settle with words — or with law."

"I didn't make this war. When I got out of prison, I swore it would take plenty to rawhide me into goin' for my gun." His eyes narrowed and he looked off to the far horizon. "But that's not the way the world gives a man what belongs to him, I reckon. It's fight or die. I died for eight years. I'm goin' to live for a while."

Dorsey caught her breath. "Then it is true," she said slowly, "you are hard. You're cruel and ruthless. You are a — murderer!"

Dave flinched as if struck with a whip.

"Dorsey," his voice was pleading, "can't you see?"

"Please go," she said quietly.

Dave's lips were a grim line as he turned on his heel and strode off into the gathering dusk.

Dave paused to remove his boots. In the stillness, they seemed to make the noise of an army on the march. Paused he suddenly jerked erect and listened. Behind him, farther down the ridge he could hear the crunching of bootsoles on rock.

"Some ranny saw me and is followin'," he thought savagely. He raised his head above the edge of the rock and waited.

Slowly, the man was making his way forward against the skyline. Dave saw him raise up and listen. Dave drew a bead on him, then let his Colt slack. A shot would alarm the guard for sure and give him away. The man was close now. He could hear the quiet breathing of the man as he passed by the rock, apparently listening. Strangely, then, the man seated himself on the rock behind which Dave was hidden.

With noiseless effort, Dave hoisted himself on the rock and lunged at the sitting figure. The force of his spring took them both sprawling on the ground. Dave's hand was on the stranger's throat, but the force of the man's great strength was not easy to calm.

Suddenly, the man ceased struggling and Dave eased off his hands.

Then: "Dave Turner, jug-headed murderin' fool!"

"Rosy! My God — I thought you'd be dead."

"I near am," Rosy muttered.

"How'd you know it was me?" Dave asked.

"When you lowered your head, I hit that place where the bushwhacker slammed you, but you was hanging on to me like a burr. I aimed to play dead so's you'd take your hand off my throat."

"Did that guard see you?"

"I don't think so."

"And he's on this rock?"

Rosy said he was. They sat a moment listening to see if they had alarmed the guard, but the night was soundless.

"Dorsey Hammond's here," Dave said tonelessly. "They kidnapped her."

"Dorsey Hammond?" Rosy asked incredulously. "Why — I never heard about it. Are you sure? he checked himself. "Let's go on. We got some work ahead of us. Near as I can make out, this here rock he's on is cup shaped and a little higher than the rest of the hill."

They decided that Dave was to go down the slope, circle around, hide himself and open fire. Rosy was to approach the rampart from the ridge.

"Then let's go," Rosy said.

Dave disappeared down the side of the scarp and Rosy continued ahead. Worming his way forward for nearly twenty minutes, pausing to listen occasionally, he finally achieved a round knob of rock which he had noted from below as being close to the rampart.

He could smell cigarette smoke, hear the slight movement of the man on top in the cup. A veering of the wind carried the smell of cedar smoke to him and he guessed the man had built a small fire.

He smiled. "Fool," he thought. "If he looks out into the night from that fire he couldn't see a cavalry troop."

A shot from below electrified him and he knew Dave was cached cosily behind a rock, shooting at random. Rosy heard the loud hiss of water on coals as the guard extinguished his fire. The answering shot was loud and close.

Rosy hoisted himself up. With a stifled curse he heard his gun butt scrape loudly on the rock.

The guard whipped around, raised his rifle and a lance of orange licked out. Rosy fanned the gun desperately, waiting for a bullet to pick him off and send him careening down among the rocks. He saw the limp body of the guard inch down the wall until it rested in the smoking fire.

Rosy pulled himself over the rim and hulked loudly. Dave answered him dimly from below. Then he turned the body over, struck a match and saw the man was dead, three bullets in his chest.

He loaded his Colt thoughtfully, shrugged and let himself down the slope.

Dave was waiting when Dorsey at the pass when he reached it.

It took Laredo three minutes to get a saddled horse from the livery stable after he had left the sheriff's office.

He rode slowly north up the valley, leading the horse. When he was out of sight of the town, he left the road and started up the mountains to the east. Where the mountains broke for the railroad tracks in a deep pass he paralleled the tracks for three miles or so.

When he heard the freight train come slogging up the grade he watched it quietly. As the last three cars disappeared, Laredo saw a man swing off the caboose.

Then the man turned and surveyed the country around him. Laredo stood up and waved an arm and the man walked over to him. The newcomer was dressed in laced boots, clean but faded breeches and an open-necked khaki shirt. He was a middle-aged man, broad of face and quiet of eye. He smoked a pipe set comfortably in a wide mouth.

He greeted Laredo quietly, a glint of amusement in his deep-set eyes.

"Hullo, Chuck."

They mounted and started back over the same trail Laredo had come. Laredo's companion studied him. Finally he spoke.

"When are you goin' to tell me what this is all about, Laredo? Why all the secrecy?"

"It's a long story, Chuck. A lot of it I don't know, and I'm dependin' on you to tell me."

"What about?"

"I dunno," Laredo persisted. "That's what I got you up here for. All we got to do now is to ride for a while and then you can tell me."

"Ride how far?" I should catch the night train out."

And after that Laredo did not talk. When they had passed the lake on the way to the D Bar T, Laredo left the trail that angled down to the ranch and picked his own. The two horsemen skirted the base of Old Cartridge which jutted down to the lake and headed north toward the mountains.

As dusk settled into dark, Chuck gave up trying to keep directions and let his horse have its head. With the precision of years of practice, Laredo went deeper and deeper into the canyons.

They had ridden an hour in this when Laredo drew up.

He dismounted and Chuck heard him go off a short distance. When he returned, something clanged at his side.

"Here's a lantern," he said. "Light up and come with me."

Chuck did as he was bid and in the flickering circle of light cast by the lantern he followed Laredo. The canyon narrowed until its width could be spanned by stretching the arms, and a cool dank smell of wet rock surrounded them. Suddenly they stepped out of the bottleneck on to the sparse grass of a little amphitheater.

"Here's the place," Laredo said. He squatted on his heels by the lantern and rolled a cigarette carefully.

"For a month, off and on, I been watchin' a hombre dig here. What I want to know is, what is he dug?"

He picked up the lantern and moved over toward one of the walls. A tight-mouthed tunnel appeared before them and Laredo motioned Chuck inside.

Chuck set his lamp on the floor at the end with a smothered oath. A single, short-handled pickaxe lay on the floor.

"Have you been lookin' at the walls here?" he asked Laredo slowly, unbelievably.

Laredo nodded. Chuck pointed. "Hell, he don't need a pick. You can pick those nuggets out with a pocket-knife."

"So it's gold?" Laredo asked.

"We've passed fifty thousand dollars' worth in the last twenty-five steps," Chuck said slowly. "Man! Somebody's so rich they can use solid gold bits for every horse in their stable. Who owns it?"

Laredo shook his head and spat precisely. "Not me. Not the jasper that's been minin' it either."

"You mean somebody that doesn't own it has done this work?"

Laredo nodded. "He figured it would be his some day, so it wasn't wasted."

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Sugar Beet Crop

The beet crop never looked more promising than it does this year. The commercial crop of approximately 26,000 measured acres is uniformly good in all districts, and losses since seedling have been slight. An abundant growth and healthy appearance of leaves gives promise of good root development, and unless high temperatures with excessive humidity cause Leaf Spot within the next few weeks, the yield should be excellent. With a guaranteed price of one dollar per ton above that of last year, the price compares favourably with prices of other farm crops, most of which are below the level of a year ago.

Corn For Husking

Two thirds of corn for husking crop in Ontario is grown in the Counties of Essex and Kent. In Essex the condition at the present time is particularly promising with fields showing a good colour. Even fields planted the latter part of June, which may not mature, are making satisfactory progress. In Kent the major part of the acreage was planted six to eight days later than usual and for a time growing conditions were not favourable. During recent weeks, however, excellent growing conditions have prevailed and crop prospects are reported good at the present time. There are some indications that the corn borer infestation may show an upward trend this year, but it is too early yet to forecast to what extent the crop may be injured, although the vigorous growth will doubtless tend to offset the damage. The acreage of corn for husking this year is estimated at 180,130 acres as compared with 165,593 acres in 1937.

The Tobacco Crop

Heavy precipitation throughout the flue-cured tobacco districts, together with high temperature during the first three weeks of August, promoted very rapid growth of the tobacco crop. Har-

Heavy Traffic

A car puffed laboriously along the muddy country road. Finally the driver became discouraged when the boughs of overhanging trees threatened to stop his car. He saw a rustic and said to him, "You don't have many cars along this way, do you?"

The man took plenty of time before he replied, "Certainly we do. What about it?"

"How many have come past lately?" the driver asked.

"Well," replied the rustic, "there was one last year and two the year before — and now you're here."

Rural Free Delivery

A Kansas farmer stopped at a bank to see if he could get a loan on his farm.

"It might be arranged," said the banker. "I'll drive out with you and appraise it."

"You don't need to bother," said the farmer noticing a huge cloud of dust rolling up the road. "Here it comes now."

Yes, and Mrs. Sippi

A curious inquirer asked: "What are the sister States?" And the brilliant country editor answered:

"We are not quite sure, but we should judge that they are Miss Ourl, Ida Ho, Mary Land, Callie Fornia, Allie Bama, Louisa Anna, Della Ware and Minnie Sota."

Thin as Cards

The landlady brought in a plateful of extremely thin slices of bread and butter, which rather dismayed her hungry men boarders.

"Did you cut these, Mrs. Brown?" said one.

"Yes — I cut them," came the stern reply.

"Oh!" went on the boarder. "All right; I'll shuffle and deal!"

A. H. MARTIN, BRIGHTON, ASST. DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE

Appointment of George Wilson, of Simcoe, as Director of the Markets and Co-operation Branch and Chairman of the Marketing Board was announced, among other departmental promotions and retirements, by Hon. P. M. Dewar, Minister of Agriculture, recently.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College. For several years he has been manager of the Norfolk Berry Growers' Association and has been associated with the Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association.

W. B. Somerset, whom Mr. Wilson succeeds, held the position of Commissioner of Marketing, but was not Chairman of the recently established and all-important Marketing Board, through which Mr. Dewar aims to better the position of the Ontario farmer.

James C. Shearer, Principal of the Kemptville Agricultural School, has been named Agricultural Representative in Huron County, with headquarters at Clinton. M. C. McPhail, Present Assistant Director of the Agricultural Representative Branch, will take over the Kemptville principalship, and he will in turn be succeeded at Queen's Park by A. H. Martin, Agricultural Representative for the County of Northumberland. Ian McLeod, the Agricultural Representative in Huron, has been transferred to Northumberland, with headquarters at Brighton.

John H. Scott, who has been chief creamery instructor in the Dairy Branch since 1924, will be superannuated and his place will be taken by J. L. Baker, a creamery instructor with residence in Belleville.

All changes, Mr. Dewar stated, would be effective from Sept. 1.

number of Canadians have been "doubling up" and it is common to find two or even three families being housed under one roof, whereas in former days this did not take place except in rare cases. Furthermore, there are a great many homes that have been converted into so-called apartments, especially in the larger cities, and these one, two or three rooms usually greatly handicap these low-income individuals because there is a lack of space or other healthful considerations for the natural development of family life since many old homes that used to house an average Canadian family, now house twenty or more persons.

These conditions are serious. It is not a case where the Federal authorities are merely anxious because the construction and allied industries are unable to progress in a normal manner. It is not a case where the authorities are very ambitious to create artificial stimulation of business and in this way to emulate the experiments of other progressive governments. It is not a case where the authorities are solely interested in investing $100,000,000 to try something which may or may not improve the economic conditions of the land, or temporarily increase employment. That is certain. Many artificial stimulants in recent experiments have turned out to be contrary reactionary forces, and at the present time there is a decided increase of public opinion against any such movements which may reverse progress of a natural kind. Just as chemicals are used to arouse the spirits of sick individuals and which is followed by a depression of spirits when the reaction sets in, likewise it is recognized in official circles that mere artificial stimulation is not desired in Canada. It is reported amongst well-informed persons along Parliament Hill that the Dominion Government is trying to help the low income classes and the relief recipients throughout Canada, and this housing scheme is nothing but a start in a drastic campaign by the authorities to bring about the social betterment of a great many worthy Canadians, whose misfortunes are not due to their faults or misdeeds. When the Privy Council rejected certain social legislation of the Dominion Parliament as ultra vires of that body's jurisdiction, it was known along Parliament Hill that political leaders of all parties in Ottawa were in accord with the idea that the betterment of the people must be achieved, even if it is obtained by methods which are indirect or not straightforward. Hence, it is to be expected that within the next twelve months there will be much Federal legislation along this line, and the man in the street in Canada may be misled by mere casual study of the headlines, though in deeper it will be found to be nothing but social betterment enactments. This is the real story behind the gigantic one hundred million dollars housing scheme.

(Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate).

BEHIND THE HEADLINES
OTTAWA
(By Dean Wilson)

While the Dominion Government has sanctioned a gigantic one hundred million dollars low-rental housing scheme with the official explanation that the authorities desire to provide a greater impetus to the building and allied industries in this country, yet this is not the whole story behind this headline. According to the story reaching the Capital, the man on the street throughout Canada is under the impression that the whole object of this giant financing plan is to imitate the similar schemes of the Governments of the United States and Great Britain, who are spending over five million dollars a day at the present time solely for the purpose of increasing the chances of employment for skilled and unskilled workmen who are engaged in construction or allied industries, with the possibility that in time these projects will stimulate the activities of the economic life throughout the nation. This is the official explanation, and it must be admitted that it is one of the purposes of the heavy investment on the part of the authorities. However, there are other objects, though practically not a line of publicity has been given to them.

It is known in the Capital that during the past six years the building of new homes or other premises which house human beings has been suffering one of the most serious slumps in the history of Canada, and experts along Parliament Hill estimate that it would take about fifteen years to recoup the losses. The average and normal year requires that about 30,000 new dwellings be constructed in this country in order that proper and healthful provision be made for the natural growth of the population. In other words, it is absolutely necessary that the building industry should keep pace with the developments of the land, but that has not taken place by any standard of measurement. The results have been far more serious than it would appear to be the case from a mere surface study of the situation.

In the first place, the authorities in Ottawa are aware that there are many houses throughout Canada which are unsuitable for human habitation in their present condition, and they require either complete demolition or they should be repaired. Since the 1929 crash of the economic markets throughout the whole world, there are a great many Canadians who have entered the low-income class or who are on the dole lists, and they live in houses that are really unfit and even dangerous to the health, morale and well-being of these unfortunate citizens or their families.

In the second place, the authorities in the Capital know that the young men and women of Canada are not marrying in the same number or at as early an age as used to be the case prior to the commencement of economic troubles on any wholesale scale, with the added qualification that whenever marriages did take place in Canada the younger generation was inclined to live with parents, or in any event, they did not build or occupy individual homes on account of the distressed economic conditions.

In the third place, the authorities have found that an unusually large

WM. WOODS NAMED PRESIDENT

On Wednesday, August 17th, the descendants of John and Mary McGee Woods gathered at Tweed Memorial Park to hold their first reunion. There were about one hundred and thirty-five present from the United States and different parts of Ontario.

Shortly after dinner, all present were called together by the President, Mr. Wm. Woods, of Tweed. One of the most interesting features of the day was the history of the Woods family, given by Mr. Fred Woods, of Wyoming, N.Y. A telegram of regret at not being able to be present was read by the Secretary from Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Woods, Melfort, Sask.; also letters from Mr. Lester Wilkie, Warsaw, N.Y., and Mrs. Frank Diamond, Salmon Arms, B.C. A prize was awarded to Mrs. Meggie Curtis, being the oldest person present; to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woods, Wyoming, N.Y. for coming the greatest distance.

The following officers were elected for another year:

President—William Woods, Tweed.
Secty-Treas.—Reta Woods, Belleville.

Committee—Wm. Marshall, Plainfield, Robert A. Woods, Madoc; Alfred Woods, Belleville.

Sports Committee—Hilda Kilpatrick, Ivanhoe; Francis Harris Cooper; Cecil Woods, Crookston.

It was decided to hold another reunion next year on the fourth Wednesday in August, at Tweed Memorial Park.

A program of sports was held, the prize winners as follows:

Girls, 1-5 — Gwen Linn.
Boys, 1-5 — Donald Woods.
Girls, 6 to 9 — Shirley Fox.
Boys, 6-9 — Ernest Rodgers.
Girls, 10-13 — Ruth Woods.
Boys, 10 to 13 — Ruth Woods.
Boys, 14 to 17 — Florence White-man.

Young Men's Race — George Woods.

Young Women's three-legged race — Evelyn Downey and Eileen Parks.
Wheel-barrow Race — Ernest Hollis and Lorne Holmes.

Obstacle Race — Mrs. Stanley Thompson.

The remainder of the day was spent in playing ball and swimming.

LADIES! ATTENTION!

All good cooks of the district will be much interested to know that the millers of Robin Hood Flour have agreed to duplicate a number of the cash prizes offered in the baking contest included in the Stirling Fall Fair Prize List, providing the winning exhibits are baked with Robin Hood Flour.

All interested may find the events to which this offer applies by referring to the prize list. There is a worthwhile sum of money to be won, and we have no doubt that competition will be keen.

JEREMIAH WILSON

One of Rawdon Township's oldest and most highly respected residents passed away early Monday morning, August 22nd, when Mr. Jeremiah Wilson, of Springbrook, lifelong resident of that district, died at the home of Mrs. George Green, in Stirling. The late Mr. Wilson was in his eighty-sixth year, was born in Rawdon Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wilson. Possessed of a kindly disposition, he will be sadly missed by a wide circle of friends. The many floral tributes gave silent testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew him. He was a faithful member of Springbrook United Church and was well known as a rural mail carrier for many years.

The funeral service was held at two-thirty on Wednesday, August 24th from the home of Mrs. George E. Green in Stirling, to Springbrook United Church. The service at the home was conducted by Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, of Stirling, who delivered a message of comfort to the sorrowing ones. Rev. Harding, of Springbrook United Church, conducted the services at the church and graveside.

The late Mr. Wilson was twice married, his first wife being, Mrs. Hannah Burkitt Mason and his second, who survives him, was formerly Mrs. Charlotte Parkes Kemp.

Left to mourn his passing, besides his sorrowing widow are two sons, Mr. W. Mason, of Lindsay, Mr. N. Mason, of Belleville; a third son, Marshall Mason predeceased him some years ago. There are also three sisters, Mrs. Andrew Reid, Springbrook, Mrs. Alexander Rennie, Pierson, Man., and Mrs. John W. Belsh, of Superior, Wis. John Lewis Wilson and Adam Henry Wilson, brothers of the deceased, passed away some years ago. Also three sisters, Mrs. Harrison Stickley, Mrs. Andrew Reid and Mrs. Jas. F. Danford.

The pallbearers were: Robt. Fleming, Geo. Bailey, Hiram Mumby, Cecil Bateman, Kenneth Thompson and George Williams.

Interment was made in Mount Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook, Ont.

REV. A. S. McCONNELL SPEAKER AT MEMORIAL SERVICE

Frankford I.O.O.F., L.O.L. and Veterans held Decoration Day on Sunday afternoon, headed by the Citizens' Band, the organizations paraded to the local cemeteries where the graves were decorated.

Rev. J. F. Lane opened the ceremonies with prayer. A short service was held around the cenotaph in Memorial Park afterwards. Wreaths were placed on the cenotaph by the Veterans, I.O.O.F. and L.O.L. Rev. A. S. McConnell, of Stirling, addressed the gathering there. Graves were also decorated in Stockdale cemetery.

STACK IS FIRED AND BURNED

When a ball of fire was blown from the blower of a threshing machine into a stack of straw on the farm of James Hinchcliffe, fifth concession of Sidney, near Wallbridge, it completely destroyed the barn by fire late Monday afternoon, despite the efforts of a volunteer fire brigade quickly organized. The threshing machine was burned in the fire, this also being owned by the Hinchcliffe family. Fourteen hundred bushels of grain, a quantity of hay and other articles were burned but no livestock was lost due to all the animals being in other buildings or in the pasture field. The implement shed was saved after great difficulty. The barn was a commodious one and was covered by insurance. Loss to Mr. Hinchcliffe was estimated at $3,000.

SAMUEL D. MCGEE PASSES

Word was received by relatives here on Monday of the death of Samuel D. McGee, of Strasburg, Sask., in a Regina hospital. The late Mr. McGee, who was 62 years of age, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McGee, Ridge Road, and has resided in the West for the past 45 years. Mrs. Elgin Jackman, of Stirling, is a sister and Messrs Geo. H. McGee, of Rawdon, Archie B. and Thos. J. of Stirling, are brothers, all of whom have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement.

F. J. McARTHUR, EX-M.P.P., DIES AT COBBOURG

Fred J. McArthur, prominent business man of Cobourg, died suddenly after being in poor health for over a year. He was formerly Conservative Member in the Ontario Legislature for Northumberland County. Survivors are his widow, Ethel Pierce, and his father, James McArthur.

He was born in Toronto in 1882 and after his marriage in 1910, came to Cobourg where he opened an undertaking establishment. He was very interested in public and community life, was a member of the council for nine years and Mayor for three; also former Member of Parliament for Northumberland. He was also a member of the Rotary Club, I.O.O.F., and Masons.

A. J. LANDBERG WEDS MISS MABEL SEENEY

Rev. Kingsley Joblin officiated at the marriage in Deer Park United Church chapel, Toronto, of Mabel Ellen Seene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Seene, of Campbellford, to Alfred Johnson Landberg, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Landberg, of Geneva, Ill. Pink gladioli decked the chapel and wedding music was played by J. Shaw. The bride wore a gown of pink lovers' knot lace and net over taffeta with matching shoes and gloves. Her blush pink fingertip veil was caught in a cluster of roses in her hair. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Bridesmaid was Mrs. D. Lush, wearing bolero jacket and roseberry accessories, and carrying roses. Best man was H. R. Roth. For the wedding trip to the Atlantic coast, the bride wore a blue knitted suit with navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Landberg will live in Toronto.

MRS. JOHN KINNEY

The funeral of Mrs. John Kinney, who died in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, early Thursday morning, took place on Sunday afternoon from her late residence, Victoria. The Rev. A. E. Smith officiated. Interment was made in St. George's Cemetery.

Mrs. Kinney was the daughter of Mrs. George Labey and the late Mr. Labey and had spent all her life in and around Trenton. She was an ardent worker in the different societies of St. George's Anglican Church.

Surviving, besides her husband and mother, are two children, Douglas and Marjorie, both at home, and one brother, Patrick, Trenton, and four sisters, Dorothy Labey, Toronto; Mrs. Martin Dean (Heien), London; and Mrs. Potts (Gertrude), Saskatoon, Sask., and Evelyn Labey, at home.

Pallbearers were C. Saylor, W. B. McClung, G. Flynn, M. Anderson, H. D. Graham and Dr. Renton. — Trenton Courier Advocate.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE AND GROOM AT HAROLD

The spacious residence and lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Bailey was almost taxed to capacity on Friday evening of last week when between 150 and 200 friends and neighbours gathered to do honour to their son, Clarence, and bride, recently returned from their honeymoon.

Mr. Geo. Thompson acted as chairman for the occasion and a varied program of music, speeches, readings and solos was carried out.

Mrs. Carmen Sine read the address to the newlyweds, after which they proceeded to unwrap the many gifts which were beautiful and costly. In a few well-chosen words both the bride and groom thanked all the guests

Dear Clarence and Irene,

We, your many friends and neighbours, have taken uninvited possession of your home this evening to express to you our congratulations and best wishes, and to show you that you hold a warm place of esteem in our hearts.

Although you have been away from our community for some time, Clarence, we have been following your career with interest, watching you take the hard things in stride with the easy, watching you put into practice the Christian lessons that your early background has taught you. We have admired as individuals and as a unit the cooperation and character you have shown in connection with every church activity at Springbrook. As League President, as member of the young men's class, as a choir and church member, and as a willing worker in all social interests, you have earned and won a warm place in the community that time alone can efface. As day-school teacher in Springbrook and the twelfth line schools, you have many admirers and well-wishers among our younger members. We offer our very sincere congratulations to you in this, your recent marriage, and trust that you will have none but kind and pleasant memories of your associations here.

Although we have not had the pleasure of meeting you before, Mrs. Bailey, we would like you to know that our welcome to you is genuine, and as time goes on, we hope to deepen our acquaintance. We congratulate you on your choice of life-partner and wish for you a sunny future full of joys and delights of a well balanced union.

We ask you to accept as a token of our esteem and gratitude, these gifts, and may they serve as pleasant memories of happy days among Your Church and Community Friends — Doris Fleming, Edna Bateman, Glen Heath, Carman Sine.

BEAUTY PROBLEMS

DISCUSSED BY

Barbara Lynn

Eminent Beauty Authority and Adviser, who writes weekly articles on Beauty Problems for many Canadian Newspapers.

BLEMISHES TO BEAUTY

There are few women who haven't some blemishes which worry them. Quite often they dwell on it to such an extent that it becomes an obsession. They imagine other people's pitying glances when, in most cases, the fear is mostly in their own minds.

However, most blemishes are susceptible to treatment, and in this article I am going to deal with one or two of the most common beauty worries; those which crop up so frequently in your letters to me.

Blackheads are a plague, and there is no method of eliminating them permanently. You can do much to prevent their appearance, though, by properly cleansing your face, and by using a good tissue cream, as well as by tabooring rich foods and eating, instead, lots of vegetables and fruit.

To Remove Blackheads

To remove blackheads, wash your face thoroughly with soap and water. Next cover the affected area with a flannel wrung out in hot water. This opens the pores. Soften your finger tips with small pads of cotton-wool and gently squeeze out the blackhead. Don't neglect to dab the spot where it has been with peroxide of hydrogen to disinfect and close the pores.

Tiny red veins on the cheeks worry a lot of women. They can be cured by electrical treatment, but this costs quite a lot of money. The remedy for most people is to wear a fairly heavy make-up.

Avoid washing in either very cold or very hot water, if you wish to prevent the veins getting worse. Don't use violent friction on the face.

Birthmarks and scars are the source of untold misery to people at all sensitive. These again, can be removed, but the treatment entailed is so expensive that it is beyond the purse of most people.

However, don't despair. Clever make-up will minimise, if it does not entirely obscure the blemishes.

Write for Advice

I shall be delighted to send you more detailed information on the treatment of blemishes, as on any other beauty problem. Write me and enclose a 3c stamp for confidential reply.

The following special leaflets have been prepared and you may obtain any of them by sending a 3c stamp for each one required: How to Slim; The Face — and Its Care; Underweight; Superfluous Hair; Reducing in Spots — Thighs, Arms, Hips, etc.; Hand Beauty; Bust Development; Care of the Feet; Your Hair; Eye Beauty. These leaflets are up-to-the-minute and deal exhaustively with their subjects.

Fair Board Meeting

A meeting of the Directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society was held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday evening to make further arrangements for the Fall Fair on September 20th and 21st.

Arrangements were made for distribution of the advertising and Messrs F. R. Mallory and H. R. Tompkins were appointed a publicity committee. Secretary Mallory reported his inability to secure the services of Messrs R. M. Holby or Napier for cattle judge, but thought this matter could be attended to within a few days.

To Hold Bee

Arrangements were also made for the holding of a bee at the Fair Grounds on Monday next, commencing at one o'clock, when the grounds will be pit in shape for the Fair. Every member of the Society is requested to turn out and assist.

Members present at the meeting were Messrs J. B. Thompson, F. R. Mallory, E. J. Pyar, Gil Thompson, C. F. Linn, Wm. Fitchett, E. Carlisle, Arthur Scott and H. R. Tompkins.

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

Owing to Monday last being Labour Day and a public Library, the regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Council was postponed until Monday evening next, September 12th.

A FREAK POTATO

Mr. T. McConnell, who resides on John St., is claiming the record for growing the largest potato in the district this season, and he has the proof for his claim. On Tuesday he displayed at this office a potato of unusual size and shape taken from his garden. It is really twelve potatoes of varying sizes in one, and weighs three pounds.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

About 4.30 Sunday afternoon two cars were involved in a collision at the corner of Front and North streets, when a Chevrolet coach driven by H. Dafoe, Rawdon, struck another car driven by Morley Phillips of the village. Both vehicles were damaged slightly, but no one was injured.

GIRLS' TEAM IN TORONTO

Hastings County Girls' Team are in Toronto this week taking part in the Judging competitions at the Canadian National Exhibition. The young ladies, who were accompanied by Mr. H. L. Fair, local Agricultural Representative, left on Tuesday for the city. The team comprises Mrs. Bessie Frederick, Mrs. Margaret Irvine and Miss Eileen Mitts, of Holloway, and Miss Lillian Pigden, of Madoc.

FAMILY RE-UNION IS ENJOYED

EGGLETON DESCENDANTS GATHER FOR ANNUAL RALLY AT OAK LAKE

On Wednesday, August 31st, the annual picnic of the Eggleton family was held at Sars' Beach, Oak Lake, with a fair number in attendance. After dinner the president, Mr. George A. Eggleton, called the gathering to order, and in a short address welcomed all present. Mention was made of five of the number who had passed away during the past year. A two-minute silence was observed in memory of these.

Mr. Robt. Eggleton, Hon. Pres., was then called on and gave a brief address urging all present to do their best to make the picnic a success and to encourage more to attend.

After this the election of officers took place as follows:

Hon. Pres. — Mr. Robt. Eggleton.
President — Mr. Irvin Eggleton.
Secretary — Mrs. George Pidgeon.
Committee — Mrs. Bert Eggleton, Mrs. Hector Eggleton, Mr. Edward Clarke, Mr. Albert Twiddy, Mr. Cleo Gay, Mr. Ramsay Cooney.

It was moved and seconded that picnic be held next year at Sars' Beach, Oak Lake, on the first Wednesday in August.

With Messrs Bert Eggleton and Clarence Fitchett as directors the following sports took place: Children up to 6 years, candy scramble; Girls' race, 6 to 10 years, Marie Gay, Hanger; M. Gay, comb; Rosella Fitchett, ball. Boys' race, 6 to 10 years, Ivan Eggleton, pencil; Jimmie Gay, pencil. Girls' race, 10 to 14 years, Helen Fitchett, fancy plate; Dorothy Gay, picture; Marie Gay, brooch. Boys' Race, 10 to 14 years, Clarke Pidgeon, handkerchief; Bertie Eggleton, pocket knife; Freddie Eggleton, mouth organ. Young ladies' potato race, Mrs. Harold Wilson. Young Men's Race, Lawrence Wilson, tooth paste.

Married Couples' Tie Race — Marjorie Blakely, treat; Irvin Eggleton, cup and saucer. Youngest member present, Bobby Eggleton, china mug. Oldest Lady present, Mrs. Robt. Eggleton, glass tray. Oldest Gentleman Present, Mr. James Stapley, socks. Largest Family present, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eggleton, Glass Relish Dish. Member from greatest distance attending picnic, Mrs. Blakely, table mats. Grandmother with most grandchildren at picnic, Mrs. Robt. Eggleton, tea pot.

After the sports the older members enjoyed a good visit while the younger members went swimming or for boat rides on the lake.

LATE HARRY HERBERT ALGER, M.D., M.C.

DR. H. H. ALGER PASSES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

RESIDENT OF STIRLING SINCE 1900 — ACTIVE IN MANY MUNICIPAL ORGANIZATIONS AND IN MILITARY LIFE — SERVED IN SEVERAL CAPACITIES IN ANGLICAN CHURCH

On Sunday, September 4th, at the Belleville General Hospital Dr. Harry Herbert Alger, of Stirling, Ont., passed to his rest after a long and active life in the town where he had made his home and served in various capacities for nearly forty years.

Dr. Alger was born in the vicinity of Colborne, Ont., in 1868, and after his elementary education entered Trinity College, Toronto, graduating with the degrees of M.D. and C.M. in 1893. He came to Stirling and opened his practice in 1905. During the long years that followed, he proved himself a valuable and energetic citizen by his many public activities. For many years he has been connected with the School Board, of which he was Chairman for some time, and was always keenly interested in the progress of that body. Dr. Alger was Medical Officer of Health, a Coroner of Hastings County, and C. N. R. Doctor (during the whole time he lived in Stirling).

For nearly forty years he was keenly interested in the Military life, having been associated with the old 49th Regiment, Hastings Rifles. At the outbreak of the Great War, in the service of the C.A.M.C. he became M.O. of the 80th Batt., with which unit he went overseas. He was gazetted as Lt.-Col. in 1915 and served with other units including the 124th Batt., as M. O., and was present at Vimy Ridge, Lens, Passchendaele, in 1917, returning from overseas in January, 1919.

Dr. Alger was a member of the Church of England, and served his church with distinction. For 26 years (with the exception of those years spent in active service) he was Church Warden at St. John's Church, Stirling, which post he still held at his death. In the wider field he was a member of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario, a valued member of the Diocesan Executive Committee and other Committees, and also a member of the Provincial and General Synods of the Church of England in Canada. His loss will be very greatly felt in both the Parish in which he served and the wider fields of activity.

In 1901 he married Berta C. Huyck, A.T.C.M., of Frankford, Ontario, who survives him, along with their only daughter, Mrs. John Villoteau, who with her husband and two children, lives in France.

The Funeral

Many people from all walks of life in Stirling and community turned out to pay final respect to the memory of one of its best known citizens, the late Dr. H. H. Alger, whose funeral took place from the residence to St. John's Anglican Church on Wednesday, Sept. 7th. The brief service at the house was conducted by the Rector of the Parish and Major Rev. A. B. Payne, of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville. The active pall-bearers were Messrs J. B. Belshaw, Walter Wright, N. A. Heath, Earl A. Morrow, H. C. Martin and P.

N. McKee, while the following officers acted as Honorary Pallbearers: Col. R. Vanderwater, D.S.O.; Lt.-Col. E. W. McLean, Picton; Lt.-Col. E. A. Geen; Lt.-Col. B. C. Donnan; Lt.-Col. W. G. Ketcheson; Lt.-Col. D. Green; Major C. F. Walt and Major H. F. Alford. As the flag-draped casket upon which rested medals, cap and sword was carried from the house, the firing party from the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, under Capt. Geo. White, M.M., and R.S.M. Burditt, stood with reversed arms. The firing party was composed of C.S.M. F. Turner and Privates J. Hamilton and J. Mitchell, Stirling; Sgt. M. Yearwood, Sgt. C. Yearwood, and Privates J. Martin, W. Jowett, J. Jowett, C. Kellar, A. Adams, E. Greatrix, W. Revol, J. Gillen, W. Storings, of Madoc.

Some forty ex-service men, under the direction of Me. E. J. Dainard, acted as guard of honour and escorted the remains to the Church, where the cortege was met by the choir and the following clergy. Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario; Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, of Rawdon; Rev. A. B. Payne, of Belleville; Rev. A. E. U. Smart, of Portsmouth and Bishop's Chaplain; Rev. F. A. Smith, of Trenton; Rev. W. G. H. Swayne, Tweed, and Rev. A. S. McConnell.

With the repetition of the sentences from the Burial Service, as the Choir and Clergy proceeded up the aisle, the stately Church of England ritual began, and as the service progressed one was impressed with the note of triumph that was sounded in the singing of the hymns and in the dignity and reverence of the beautiful service. A large choir was in charge of Mr. Geo. Maybee, A.T.C.M., organist of Christ Church, Belleville, who kindly assisted at the organ. The Rector was assisted in the service by Rev. A. B. Payne.

Before concluding the Service with the Apostles' Creed and special prayers, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese spoke briefly to the large congregation present. He spoke of Dr. Alger as a man of unswerving loyalty to his country, willing to serve her in peace and in war. His life was part of this community. Here he spent himself as a physician, giving years of self-denying service. In his Church life he was one who was always loyal to his Rector, a regular attendant at the services of the Church, and active not only in his own Parish but in the Synod of the Diocese, the Province and the General Synod of the Church. In his Church life he had gained the affection of both clergy and laity alike, and he, as Bishop, joined the Church and community at large in paying respect to one whom he had known and respected through almost all his ministry.

IN QUEBEC THIS WEEK

It will be of interest to the many friends in Stirling and community to know that Mr. Lorne C. Bateman, Branch Manager of the Continental Life Insurance Company, at Peterboro, and former Clerk of Rawdon Township, is spending this week in Quebec City with the Honour Club of the Company. We are happy to know that "Lorne" is making good progress in his line of work.

HELD RECEPTION

On Wednesday, August 31st, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Landberg (nee Mabel Seene) arrived at the home of her brother, Mr. Clarence Seene, on their way home from their wedding trip to Saranac and Adirondack Mountains. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seene held a reception for the newly-weds, entertaining the Seene family and a few of the neighbours. Mr. and Mrs. A. Landberg returned to their home in Toronto on Friday evening.

BRIDE AND GROOM SHOWERED

MR. AND MRS. GRANT THAIN RECIPENTS OF MANY USEFUL GIFTS

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thain, Harold, on Thursday evening to honour their son, Grant, and his bride, Mr. Malcolm Hutcheon very capably acted as chairman in the absence of Mr. MacMillan. A short programme consisted of a solo by Mr. Malcolm Totton; reading by Miss Mae Johnston; solo, Miss Marion Walker; solo, Mrs. Fred Thain; solo, Mr. Malcolm Hutcheon. Miss Edith Wallace was called upon to read the following address:

Harold, Ontario, September 1st, 1938

Dear Grant and Betty,—

A few of your friends of yesterday and today are gathered together tonight to wish you joy and happiness in your married life. We hope and pray that in the years to come the way will grow brighter as the days go by. Grant, we have known you all the days of your life; from childhood you have grown up with us. We have followed with interest your success in the educational world. We feel assured that you will not only be the head master of the school of which you are principal, but the real head of your home, and that you will never forget the responsibility that rests on you to make your home a real happy one.

Betty, we do not know you so well, as you are somewhat a stranger amongst us. But stranger as you may be, we are going to take you into our hearts and affections, as we are taking you on Grant's recommendations, and we hope you will feel at home with us at once. We will follow your future with great interest and may you be happy in your new home. May you and your husband live happily together, is our wish for you.

And now we want you to accept these gifts as an expression of our good will towards you. Every time you look at them, please remember that we are thinking of you and following you with interest and prayers, and may God who planned that two souls should be knit together as one, keep you and cause His Faith to shine upon you and bless you all the days of your life.

SCHOOL FAIRS OPEN

Tomorrow, Friday, September 9, the first of a series of School Fairs, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture in Hastings County, will be held at Ivanhoe. On following days, several fairs will be held in different parts of the County with the Championship School Fair being held in Stirling on Wednesday, Sept. 21st, in conjunction with the annual Fair. Hastings County is recognized as having School Fairs of a very high standard, which has been brought about by the co-operation of the school pupils and their parents, with the public school inspectors and the local Agricultural Representative. While School Fair Day is a great holiday and get-together for the hundreds of schools boys and girls, yet the educational side should not be neglected. And in this the parents play a great part. In the first place, parents should realize that the School Fair is the children's fair, and should refrain from doing any of the actual work of selection, preparation or exhibiting, but advice should be given freely. The object is to teach the young exhibitors how to choose and prepare their exhibits. It is only by thus encouraging the farmers' sons and daughters that their interest will be increased in the field of agriculture and unless the School Fair does this it has not fulfilled the purpose for which it was intended.

IMPATIENT DRIVERS DEADLY DRIVERS

"What's your hurry?"

Stop the average motorist on city streets and country highways and ask that question. Try to get a satisfactory answer.

But you won't.

They are just in a hurry, you will find, for no particular reason, except in rare cases. They must take chances, with their own or some other person's life. They can't pause to respect the rights of some other person's life. They can't pause to respect the rights of the other fellow.

They have no time to spare. They chafe as traffic signals halt them momentarily. They grudgingly make a pretence at obeying signs. They've got to go and keep going.

All this hurry may be the modern tempo, or it may be just ordinary impatience, but whatever it is, the result is the same — death and suffering that could have been avoided but for impatient drivers.

Ontario's motor accident records show conclusively the horror and tragedy which motorists who haven't a minute to spare leave behind them. Last year, 168 people were killed and 1,836 were injured because drivers simply had to travel faster than road or traffic conditions warranted. Thirty-four were killed and 840 injured because drivers could not stay behind the car ahead for another minute. Forty-six were killed and another 484 injured because motorists had not time to wait until they got around a curve or over a hill before passing the other car. Sixty-five more died and 126 more were injured because drivers could not wait for a train to pass the crossing. Many times drivers had no time to wait for traffic signals to change, so they barged through red lights and injured pedestrians who thought they were safe crossing on the green.

That list of accidents, impressive as it is, is only part of the indictment that could be drawn up against Ontario's impatient drivers, but it is sufficient to show the extent to which they are responsible for needless death and suffering.

And it should be sufficient to remind motorists that life and limb are more valuable than minutes and seconds — and that in these times patience is more than a virtue.

A moment's thought may save a life, so be thoughtful.

IT'S FAIR TIME!

Labour Day is over and Summer will soon be passing away — which reminds us that Stirling Fall Fair and Championship School Fair is not far away. September 20th and 21st are the dates and the directors have been successful in arranging a programme for the entertainment of its patrons that should please everyone. Whether or not it will equal or surpass the exhibitions of other years is entirely dependent upon the support given the Society by the citizens of Stirling and community. Plenty of exhibits, a good crowd, good entertainment and ideal weather spell success. For months the directors have been making plans and seeking new and better attractions to improve on other years. Now it remains for the exhibitors and the patrons to do their part.

In order to increase the number of exhibitors the prize list has been gone over and more than two hundred dollars in prize money added to the various departments — particularly cattle and horses — in order to make it more attractive. A canvas made by the directors for new members, met with good success, and they fully expect the largest exhibit for some years. The swine, fruits, garden and roots, and grain and seed departments are practically the same as last year.

The Department for Manual Training, Household Science and Art for the pupils of the Stirling Public School, will again be a feature this year and liberal prizes offered. In addition there is a department for school gardens at the Public and High Schools, in which any of the pupils of the respective schools are permitted to exhibit.

The Horticultural department is again to the fore, and flower lovers will be given an opportunity to display their season's work in the flower garden. The local Horticultural Society is offering the usual number of prizes.

The Championship Rural School Fair will again be held in conjunction with the local Fair. This section alone draws large crowds and is worth any person's time to view it. For months the boys and girls of Hastings County have been working hard in an endeavour to fit their products for the fair, while the girls have been practising their cooking arts, and have laboured long on other handicrafts.

In addition to the regular prizes offered in the various departments of the prize list there are a large number of special prizes offered through the generosity of Stirling business men, and firms with which they do business, as well as other supporters of the fair. This year's list exceeds any of several years past, and should provide an additional incentive to exhibitors.

In the matter of grandstand attractions, the entertainment committee has arranged for the usual number of attractions. While the trials of speed have been dropped this year, numerous attractions have been added, featuring a ladies' softball game between two Toronto teams. These teams are well-known as exponents of fast, clever ball, and fans should not miss seeing this feature. Other attractions include an Indian pony race, bicycle races, running races, bread-cutting contest, potato race, quick hitch, sod-busters' race, drinking contest, milking contest, weight-lifting competitions, car teeter and shoe race.

Altogether an attractive prize list and programme has been arranged by the directors, and they are hoping that their efforts will be appreciated by the citizens. The success or failure of the Fair rests with you. It depicts the prosperity of the community and the spirit of the people. Plan now to be an exhibitor — or a booster. If you can't do anything more, be sure you and your family, as well as your friends attend. It is your Fair — make it a good one.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Trenton Courier-Advocate last week told of several apple trees in that district with bloom and apples on them at one and the same time. Now listen to the weather prophets.

Again we would call attention to the fire hazards, particularly along the country and to township roads in the district. At this time of year the grass and weeds along the roadsides are becoming dry and sere, and are easily ignited by a carelessly-thrown match or cigarette butt. It takes but a few seconds to be sure that a cigarette is beyond causing a fire before throwing it away, and a match may be broken before tossing it away. Every year throughout the province thousands of dollars are lost through grass and forest fires — many of them caused by carelessness on the part of some one. Be careful! Don't be responsible for loss through carelessness or thoughtlessness.

Reports from the canning factories in the district are to the effect that the Corn Borer has been very active during the past summer, resulting in considerable loss to the farmers. There's a means of combatting this pest, but it is just possible that many farmers have been a little careless in their treatment of their corn fields. The Corn Borer Act, which has been on the statutes for a number of years, provides for the control of the Corn Borer, but in many sections it is not rigidly enforced. It behooves every farmer to join in the fight against it. With proper farm and field sanitation it can be controlled, but if we become careless and indifferent there may be outbreaks under favourable climatic conditions.

Every so often during the past couple of years the cry has been raised that the Provincial Government was to pass legislation for the abolition of County Councils. Several of the latter organizations have forwarded resolutions to the Government opposing such a move, but it was not until last week that the government policy on the matter was intimated. Speaking before the Ontario Municipal Association, Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, voiced his disapproval of the proposal for economic reasons. This should settle the question for some time. Meanwhile, County Councils should endeavour to justify their existence by concentrating on their own problems rather than passing resolutions asking the Government to assume responsibility for different projects.

What Others Say

LABOUR SAVING MACHINERY IN THE WEST

(Havelock Standard)

Farmers in Ontario would open their eyes a bit if they could see the latest machines operating in western Canada wheat fields. The combination tractor and combine that is working a revolution in western farming, only requires three men to operate a medium sized outfit, plus a grain wagon, and it can completely harvest 30 acres of wheat a day, a job that required 11 men and much more machinery a few years ago.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

(Norwood Register)

A recent motor trip showed up a very dangerous practice which is permitted on Ontario roads and highways, and that is the habit of trucks picking up milk or cream on the left hand side of the road and rural mail carriers stopping at boxes on the left hand side.

Farmers should be required to place their cans so that the truck could pick them up on the right hand side or the truck should be driven entirely off the road and the Dominion Postal Department is antiquated when it does not insist that all rural mail boxes be placed on the right hand side of the Courier's route. Further all mail carriers' vehicles should be conspicuously marked at the rear so that a motorist approaching from behind would know what they are and that they are liable to stop suddenly.

Another menace on the roads is the travelling salesman or pedlar who has the rear seat of his car so loaded with goods that he cannot use his rear vision mirror.

WHY, OH WHY?

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

Our town council protects the general merchant and those who are not general merchants from the peddling gentry by means of the Transient Traders By-Law, but they appear to wink the eye at the peddling printers who came into town from Toronto, set up offices in the hotels and milk this town white of its printing orders. These out-of-town gentry get the cream of the crop without giving the cow a bale of hay. So they get the big end every time. When will our town councillors, in the knowledge that Trenton printers invest their money here, pay wages and taxes and heat and light and water to others who do the same, give them a bit of consideration. What is food for the goose in this town, in the matter of protection of the stores from the peddler, should be food for the gander in some slight consideration to those who do the work for their town than their work could ever do for them.

NO. 14 HIGHWAY

(Marmora Herald)

The highway between Marmora and Stirling as a whole is in better condition now than it has been in a couple of years. The Routly Construction Company is engaged in laying the base on the sections of the road not previously done and other sections have been levelled so they are now in good shape for traffic. Where the work of putting in the base is actually under way there is a stretch of coarse stone which is pretty rough, but no more is put down at one time than is necessary to carry on the work economically and it is covered with a finer stone as quickly as possible.

It is expected that the Department of Highways will have the road between Marmora and Stirling completed this fall. The section from Harold to Stirling was completed last year and a big saving would be effected by finishing the balance of the road this year instead of leaving the surfacing until next year.

The saving would be made in two ways. If the surfacing is not completed this year it will require a lot of work to cover the base so it will stand the traffic until the work is resumed, especially during the winter and spring when frost and other weather conditions are so hard on roads. A great deal of work had to be done last fall and this summer on base laid last fall, which would not have been necessary if the road had been completed.

Then it costs quite a lot to move heavy road machinery and equipment to and from a job. The machinery has been moved two or three times already since the surfacing of No. 14 was started and the cost of moving it again will be saved if the road is completed this fall.

There would also be a good chance of having the Stirling-Foxboro section of the road started next year if the road to Stirling is completed this year.

Classroom Candor

The President of the school board being of a conscientious nature, made it a point to visit all the classrooms frequently. In each room he would make a little talk in an effort to interest the children in the everyday things of life.

On one such occasion, he was telling them of the blacksmith. "And what kind of arm has the blacksmith?" he asked.

"Big!" shouted the children.

"And why is the blacksmith's arm bigger than mine?"

"He works!" came the chorused reply.

"Mr. Flimflam," he began, "I understand your studio is about to produce a number of two-reel shorts. And also I understand that you're looking for experienced actors to play a bathing suit scene."

The busy director kept right on reading the script.

"That's right," he barked. "So what?"

The actor coughed. "I was wondering," he put in hopefully, "if there wasn't a chance for me to appear in

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

Ever since the introduction of the forward pass into Canadian football in 1931, the aim and objective of many big teams has been to import stellar gridiron performers from colleges across the line. To be true, the practice has died down considerably in the East now that the up-and-coming Canadian youngsters have shown themselves readily adaptable to the passing game. But in Western Canada the big teams continue to lure former U. S. leather luggers into their midst.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Calgary Bronks, Regina Roughriders, Edmonton Eskimos — a roll call of their rosters reads like a list of the alumni of various colleges in the north-western states. Of course, Canadian Rugby Union rules prohibit these lads from the Dakotas, Montana, Wisconsin, etc., from performing in the Dominion finals against the eastern champions, but that doesn't seem to worry the westerners.

The point we have been leading up to is that many people have assumed that football is an American game, borrowed by Canada in a slightly altered version. Nothing could be further from the truth, for although the sport today is the major one in the United States colleges, average attendances annually at all games being around 16,000,000, it probably never would have been played in that country if students of McGill University, Montreal, had not challenged students of Harvard to a game back in 1874.

Originally, of course, "Association" or "Soccer" football was the only brand. History establishes that the Greeks of Sparta played it as far back as 500 B.C. The Romans adopted football centuries later, although the rules in both cases were very vague, there being no limit to the number of players, no definition as to size of the field, and no goalposts. Along about 23 B.C., Caesar Augustus decided that the game was too simplified, and decreed that his soldiers and potential soldiers find tougher means of conditioning themselves for his wars of conquest.

It was in the 10th or 11th century before football was introduced into England. Here the goalposts were originated and the numerical strength of a team defined. Again the sport struck a royal snag when King Henry II. (1154-1189) felt that indulgence was interfering with the natal and compulsory sport of archery. Henry banned football and succeeding monarchs upheld his ruling over 400 years, although there was royal tolerance at times, and the sport was kept alive. The introduction of fire-arms in place of bows and arrows freed football of its fetters, James I. being the bloke who first gave royal blessing to football as a clean and manly sport.

All this preamble, of course, concerns original football, or "soccer." The lads were content to merely kick the ball until 1823 when one William Ellis, a student at Rugby College, became excited during an inter-class game and, unable to kick a crazily-bouncing ball, tucked it under his arm and ran with it across the enemy goal line. That was the birth of "Rugby football." Today a small stone monument at Rugby College commemorates the Ellis deed as follows:

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a fine disregard for the rules of Football as played in his time first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of The Rugby Game, A.D. 1823."

Around 1860-61 several English professional football teams tried the Ellis idea and it found favour. It spread with rapidity and some dozen years later McGill University imported the game to Canada, practiced up a bit and challenged Harvard. The American College, although unfamiliar with the game, accepted and the two teams met on May 15, 1874 in Cambridge, Mass., the game ending in a 0-0 tie. The "soccer" game was fairly standard in American colleges up until then, but following the McGill visit "Rugby Football" became the craze and two years later the American Inter-collegiate Football Association was created.

Since then, the American and Canadian codes have drifted apart on certain points, but both had their genesis in England and to Canada goes the honour of introducing the thrilling fall pastime to the North American continent.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — What man held the world's heavyweight title for the longest period? (Answer at foot of column).

Next month, commencing on October 9, the last of many duels for the International Fishermen's Trophy will be staged off Boston. On that date Captain Angus Walters of Lunenburg, N.S., will sail his big salt-banker up to the starting line to defend the trophy against Captain Ben Pine, of Gloucester, Mass., and his Gertrude L. Thebaud.

Many times in the past these two grizzled old sea dogs have matched their skill and the performances of their respective craft. Many times the Bluenose and the Thebaud have danced before the breeze, sheets billowing, timbers groaning, as they strove to win the trophy emblematic of the championship of the North Atlantic banks — but next month's race will be the last.

The Thebaud was the last sailing vessel built in New England, and with oil stripping the fleet of its white wings it is doubtful if another ever will be built unless the wells run dry. You see, Cap'n Pine has been largely responsible for the race being kept alive in the past two decades, and he has definitely stated that this year's race is his last. As there is no other American with the inclination to take up the gauntlet, the coming race will be a fare-thee-well to the glorious days of rivalry among the hankers.

A YEAR AGO IN SPORT — On Sept. 8th, 1937, Frankie Genovese retained his Canadian welterweight title by winning a close but definite victory over Gordon Wallace, of Vancouver. The bout was staged at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto.

Boxing critics in New York are hailing Walter Franklin, a determined young Canadian, as the most promising middleweight now treading the prizefight trail. Born in Hamilton, Ont., Franklin's family moved later to Windsor, and then to New York, where his father is a Yemenite rabbi. The father wanted Walter to follow in his footsteps, but money was scarce and with six children in the family the eldest son decided to try the ring. Once amateur welter champ of Southwestern Ontario, Franklin has kayoed all but two of his 12 opponents since turning pro.

ANSWERS DEPT. — Jack Dempsey, who won the title July 4, 1919, and dropped it Sept. 23, 1926, held the world's heavyweight championship longer than any other man.

EGG PRICES SOAR ON SATURDAY BELLEVILLE MARKET

Egg prices skyrocketed sharply to a new high on Saturday on Belleville market as vendors demanded 35 cents a dozen, an increase of seven cents over quotations of a week ago for "A" selects, where a typical harvest display of fruits and vegetables were offered to a briskly buying clientele.

Mediums were quoted at 32c and 33c with ungraded stock and pullet eggs being offered at 30c and 28c per dozen respectively.

Other prices however, remained firm with little or no change being noted in general produce quotations. There was an abundance of fruit and vegetables, although the display was not as heavy as those of the past two weeks. Home-grown tomatoes were offered at 30c and 35c per bushel with basket lots selling at 10c and 16c. Sweet corn was quoted generally at 10 cents per dozen, with a choice quality Evergreen being offered at two dozen for 25c. Potatoes were quoted at 50c per bushel with pecklots going at 20c each.

New cabbage and cauliflower moved well and good-sized heads quoted at from 8c each. Beets, onions, carrots, radishes, were offered at prevailing bunch-lot prices. Vegetable marrow, and table squash sold fairly well at from 10c each, with various sized pumpkins offered at similar prices.

Peaches and plums headed a colourful fruit display with the former selling at from 39c to 50c per basket, according to quality. Blue and green plums were offered at 35c per six-quart lot with Green Gages moving slowly at 75c per basket.

Cantaloupes again flooded the market, arriving in truck and carload, with practically every vendor offering the juicy delicacy for sale. Cantaloupes from the size of a baseball to the large pumpkin variety were offered at prices that ranged from 5c each to as high as 25c each.

Watermelons were fairly plentiful, ranging in size and price from 10c upward.

Young Spring chickens featured the display in the inside market, with choice, young birds selling at from 75c per pair up. Fowl and other chickens were offered from 80c each, according to quality and weight. Farmers' butter remained firm with two-pound rolls selling at 65c, with "singles" moving slowly at 35c each.

Whitefish at 20c, a small quantity of fresh lake trout at 25c per pound and the first arrival of mudcats that were offered at two pounds for 25c, rounded out a variable fish display.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

The Tomato Crop

Throughout Ontario weather and moisture conditions during the past month have been generally favourable for good growth. The quality of some products, however, was somewhat lowered by heat and too much rainfall. Tomato worms are particularly numerous this season in Eastern Ontario. In southwestern counties tomato cracking is greater than usual and there has been some scalding of onions. In Middlesex county thrip injury to onions is reported. Otherwise disease and insect pests are being controlled by intensive spraying operations, and not more than the usual amount of damage has occurred.

Eastern Ontario Fruit

With sufficient rainfall growing conditions have been favourable for the development of the apple crop and fruit is sizing particularly well. Where spraying was done thoroughly scab and insect pests are being kept in check, with the exception of the codling worm moth which will cause considerable loss in a few orchards where a heavy infestation has accumulated from previous years. In the Trenton and Iroquois-Morrisburg districts several thousand barrels of apples were severely damaged by hail. Fall and early varieties are taking on considerable colour, and are up to normal in this respect.

Pears are developing well with size average and fruit clean in most orchards, although some codling moth injury is showing where regular control measures were not carried out. Plums are a light crop but there is every indication that the quality will be good, except on some trees where early sprays were not applied and some curculio injury is showing.

Potato Crop Report

The early Irish Cobbler crop is fairly well cleared and the intermediate crop is moving to market from the central part of the Province. A shortage of moisture during June and July retarded growth of plants and development of tubers with the result that low yields are being harvested. The quality is excellent.

The late crop presents a favourable appearance at present. During the past two weeks the rainfall generally has been beneficial and plant growth excellent.

The potato bug has been well kept in control by the use of poison applications but leaf hoppers have done considerable injury to the plants because bordeaux has not been properly applied, and some damage to plants is apparent which will reduce the yield at digging time. Growers are advised to dust or spray with bordeaux thoroughly for leaf hopper control or disappointing yields will be the result. There is no evidence of late blight at this date but the present weather conditions with a sultry atmosphere and frequent showers, should they continue, are favourable for its development. The preventative measures are timely applications of bordeaux that will cover the plants on the under-side of the leaves as well as on top.

Roadside Weeds

Farmers and city dwellers alike, will agree that country roads are the show windows of Ontario farms and are largely responsible for advertising products of the soil. If roads are marred by an unsightly growth of weeds, tourists get a bad impression and urban residents lose faith in rural Ontario as a producer of agricultural products second to none in the world.

There are seven good reasons why roadside weeds should be wiped out of existence. They (1) infest adjoining farm lands; (2) spread plant diseases; (3) are dangerous to traffic;

(4) will gather and hold snow; (5) clog ditches on roadsides and thus hinder the flow of water and proper drainage of the road bed; (6) are dangerous from a fire standpoint; (7) are unsightly to residents and tourists alike.

The Weed Control Act of Ontario states roadside weeds must be destroyed before seeds mature. The Municipal Council, through its road authority, is responsible for seeing that this work is done. Proper grading of roadsides and removal of stones, stumps and brush will enable the road authority to do this work quickly and efficiently. A thick seeding of a good grass mixture will make a thick sod which prevents weeds from obtaining a foothold.

Chemical weed killers have proved efficient and many municipalities have efficiently improved county and township roads in a weed cleanup via the chemical route.

Maybe your municipality has helped you out in this manner. If not, why not?

Don't forget the municipality is responsible for eradication of all noxious weeds within its boundaries.

BEAUTY PROBLEMS

DISCUSSED BY

Barbara Lynn

Eminent Beauty Authority and Adviser, who writes weekly articles on Beauty Problems for many Canadian Newspapers.

REDUCING IN SPOTS

There are many women who, while not in need of general reducing, are a little flabby in particular parts of the body. Some, for instance, have a double chin or fatty arms; others may have an ideal bust development, but are not just as they would like to be around the waist.

Experience teaches me that many women require to reduce chiefly the hips and lower back, the stomach or the thighs. In this article, therefore, I will deal with remedial treatment for these specific cases.

To reduce the hips, stomach and thighs, devote at least twenty minutes a day to the following exercises:

Lie flat on your back on the floor, with ankles together and arms to your sides. Grasp your left knee with your hands and pull it upward to your chest. Now, still keeping the right knee straight on the floor, roll the left knee around in wide circles so that your left hip is rolling.

You will feel the muscles in your stomach stretch and pull, as you make each revolution with the left leg. Be sure to keep your hip flat against the floor.

Next do the same exercise with your right knee and thigh. Follow this up by rubbing both knees and describe wide circles with both hips.

Baths and Massage

You will soon discover that carrying out the above exercises will make you perspire, and you will not be long in noticing an improvement around the hips and stomach.

Follow up the exercises immediately with a hot bath, with soap and water. Make a thick lather of any mild bath soap on the fatty tissues of the parts you are working on, and then press into it a handful of epsom salts. Massage the spot for a few minutes, using a deep pinching and slapping movement.

Rinse off the soap and salts and repeat the treatment, finishing off with a cold or tepid shower and a brisk rub-down.

I have prepared a special leaflet on "Reducing in Spots", which deals in an exhaustive manner with reducing every part of the body. You can obtain a copy and any of the following leaflets by sending a 3c stamp for each one required: How to Slim, Underweight, The Face — and Its Care, Bust Development, Superfluous Hair, Hand Beauty, Your Hair, Care of the Feet, Eye Beauty. In writing for any of these leaflets, don't hesitate to ask about your own beauty worries. I will be glad to advise you personally, confidentially and without publicity.

Please mention the name of this paper, and address your letters to Barbara Lynn, P.O. Box 73, Station B, Montreal, Que.

PRESENTATION TO MISS KEITHA STAPLEY

On Friday evening friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stapley, Madoc Junction, to spend a few social hours with Keitha, prior to her return to Toronto, after holidaying here. During the evening she was presented with an electric boudoir lamp, ivory alarm clock and beaded evening purse. Following is the address:

Madoc Junction,

August 26th, 1938

Miss Keitha Stapley, Western Hospital,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Keitha,—

We thought while you were home on this holiday we had better not miss another opportunity to gather here with you for a few hours to wish you every success and happiness both in training for a nurse, and after the training is over, in this, your chosen profession. We older ones know you have not picked an easy road for yourself. Nursing is a wonderful profession, and offers big opportunities, but it means none too pleasant work. But we know you have what it takes to carry you through, if your health permits, and we hope it does. May we just offer a word of advice. As the times come, as they often will, when you don't know just what to do, always remember to have faith in God above, and that a silent prayer for guidance will do wonders to help in any kind of trouble.

Keitha, you have always cheerfully helped in the Sunday School, Church, and in the neighbourhood, in any way you could, and we thank you heartily for it. Any time you have a holiday and can come and see us, the latch-string is always out to you and your letters welcome to us. Now will you please accept these little gifts and our very best wishes for your future.

Signed — Mae Clark and Mina Wilson.

Although taken by surprise, Keitha very fittingly thanked them for the lovely gifts and assured them that any time they were in the city she would be pleased to have them call.

HIGGS — ANDREWS

Rawdon United Church Parsonage was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Saturday, September 3rd, at 3 o'clock, when Madeline Faye, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrews, Mount Pleasant, was united in marriage to Herbert Sidney Higgs eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Higgs, Harworth, England, with Rev. J. B. Beckel officiating.

The winsome bride wore a shell pink silk net over satin street-length gown with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Eva Smith, Dettor, who was attired in forget-me-not triple sheer dress with matching bolero and carried a bouquet of Briar roses and larkspur. The groom was attended by his friend, Mr. John Coggins, of Mount Pleasant.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome walnut chest of silverware; to the bridesmaid, a leather purse, and to the bridesmaids a set of military brushes.

Directly after the ceremony the happy couple left on a motor trip to Toronto and Niagara and they stopped at the Quinte Hotel, Belleville, for the wedding supper, leaving on the 7.20 train for Toronto. The bride travelled in a suit of brown rough weave tweed, with shell pink sheer blouse and matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Rawdon.

DAVID WALLACE

David Wallace, a well-known and respected resident of Rawdon Township, passed away after a lengthy illness at his home in the first concession of Rawdon on Thursday, September 1st. The late David Wallace, who was in his eighty-ninth year, came to Canada when eight years old. He was the youngest of a family of seven who sailed with their parents from Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1856. They settled in Seymour Township, later moving to Wellmans Corners, and for the past twenty-eight years Mr. Wallace has lived on his farm on the first concession of Rawdon, with the exception of a few years when he resided in the village of Stirling. He was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The late Mr. Wallace was twice married, his second wife who survives him, being formerly Miss Eliza Danford.

Left to mourn his passing besides his sorrowing widow, are five sons and five daughters: Mr. David Wallace, of Menie; Mr. John Wallace, of Campbellford; Mr. Robert Wallace and Mr. Samuel Wallace, of Wellmans Corners, and Mr. Earl Wallace on the homestead; (Bella) Mrs. J. Rodgers, of Sandusky, Ohio; (Gertrude) Mrs. W. H. Cooke, Stirling; (Pearl) Mrs. Alfred Linn, Burnbrae; (Margaret) Mrs. W. Ward, Stirling; (Bessie) Mrs. R. Clarke, Trenton. One daughter, (Elizabeth) Mrs. R. Wright, predeceased him twenty-three years ago. There are also twenty-three grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and one brother, Mr. George Wallace of Campbellford, who is now in his ninety-fourth year.

The funeral service was held at his late residence on Sunday, September 4th, at two p.m., and was well attended. Service was conducted by Rev. MacMillan, of Burnbrae. The pallbearers were six grandsons, Arthur Wallace, Carl Cooke, Harry Cooke, Howard Wallace, Wallace Cooke and Robert Cooke. Interment in Burnbrae cemetery.

HON L. O. HIPEL NEW MINISTER OF LABOUR

Hon. Norman O. Hipel, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature since 1934, has been appointed Minister of Labour in the Hepburn Cabinet and was sworn into his new office before Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews, at Queen's Park, yesterday.

Announcement of his elevation to this increasingly important post in Provincial affairs was made by Acting Premier Nixon. At the same time Mr. Nixon and Cabinet, by special Order-in-Council, authorized issuance of writs for by-elections in the ridings of South Waterloo and Toronto Parkdale. They both will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 5, with official nominations falling on Sept. 28. The first, in effect, will provide for Mr. Hipel's entrance into the Government, and the second will fill the vacancy in the present House membership caused by the recent death of Fred G. MacBrien.

Hon. Mr. Hipel first came into the Ontario Legislature in the South Waterloo by-election of October 29, 1930, on that occasion turning previous large Conservative majorities into a Liberal victory by 160. In the general election of 1934 he won by 2,300 votes over Karl K. Homuth, and in 1937 increased his majority over his Tory opponent to more than 3,000. He was first elected Speaker of the Legislature at the 1935 session, and was honoured with a second term of office, something most unusual and most complimentary in the government of this Province, when the Hepburn Administration was returned to power a year ago.

Total 160. Number of teaching days for calendar year 1938 — 158; for calendar year 1939 — 157.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

SIXTEENTH INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

When they were clear of the canyon again, they headed south for Soledad. Neither of them talked. They picked up the trail that led past the D Bar T and Laredo let his bay make the pace.

Chuck's voice yanked him out of his thoughts.

"Listen! Weren't those shots?"

"Shots? I never heard them. Where from?"

"To the south and a little west."

"That would be the Turner place."

Laredo spurred his horse into a long lode.

"We'll take a pasear, Chuck. Come on," he called.

When they approached the D Bar T, the place was dark. Laredo reined up by the corral.

"Let's look around."

They dismounted and approached the house. The house loomed blackly, silently before them. Laredo came up to the back door and listened. Nothing. He walked off to the side and listened again.

A soft groan came from the front of the house. Laredo drew a gun and warily walked around to the corner of the house and stopped. Again the groan.

Laredo knelt down and struck a match. As it flared he saw a man lying sprawled in a wide pool of blood, face down. He turned him over.

"Rourke," he said quietly. "One of them nesters."

Laredo turned the man over. "He's done for," he told Chuck, but the nester moved a little.

"Who — who is it?" the nester asked in a weak frantic whisper.

"Laredo Jackson. What happened, Rourke?"

"They tried — to fire — house," Rourke whispered.

"Two of 'em. I — come — see Turner — about lake. Dark. Saw — both scatterin' — coal oil — leaves. They cut down — me. Took my — gun."

"Which way did they ride?" Laredo asked him.

"I couldn't tell," Rourke whispered.

"Hurt bad?" Laredo asked gently.

"Bad as hell," Rourke whispered.

"I'm done for."

Laredo looked off into the night, cursing softly. "What kind of a gun was you carryin', Rourke?"

"Smith and Wesson .38. Had a chip off the butt."

"And you never saw 'em? Never saw their horses?"

"I thought it was Turner. I spoke right out, and they both opened up on me. Don't remember much. One of 'em kicked me in the face, and laughed, and took my gun."

"Didn't he say nothin'?"

"Somethin' about . . . wonderin' if they'd take it — at a faro table — instead of money."

"What did he call the ranny he spoke to?"

There was no answer. Laredo poured more water down Rourke's open mouth. The man did not move.

"He's dead," he said quietly.

Laredo went back to Chuck.

"I'm going with you, wherever that is," Chuck told him.

"It's Single Shot. That's the only place there's faro tables close."

Martin Quinn stood among the curling pennants of tobacco smoke. His face was still, impassive. It was a big night for the Free Throw and the saloon was noisy with the crowd.

He felt a hand on his sleeve and looked up to see one of the housemen beside him holding out a folded slip of paper. Unfolding it with one hand, he read:

"Come to hotel room at once."

Quinn looked at the slip.

"Who gave it to you?" he asked the houseman.

"Dunno. Somebody left it with Mike at the bar."

"Get Rourke," Quinn said quietly.

Rourke was the owner of the Free Throw. The man melted through the crowd.

Presently, a bald, heavy man past middle age with a big diamond on the checked tie that he wore with an even gaudier suit, made his way to Quinn's side.

"Want me?" he asked. "What's the matter? Trouble?"

Quinn did not look up from the box. "No trouble."

"I'm quittin', Rourke," Quinn continued. "Check me out."

Rourke stared at him. "What's the matter? Ain't I treatin' you right?"

"No kick at all," Quinn said casually. "Better get a houseman. I want to talk to you."

The owner shouted for a man and he and Quinn sought a quiet corner.

"Now what's this all about?" Rourke asked.

Quinn pulled out his billfold, took out a card and silently handed it to Rourke. The great bushy eyebrows of the owner raised as he read it.

He gave Quinn a searching look. "What is it, trouble?"

"I think so," Quinn answered quietly.

The saloon owner cursed, not without a grim smile however. "Well, go ahead."

Quinn sauntered through the crowd into the dance-hall, skirted the floor and stepped out the side entrance. He took out the note and read it again.

The writing was not the same as that on the two notes Rosy had sent him.

He walked slowly over to the hotel, a scowl wrinkling his forehead. The clerk greeted him and reached for his key.

"Seventeen, isn't it, Mr. Quinn?"

"Is sixteen taken?" Quinn asked, accepting the key.

The clerk looked at him, puzzled, then looked at the register. "No, it's empty."

"I want it," Quinn said. The clerk was about to speak, but a look at Quinn stopped him.

"I want the key to the door that connects seventeen and sixteen, too," the gambler said.

The clerk shook his head. "I'm afraid it's lost, Mr. Quinn."

Quinn nodded, took the key to sixteen, and headed for the stairs.

At the head of the stairs, Quinn paused and removed his shoes. Then he continued down the hall.

Room seventeen, his own room, was on the back corner, around a small L in the hall. He tiptoed down the corridor and let himself noiselessly into room sixteen, which was next to his own.

Then he set about working.

He put on his shoes, because the carpet made his movements noiseless. Then, working in the dark, he got a towel and soaked it in the pitcher of water, went over to the connecting door and poured the water slowly and quietly on the rug where it disappeared under the door. The rug soaked the water up and spread it into the adjoining room. Then he rose, got the lamp, unscrewed the wick, knelt at the door again, and poured its kerosene slowly on the rug at the bottom of the door. Like an oily lake the kerosene floated on the surface of the wet rug and slid under the door into the next room. Quinn got the wet towel, struck a match, lit the kerosene and watched the flame flare up and crawl under the door. Swiftly he laid the wet towel against the door, extinguishing the flames on his side of it, then rose and went into the hall.

He quickly took the ten steps in the corridor to room seventeen, inserted the key softly, unlocked the door, swung it open and stepped inside.

The room was dark except for the kerosene flame burning brightly against the connecting door. A tall rawboned man in range clothes with nearly white hair was kneeling before the flames trying to slap them out with his bare hands. Behind him stood Winters, holding out a wet towel.

"Good evening, gentlemen," Quinn drawled.

They both whirled instantly.

"You sent for me, I believe?"

It took a half second for the two to realize the situation. Winters, with a snarl, hurled the towel at Quinn's head. But the gambler had anticipated that. His gun exploded at Winters.

Then the wet towel struck Quinn in the face and wrapped around his head. He plucked at it frantically, waiting for the shots from Winters' companion, but they did not come.

When he wrenched the towel off, the room was in darkness. He waited a tense second, then struck a match. By it he saw that Winters had fallen against the door, slid down it and extinguished the flames.

But the second man was gone. The window was open, and from a solidly embedded hook in the window frame, a rope trailed out the open window. He heard a body drop, then the sound of running feet.

Quinn swung out the window and disappeared down the rope.

In town, Laredo paused just long enough to tell Chuck: "You stay out the way. I'm handlin' the shootin' irons tonight."

They swung into the crowded hitchrack in front of the Mile High.

Laredo started at the corner and worked up, examining every saddle horse at the rack. Far down the line, he came to a blue horse and he stopped. The horse was breathing hard. It was wet with sweat.

He struck a match, knelt down and began to examine the ground under the horse. Some shiny object caught his eye and he picked it up. It was an empty .38 caliber shell.

He straightened up. In front of the saloon doors at the hitchrack, a team and buckboard stood. Laredo swung up over the end-gate and faced the saloon.

Chuck, on the sidewalk, saw Laredo draw a gun, then the little foreman lifted his head.

"Yee-o-ow-eee!"

His blood-curdling cry split the night air and he punctuated it with three swift shots through the door of the Mile High that winked out the lights, leaving pandemonium inside.

A tentative shot coughed out of the Mile High, then the din began. Yells, shouts, curses and shrieks welled out of the door, just as the first customers came boiling through the door.

Laredo calmly loaded his gun as he walked down the road to the blue horse. Then he untied the blue's reins and mounted.

Laredo saw the running figure swing under the hitchrack, then come to an abrupt stop before the blue.

"Get off that horse!" That blue is mine!"

Laredo hesitated. "Why, so it is," he said mildly.

He swung off slowly, then pivoted around to ram a gun barrel in the belly of the man.

Laredo ordered softly.

On the sidewalk, in the dim street-light.

Laredo looked the man over, then reached out and pulled a gun from where it was wedged in the man's belt. It was a Smith and Wesson .38 with a chip off its plated butt.

The men who had swarmed out of the saloon stopped now and formed a loose circle about the two men.

"I won it in a poker game," the man blustered.

Laredo backed away from him slowly, his gun steady and ominous. "Now tell 'em you lie," Laredo drawled thickly. "Before I cut you off pocket-high. Tell 'em you got the gun from Rourke, a man you killed and then kicked in the face."

THE REASON

A poet, imbued with the spirit of "smiling service" and its practical application, wrote this wonderful truism:

"The reason people pass one door, To patronize another store, Is not because the busier place Has better silks or gloves or lace Or cheaper prices, but it lies In pleasant words and smiling eyes. The greatest difference, we believe, Is in the treatment folks receive."

TERRAZZO USED LONG AGO

Terrazzo was old before this country was discovered. It was known to, and used extensively by the early Venetians, and many patterns designed by them are still copied. Not only is terrazzo used as a flooring, but it is also employed in a number of other ways in modern construction.

Because it is placed in plastic condition it may be used on stairs and ramps. When it is so used as an abrasive aggregate is added to the terrazzo mix to make the stairs slip-proof. Terrazzo is frequently used in hospitals, kitchens, laboratories, at the base of walls, for it is easily cleaned. Also it is employed as wainscoting and for partitions, particularly in toilets and shower rooms. In ornamental design it is frequently made into table tops. These are impervious to cigarette burns and glass-rim stains.

BEHIND THE HEADLINE: OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

There is no doubt that if any experienced observer along Parliament Hill was asked the question what is the most serious challenge to democracy in Canada today, he would answer quickly that it is the fact that no Canadian Government, regardless of what political party was in power has been able to put an end to the tragedy of unemployment, although everyone has endeavored to find a solution for this chronic condition of our economic and social system which past and present generations of our legislators have considered to be a defence of our vital institutions of government.

Monetary aid to indigents since 1930 has reached the almost unbelievable sum of one billion dollars in this country, but that alone is not the chief interest, though taxation levies are almost unbearable. It is the fact that any number of man-made efforts to solve this trouble have proven unsuccessful in a manner that is without precedent in the history of unemployment in Canada. In the past history of this country since Confederation in 1867, economic depressions have arrived time and again, but in each case the revival of better business conditions brought an end to the problem of unemployment and during the hard times private charity has been able to supply the necessities of the poor. However, since the depression started in 1929 there has been a chronic ailment in our social and economic system which prevents a proportionate improvement in employment in face of every effort on the part of the authorities. They have tried to imitate the efforts of the United States and British Governments in certain New Deal policies, particularly in regard to strenuous attempts to aid young men and young women to get a good start in agriculture, industry, or otherwise, or in removing persons of advanced age from the labor markets through old age pensions and other provisions of the law, or in great housing schemes. They have stopped immigration not only to the cities and the towns but also as a protection for the farmers. They have witnessed a marked improvement in the external trade of Canada, which has expanded in certain periods of the past four years to a point that measures up to the standards of 1926, and in a couple of instances to the peak year of 1929. For example, in the twelve months ending May 31, 1937, this external commerce reached the total of $1,789,083,000 compared with $1,290,260,000 two years before and with $880,183,000 in 1933. In other words, in the past two years the gain has closely approached the possibilities of a 40 per cent. increase, with the very important factor that the balance of trade has been in Canada's favour during the past five years. It was $396,117,000 in the twelve months to May 31, 1937, $317,691,000 in the corresponding period of 1936 and $246,566,000 in 1935. In internal trade, the country has been doing much better than in most of the other nations of the world. There has been a steady improvement in the past several years and if the drought conditions of the West had not caused some interference in the natural progress of the country, prosperity would have prevailed. In face of these facts, agricultural production has been unusually good throughout Canada, gold production has advanced steadily, and the same is true of other metals such as nickel, copper, lead, and other basic metals which have shown increased earnings in the past few years. Although forest industries have passed through difficult times, productivity, earnings and volume of labour employed has been remarkable under the circumstances.

Still in the face of these painstaking efforts, much trial and error or other man-made endeavours to aid employment in Canada, the salient fact is that relief rolls have not diminished concurrently and proportionately with the expansion and improvement of external and internal trade, with the additional qualification that thousands and thousands of young Canadians are annually being dumped on the labor market as unemployed. The continued existence of these conditions breeds discontent throughout the land and it becomes a real fertile field in which to sow the seeds of agitation for revolutionary legislation or measures which are both impractical and dangerous to our vital institutions of democracy.

The Dominion Government has encountered many difficulties in trying to obtain the co-operation of certain provincial governments to find a way out of this serious situation, and this has been true regardless of what political party was in power in Ottawa, with the result that many Canadians began to doubt if a democratic form of government could solve permanently a problem which concerned every individual, family, community, village, town, city and locality in the country. However, it is to the credit of our democratic form of government that it appears now as if a solution may soon be found because as a direct result of many years of surveying the situation and experimenting with certain ideas, the Government of Canada is moving towards a policy of curing unemployment by removing the cause in its earliest stages. In other words, particular attention is being paid to the youth of the land in order that they will not step from the school to the relief lines, and the challenge to democratic institutions of government has been answered by a remarkable co-operation between the Federal authorities and the provincial officials who have united for the benefit of youth.

How is this policy being carried out throughout the country? This will be answered in details of startling facts in next week's issue. (Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate.)

JAS. W. HAGGERTY IS RE-ELECTED

James W. Haggerty, treasurer of the County of Hastings, was re-elected to the executive body of the Ontario Municipal Association, at the annual convention of that body in session in Toronto last week. Mr. Haggerty has served in an executive capacity on the official board of the O.M.A. for a number of years, and is extremely popular with his fellow members and officials of the Association.

NEW CUP FOR T. V. L.

Hockey players in the Trent Valley League this coming winter will be competing for a new trophy, according to Harry M. Moore, sponsor of the Trenton Courier-Advocate team in this league, who has received instructions from the donor to the effect that the Collins Trophy will be awarded to the cleanest and most useful player in the League. This cup was previously competed for in the Trenton District League and the donor's decision to shift it to the T.V.L. should be welcome news to hockey fans and players alike.

STIRLING W. I.

The September meeting of the Stirling W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. D. A. Burkitt on Friday afternoon. With Mrs. W. C. West presiding, the meeting opened with the Institute Ode and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer. Secretary, Mrs. P. Bronson, called the roll and read the minutes of the August meeting.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. D. Donohue, River Valley W. I. Secretary, voicing their appreciation for the services the Stirling W. I. rendered at the time of the District Annual Convention. Mrs. J. J. Wilson and Mrs. D. A. Burkitt were appointed as the visiting committee for three months. Mrs. T. Matheson, foreign correspondent, read a very interesting letter received by her from Longcross W. Institute, Chertsey, England. The Secretary was ordered to write several letters. Mrs. C. Belshaw, program convener, opened the entertainment part with community singing led by the song leader, Mrs. J. J. Wilson. Mrs. N. Wescott gave Current Events, following with humorous events composed by Mrs. Tulloch. Miss Mary Tulloch and Miss Greta Nicolson gave a duet entitled "Cathedral in the Pines." Mrs. Belshaw put on a "Cloth" contest.

Community singing was again enjoyed, after which all sang the National Anthem. A dainty lunch was served by the committee in charge, including prize-winning pickles. Mrs. Tulloch expressed the appreciation of the W. I. to the hostess for the very elaborate lunch and the welcome received.

BOWLERS AT COBOURG

Two rinks of Stirling Bowlers attended the Annual Men's Doubles Tournament of the Cobourg Lawn Bowling Club on Monday of this week. There were forty rinks in the draw from as far west as Agincourt, and Stirling in the east, and some splendid bowling was witnessed, with four fourteen-end games being played. W. J. Whitty and T. W. Solmes, of Stirling, winners of the Bickel Memorial Trophy at last year's tournament, won three of their four games, losing to H. Mathison and R. Williams, of Havelock. The latter duo won all four games, but lacked one point of winning the Bickel Trophy, which was taken by a Peterboro rink. The second Stirling rink, comprising R. A. Patterson and H. R. Tompkins, won two games.

Stirling was represented at the Belleville Doubles Tournament on Monday by three rinks, Messrs. A. Heyworth and F. R. Mallory, C. F. Linn and J. S. Morton, Dr. E. A. Carleton and his brother, Dr. H. G. Carleton, of Norwood, but none were among the prize winners.

Mesdames R. A. Patterson, P. W. Long, H. R. Tompkins and W. J. Whitty, skip, attended the tournament in Havelock on Tuesday. The local rink won one game of three played.

MRS. JANE GAY CELEBRATES 97th BIRTHDAY

On Monday last, Mrs. Jane Gay, of Campbellford, celebrated her 97th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Butler, Second Street. Mrs. Gay, despite her years, is remarkably active in mind, and until recently has been in regular attendance at St. John's United Church. She is in fairly good health, and in possession of all her faculties.

Born in Boston, on September 5th, 1841, Mrs. Gay, whose maiden name was Jane Shaw, came to Canada as a child and settled with her parents at West Huntingdon, and later in Sine. She has been a resident in Campbellford for the greater part of the last 30 years.

The family consists of two sons, James, of Essex; John, of Campbellford, and three daughters, Mrs. B. F. Butler and Mrs. James Sanders, of town, and Mrs. T. J. Cook, of Northam. Mrs. A. Denike, who passed away a few years ago, was another daughter. The Herald extends congratulations to Mrs. Gay on her advanced years, and joins her many friends in wishing her happiness and contentment in the future. — Campbellford Herald.

KEEGAN — TYRRELL

The marriage was solemnized in St. Jude's Anglican Church, Oakville, on Saturday afternoon, September 3rd, of Merrian Edith Tyrrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Tyrrell, Oakville, to Morley Keegan, also of Oakville, grandson of Mrs. R. J. Keegan, of Stirling.

Canon D. Russell Smith officiated and the wedding music was played by Mr. de Coursey Fletcher.

Standards of pale pink gladioli were effectively used with ferns in the chancel and on the altar and varicoloured gladioli marked the guests' pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her wedding gown of white chiffon velvet, made on Grecian lines, the long full skirt gracefully ending in a short train. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a cap of white velvet flowers. She carried an arm bouquet of white Killarney roses and blue forget-me-nots.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Harold Cooper, Oakville, wearing a gown of tropical blue velvet, made on long slender lines. She wore a small hat of matching material and her flowers were premier roses.

Evert Tyrrell, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Mrs. Tyrrell chose a gown of navy triple sheer with navy accessories and wore a corsage of briarcliff roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip through Eastern Ontario and Quebec. For travelling the bride wore a tailored Oxford gray suit, white satin blouse and black accessories. She wore twin silver fox furs.

Mr. and Mrs. Keegan will reside in Oakville.

of Burnbrae, Rev. Dr. A. McKenzie, now of South Monaghan, after which the bride and groom proceeded to unwrap the many beautiful and useful gifts.

In a few well-chosen words both the bride and groom thanked all the guests present for their tokens of friendship, and invited one and all to visit them in their home at Madoc.

Later a dainty lunch was served and all departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Thain every happiness and the best of success in their new venture.

Choir and Clergy left the church, where, outside, the R.C.A.F. Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Cooper, played "Nearer My God to Thee", and then fell in behind the firing party and ex-service men, to proceed to the cemetery to the playing of the Dead March in Saul. After the committal at the cemetery taken by the Lord Bishop and the Rector of the Parish the volleys of the firing party were interspersed by the playing of the hymn "Abide with Me", by the R.C.A.F. band, and the sounding of the Last Post and Reveille by Sgt. Wardle, bugler of the Argyle Light Infantry, brought the impressive ceremony to a conclusion.

Thus Stirling honoured one who had served his Church, his country and his community well, giving unsparingly of his talents as had the Great Physician, and in his unselfish-

Mr. Harper Rollins interviewed the Council in relation to a pavement tax charged against his property, which he claimed was in error. Upon investigation, Mr. Rollins was shown to be right and on motion of W. L. Anderson seconded by C. B. Rollins, he was granted a rebate of $251.

Mr. Geo. Keegan reported that some unknown parties had thrown refuse on the roadway just inside the gate at the municipal dump. It was pointed out that under the regulations of a by-law which was passed at Monday's meeting, no one was permitted to take garbage or refuse to the dump other than the collector.

Fire Chief R. H. Williams made requisition for 150 feet of new fire hose and submitted a number of samples of hose for Council's inspection. No action was taken.

Application for the office of Medical Officer of Health, made vacant by the passing of the late Dr. H. H. Alger, were received from Dr. W. H. Pedley and Dr. E. A. Carleton, and Dr. W. H. Pedley was appointed to complete the balance of the year.

A communication was received from H. P. Ellis, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, relative to the flooding of the Bank cellar from the sidewalk on the east side of North Street. This matter was referred to the Street Committee to confer with the Routly Construction Co.

A second communication from Mr. Ellis lodged a complaint over foul odors emanating from the storm sewer on the west side of North Street, at the corner of F. N. McKee's property. Mr. McKee, who was present, claimed no responsibility for the sewer, and stated that there was no foul order from it. The Board of Health will be asked to look into the matter.

Clerk Geo. Luery was authorized to provide the Heaton Publishing Co. with data concerning the village of Stirling.

Fair Executive Met

A meeting of the Directors of the Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday evening to discuss plans for the Fair. Thos. W. Solmes, chairman of the programme committee reported that the Indian Pony Race which had been advertised for the Fair had been cancelled, due to the Indian riders being unable to be here. The matter of procuring additional entertainment was left in the hands of the programme committee. Arrangements were also made for preparing the grounds and committees were appointed to engage the necessary helpers for the Fair.

Change in Milking Contest

The directors decided to make a change in the regulations governing the milking contest, to allow an attendant to hold the cow during the competition. Competitors in this contest are asked to please take note of the change.

The final meeting of the Board of Directors before the Fair will be on Monday evening next in the Agricultural Rooms.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs J. B. Thompson, F. R. Mallory, Wm. Fitchett, Gil. Thompson, Wm. Patterson, J. E. O'Donnell, C. U. Heath, C. F. Linn, H. L. Fair, Ben Biecker, H. R. Tompkins.

COMEDY GAME TO BE HERE

PLAYERS ARE MOUNTED UPON ANIMALS FOR BURRO FROLIC

"Donkey Ball," a new type of baseball, will be introduced into Stirling on Saturday, September 17th, at the Stirling Arena, under the sponsorship of the Stirling Citizens' Band.

The game is new in this section of the country and comparatively new in the United States. It is played in the same manner as baseball but the players are mounted on real live donkeys during the game. For instance, a batter after hitting the ball, mounts his donkey and rides to first base.

If he is successful in reaching the initial plate, he must continue his way to the other bases in the same manner. The team in the field is likewise mounted on burros. The game is a hilarious affair with the trained animals causing base runners plenty of trouble with their balking tactics.

Teams will be of Glen Ross and Springbrook softball players against a team of Stirling players.

Promotion of the contests will be under the direction of Bandmaster Maurice Bell. An admission fee will be charged and proceeds derived from the contest will be used for Band purposes.

"Donkey Ball" has become quite popular in eastern and mid-western cities and interest in the game is growing rapidly. The contest here is expected to draw a large crowd as local and district players don suits for play.

The Stirling Citizens' Band is in need of funds and the support of the residents of Stirling and District residents will be appreciated. Don't fail to help them by enjoying yourself at this game.

COUNTY GIRLS WON

Hastings County girls' team were winners in the "Clothing Contest" held in connection with the inter-county competition for farm girls of the counties of Ontario at the Canadian National Exhibition. The team composed of Bessie Frederick, Holloway; Eileen Mitts, Holloway, and Lillian Pigden, Madoc, were one of a group of several teams which represented the county at the competitions.

I.O.O.F. GRAVES DECORATED

OVER SEVENTY IN PARADE HEADED BY THE STIRLING CITIZENS BAND

The annual decoration services of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F. were held on Sunday afternoon in the local cemetery when the graves of their departed brethren were decorated. With ideal weather conditions prevailing over seventy members of the Order assembled for the occasion, many coming from other lodges in the district. At 2.30 the brethren formed a parade at the lodge room on Front St., and headed by the Stirling Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Maurice Bell, proceeded to the Cenotaph where bouquets were placed by Bros. C. F. Walt, Stirling, and E. Sadler, Frankford, in honour of those who lost their lives in the Great War. The Last Post was sounded by Bugler James Ward, followed by two minutes' silence, and Reveille.

The march was resumed to the cemetery, where the brethren were greeted by a large number of citizens of Stirling and surrounding district, who had gathered to witness the impressive ceremony. A huge circle was formed around a large flag and as the name of each departed brother was read out by Bro. E. Carlisle, a member stepped from the circle and deposited his flowers around the flag. At the conclusion of this part of the ceremony the flowers were placed on the individual graves. Noble Grand Earl Fox acted as chairman while the decoration charge was given by Bro. Harold Ashley and Bro. Geo. Weaver acted as chaplain.

Bro. J. R. Beatty, of Madoc, District Deputy Grand Master of Madoc District No. 45, was the special speaker for the afternoon and delivered a most timely and appropriate address. (Continued on Page Eight)

FLOWER SHOW IS A SUCCESS

LARGE NUMBER OF ENTRIES
— SUPPER SERVED —
DRESS BY DIST. DIRECTOR

The fourth Annual Flower Show, under the auspices of the Stirling Horticultural Society, took place in the Community Hall, on Thursday afternoon and evening, and was largely attended. Due to the lateness of the show, the exhibits were not quite so numerous as in other years, but the specimens of the different varieties were of an exceptionally high quality.

Mrs. Countryman and Mrs. Coulter, of Tweed, acted as judges, and gave entire satisfaction throughout. The arrangements for handling the various exhibits were all that could be desired and the whole show was one that reflected credit upon the Society and one of which the officers and members may be justly proud.

The sweepstakes awarded the exhibitor with the greatest number of points in the show, was won by Mr. Fred Houchin, who received a beautiful flower bowl, sterling silver deposit on glass, donated by the T. Eaton Co. Previous winners were not eligible for this prize. The second prize in the sweepstakes was won by Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell who received a relish dish set in silver, donated by the Robert Simpson Co.

The special prize of a year's subscription to the News-Argus, donated by H. R. Tompkins for the exhibitor having the highest number of points in Class "A", was won by Mrs. J. C. McGee, while the special for the person winning the most points in Class "B", 25 pounds of Fertilizer from the Toronto Chemical Co., was won by Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell.

The ladies served a supper at 5.30 and a large number of the citizens attended. (Continued on Page Eight)

Tourney Rained Out

The mixed rinks bowling tournament held on the greens of the Stirling Bowling Club yesterday was rained out. Fifteen rinks, including three from Campbellford, two from Kingston, three from Belleville; one from Madoc; one from Peterboro, and five from Stirling were entered and although several games were played a heavy downpour about 7 p.m. forced the cancellation. This is the second time this season that the Stirling Club has had to cancel tournaments due to rain.

Two rinks from Stirling attended the ladies' trebles tournament in Cobourg on Friday last, neither one gaining the coveted circle. Those from here who attended were Mrs. G. Lagrow, Mrs. R. A. Patterson and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, skip, and Mrs. N. Morton, Mrs. P. W. Long and Mrs. E. A. Carleton, skip.

On Saturday Messrs T. W. Solmes and W. J. Whitty, skip; F. R. Mallory and H. R. Tompkins, skip, and Dr. E. A. Carleton, who was paired with his brother, H. G. Carleton, of Norwood, competed in the Loblaw Doubles Tournament in Toronto. Messrs Solmes and Whitty won two out of three games, but the other rinks failed to register a win.

Tournament on Monday

A mixed doubles tournament will be held on the Stirling Greens on Monday next, commencing at 1 p.m. It is expected that there will be a large entry from the district clubs.

PRESBYTERIAL MEETING

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. ENDICOTT IS HEARD
BY FINE ATTENDANCE

One of the largest meetings held by the Belleville Presbytery since Church Union convened in Madoc United Church on Tuesday, September 13th, at 9.30 a.m.

Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, of Bloomfield, the new chairman of the Presbytery, was in charge of the sessions. Associated with the chairman were Rev. J. E. Beckel, of Stirling, as Secretary, and Mr. H. C. Martin of Stirling, as treasurer.

Following the inductions report the chairman welcomed to the Belleville Presbytery, the new members. The following came to the front of the Church and were introduced: Rev. Adam Armstrong, Caniffon; Rev. A. C. McCallum, Coe Hill; Rev. Stanley B. Smith, Eldorado; Rev. E. M. Cook, Foxboro; Rev. W. J. Pearsons, Hollowell; Rev. W. T. R. Delve, Ivanhoe; Rev. A. H. Cragg, Northport, and Rev. H. L. Morrison, Tweed. Mr. Morrison, of Tweed, replied on behalf of the group. Mr. Oscar C. Wagar, of Flinton, was appointed student supply of Flinton and Cloyne. Mr. Percy Holliday of Madoc, was elected representative on the Conference Executive and the Presbytery Committees for the year were appointed.

The special subject for study during the devotional hour was that of Evangelism. Rev. A. J. Wilson, of Napanee introduced the subject, pointing out that in 1936 only fifty-five per cent, and in 1937 only 61 per cent, of the pastoral charges in this Presbytery made additions to the Church on profession of faith. It was pointed out that "God is waiting for us to act and that consecrated and prayerful effort along this line would be crowned with success." Several of the ministers of the Presbytery were asked to present methods used in evangelism, among these being Rev. Jas. Semple, Belleville; Rev. E. M. Cook, Foxboro; Rev. W. H. Truscott, Tamworth; Rev. (Continued on Page Eight)

RAWDON SCHOOL FAIR HELD

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN BY RAWDON TOWNSHIP
PUPILS A TERNAL EVENT

Several hundred pupils from the schools in Rawdon Township took part in the parade and Strachona exercises at the annual School Fair held at Springbrook yesterday. Threatening weather failed to dampen the ardor of the pupils who enjoyed themselves throughout. The exhibits were plentiful and the grade and quality of the same were a credit to the exhibitors. Under the capable supervision of Mr. H. L. Fair, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative, the day's programme was carried out in an attractive manner. The exercises of the various school sections were well executed and the careful training of the various teachers was noticeable to a marked degree. The Agricultural Representative was assisted by Miss E. Brown, secretary, and a staff of judges including Messrs. John Munro, Geo. and W. Sutherland.

WHY NOT HERE?

We note where the Eastern Ontario poultry fair, with headquarters at Brockville, has advised producers to market their chickens at between three and five pounds, dressed weight, and see that they are fattened before sale, so that they may be exported if necessary. This brings to mind a matter which has been discussed in these columns before and that is why a poultry pool could not be established in this district. The holding of a poultry fair here some time in the fall has been talked about at different times for some years; committees have been appointed to get information from the various centres where such events were held, but to date nothing definite has been done towards providing a local market for the poultry producers. There is no doubt but what a Poultry Fair would be advantageous to both producers and the Stirling business men, and we would like to see a joint meeting held to discuss the question.

CARE NEEDED

With the re-opening of school the attention of motorists is called to the greater need of caution on their part when driving on the village streets or in the vicinity of rural schools. Several times a day the streets are crowded with the scholars, many of whom are just beginners and know little or nothing of the traffic regulations or of dangers of playing on the streets. The first two months of the school year have proved to be the most dangerous for the children, with the average number of accidents to children between five and fourteen years of age during September and October being almost fifty per cent. above the average for the rest of the year. This is something that should provide food for thought for drivers of motor vehicles. Motorists should drive with caution so that in case some child thoughtlessly darts across the street or from behind another car, an accident may be averted. An added responsibility rests upon the shoulders of the motorists.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

John C. Kirkwood, a highly esteemed former resident of Brampton, writes a weekly letter to several Canadian and American newspapers. In a recent article he told the story of a superannuated Toronto university professor who went to Europe for a year immediately after his release — this after forty years with the university. When he returned, he went to Hart House to luncheon, and fully expected that his old professional associates would greet him as the Prodigal Son was greeted by his father. But with a single exception, all the men present paid not a particle of attention to the returned professor. One man saw how the old professor was hurt by the non-welcome, and had the grace to make a small fuss over him. This instance tells us also, says the Renfrew Mercury, how an advertiser who quits advertising is unmissed — of how promptly the public forgets and of how unperceived is the return of a long-absent advertiser. An advertiser can keep himself in the public's eye and favour only by persistent advertising. Let him quit advertising, and the public forgets him as quickly as it forgets the dead.

IT WORKED

Some weeks ago the News-Argus commented favourably on the action of the Council of the Village of Havelock in discouraging transients from visiting that village. The degree of success to which the scheme worked may be seen from the following editorial appearing in last week's Havelock Standard:

"Many municipalities noted Havelock's attitude in respect to the transient nuisance, and when the Town Council asked our citizens to discourage the intolerable begging from door to door here a few months ago, many thought it an idle gesture. But, we are glad to report to all and sundry, it worked in Havelock, and ever since it is a rare occasion when a transient bothers to stay in Havelock and try his luck in soliciting food or money. The Town Council, with the co-operation of our citizens, is to be congratulated upon the success of the idea, and more particularly, Councillor James Squire, who insisted upon the motion going through council. From many of our exchanges we note that the transient evil is a burden upon their people and upon the public funds."

With the colder Fall weather in the offing it will not be long before residents of Stirling will be pestered with these roving fellows, and now is the right time for Council to take steps to discourage them from stopping here. During the past couple of years the municipality has provided the transients with sleeping quarters, and it has been left to a small percentage of the citizens to feed them. In our opinion this is entirely wrong. If the village plans on keeping the transients over night, the municipality as a whole should be charged with the cost, and not impose on the generosity of those citizens who are good enough to lend a helping hand to their less fortunate fellow beings. Residents of this village have enough to do to look after the needy in the local community and unless the Council is prepared to feed the transients at the public expense the Constable should be instructed to see that they keep moving when they hit town.

HEIGH! HO! COME TO THE FAIR!

The Stirling Fair, annual exhibition of the Stirling Agricultural Society, will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 20th and 21st, and from present indications it will be an improvement over other years. It is designed and planned to further the interests of Agriculture in the surrounding townships and is deserving of the support of citizens for miles around. Nothing represents the life of any community like the fall fair, with its various displays of the ladies' handiwork and the exhibits in cattle and produce from the farms.

The directors have made a genuine effort to make the prize list, which provides for every phase of agricultural life, and the program of entertainment attractive. That they have been successful in part is manifest by the list of entries already received by the Secretary, and it is anticipated there will be many more. The special prize list is lengthy and covers a wide range for the exhibitors.

The programme is one that should appeal to both old and young alike, and has a number of new features over other years. Due to lack of interest in the horse races during recent years, the directors decided to drop this feature and the entertainment committee have arranged a programme of events of particular interest to farmers. There will be the usual race for farmers' horses hitched to four-wheeled vehicles, and the running race for farmers' horses weighing over 1200 lbs., with good prizes being offered. A milking contest, in which competitors must furnish their own cows, and a car teeter contest, are other features offered for the farmers and their sons. The potato race on horseback, which provided so much amusement for the fair patrons last year, has again been put on the program and in addition there will be a quick-hitch and race once around the track; a running race, in which the riders will dismount and finish the last 100 yards in sacks and leading their horses, a drinking contest, a weight-lifting competition, bread-cutting contest, shoe race for children under 12, and bicycle races for boys and girls.

Lovers of softball are assured of a real treat this year, with two ladies' teams from Toronto playing an exhibition game. In addition the Sawyer-Malt field and track team will stage a number of events in which competitors from the district are invited to compete. There will also be all kinds of games in operation for the amusement of the fair patrons.

The local Horticultural Society will have the usual display in the main building, as well as the Championship School Fair.

Altogether this year's programme looks attractive and given fair weather next Wednesday, the local Fair Grounds should be the meeting place for thousands of the citizens of Hastings and adjacent counties. Plan to attend and invite your friends to meet you at the Stirling Fair, the biggest and best rural fair in the county. Not only will you benefit educationally from a visit to the Fair, but by your attendance you will show your appreciation of the efforts of the directors in providing Stirling and district with an annual Fall Exhibition.

CURRENT COMMENT

The attendance at Toronto Exhibition was much higher than last year. It is to be hoped this is an indication that a turn has been made toward better times. May Stirling Fair also have an increase in attendance this year.

The cooler days and evenings will soon be with us when householders require a small fire in the heater or furnace to make things cosy and warm. Residents are reminded before using the heater or furnace that the pipes should be cleaned of all soot, not only as a precaution against fire, but because soot acts as an insulation and keeps the pipes cool.

The Flower Show held by the Stirling Horticultural Society last week proved to be a success. Due to the early frosts and lateness of the date, the blooms were not as plentiful as in some other years, but the display was a large one and a credit to the Society. The officers worked hard in making the show a success and citizens in general showed their appreciation of their efforts by attending the supper and the floral display in large numbers. The Society is to be congratulated on its efforts in promoting interest in flowers in the community and it is hoped it may continue the good work.

The decision of the Department of Highways to complete the surfacing of the Stirling-Marmora Highway will be welcomed by motorists in this district. Work is progressing rapidly and it is expected that the Routly Construction Company will finish the job before long. It is to be hoped that the Department will make some announcement concerning the Stirling-Foxboro section of Highway No. 14. This road has been in bad shape the most of the summer and it appears that the only solution is a permanent surface. We are still of the opinion that the Department might better spend its money in completing various highways in Central and Eastern Ontario than on a scenic drive from Gananoque to Brockville.

What Others Say

A LOT OF TALK

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)
A traveller back from England and Scotland and Germany and Switzerland says he reads more about war in the Toronto papers than he ever heard of it while visiting those countries. Everywhere he went he found the people kind and peaceable. It is nice to know, or is it, that there is war talk in Europe and that our own papers know about it, too. Else there would be nothing exciting to read about in the big metropolitan sheets which must be sensational in their news-columns to find a ready sale for their papers.

EARLIER CLOSING POSSIBLE

(Picton Gazette)
During the period Picton observed Daylight Saving Time, practically all stores were closed at midnight Saturdays, and crowds on the streets were very slim even though this was just eleven o'clock by the time observed by rural folks.

Picton is back on Standard Time and it appears that there is an opportunity for merchants to start earlier closing. If stores were closed at eleven o'clock Standard Time it would not be any change as compared with past weeks as far as the rural buyers are concerned. Earlier closing of stores is due in Picton, and each merchant might well on Saturday begin to observe earlier closing. Nothing would be lost by it.

BUILDING UP TRADE

(Picton Times)
The problem of how to build up the trade of a business concern is not usually a question of some spectacular stroke which will attract attention and win customers. Rather, it is a question of slow, steady, patient work to please people. It is the day by day effort to collect a stock of reliable goods which can be sold at low and fair prices, and to so handle it as to please the buyers enough so they will return.

It also involves the idea of personal relations between the business concern and its salespeople on one side and the buying public on the other. Every time a salesman shows personal interest in his customers and impresses them with the idea that he is eager to satisfy them, he accomplishes something to build up the trade of his employer and to enhance his own future.

YOUR HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER GETS NO CREDIT

(Gananoque Reporter)

I fear that we do not always give due credit to our home town paper, says George Matthew Adams, the well-known writer. It seems to take its place beside so many of the other ordinary gifts and privileges which, because they are rather expected, stimulate little extra excitement from day to day. But when we leave our home-town, when we think of the many things — our home-town newspaper especially — which we miss, and of which we are often deprived. That hotel manager who arranges to have the home-town paper of his guest, delivered each day to his room, does a wise and shrewd thing. Rarely do I go to a large city without hunting out its out-of-town newspaper stand. I like, not only to buy my home-town paper, but many papers from various cities, just to study who have come there for their home-town paper. I like their loyalty, for one thing, and then I am often amused by the strange and often humorous statement made as they try to stir up conversation with the newsmen. People away from home often get lonely, and there seems to be something soothing to this loneliness just the moment when that stranger learns that he can get his home-town newspaper "just around the corner," and take it to his room for the night. But the home-town newspaper itself — what an institution it is! Something very great and important would be lacking in the city without a single newspaper of its own. Even the small town, without its newspaper, is at a disadvantage. Our home-town newspaper keeps us informed about what is going on all around us. It fights our battles for us. It stirs up our often sagging courage, and it creates spirit — useful civic spirit, without which a town or city isn't of age. Read your own home-town paper. Support it in every possible way. Give it suggestions. It will welcome them. Tell its editor what you like about it, as well as what you don't like. He will welcome both opinions, just so long as they are constructively offered. Your home-town newspaper is your spokesman, your friend and advocate.

FARMER KILLED ON NO. 7 HIGHWAY

Harry Johnson, Mountain Grove farmer, sustained fatal injuries and died in the Kingston General Hospital on Sunday after being struck by a motor car, two miles west of Arden on No. 7 highway. Johnston was directing traffic around a stalled motor truck, driven by Wilfred Courneyea, Tanworth, when he was struck down. Johnston was riding with Courneyea when the truck in which they were riding stalled as Mr. Courneyea was endeavouring to turn the vehicle around on Highway No. 7. Mr. Johnston got out of the vehicle and was flagging oncoming motorists to warn them of the danger of the stalled truck, that was blocking the highway on the north side.

A motor car driven by Lorne Arney, Henderson, slowed down when he saw Johnston's warnings, but another car behind Arney, driven by Fred Steele, of Mountain Grove, failed to see Johnston's signal, with the result that Mr. Steele's car crashed into the rear of the Arney vehicle, which in turn struck Johnston and knocked him to the pavement when the Arney car swerved into the pedestrian. Johnston died as the result of a fractured skull, Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Hatch of Marmora, stated after his investigation. An inquest was ordered.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

"East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." The words of Rudyard Kipling, late beloved bard of Empire, had no reference to Canada and particularly not to Canadian rugby football, although there has been a definite barrier, stronger even than geographical obstacles, that has kept eastern and western Canada apart in football matters in the past few years. Now comes the payoff; East and West are meeting — but the centre is out of kilter!

You see, western Canadian gridiron officials have in the past few years followed a trend that has taken their game closer to the American version. They have allowed 10-yard interference, unlimited forward passing, and other items definitely frowned upon by the staid old diehards of the East. The Canadian Rugby Union upheld the eastern viewpoint, and western teams taking part in Dominion finals have had to conform with C.R.U. rules with the result that the Dominion senior final in recent years has been a farce, the westerners being forced to change their style of play completely for the crucial game.

Now comes an announcement from Montreal that is bound to throw plenty of worry into the Big Four, O.R.F.U. and Intercollegiate ranks. It denotes the first break in the solid eastern front — the Quebec Rugby Football Union has decided to adopt western rules, hocus-bolus, in all leagues under its jurisdiction. The Q.R.F.U. tried out the wide-open western code last year in its interscholastic groups and it met with widespread approval. Now they have decided to go the whole hog, and make the western system general throughout the province.

Skippping from Kipling to Khayyam, "The moving finger writes and having writ, moves on—" Surely the action of the Q.R.F.U. can be taken as nothing less than the handwriting on the wall. The way westerners and new Quebec fans have taken to the wide-open style of football that results from running interference and more prolific use of the forward pass, it must have advantages from a spectator's point of view. If so, it is up to the conservative eastern solons to give Ontario fans a chance to decide the issue. Progress cannot be impeded in sport any more than in any other matter, and it is our opinion that the old guard among eastern football solons are going to be forced to concede that point before many more grid campaigns have passed into history.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — What Canadian big league ball played has spoiled no-hit, no-run performances for two opposing pitchers this year? (Answer at foot of column.)

Now that the major league baseball season is drawing to a close, the annual quest for the best rookie of the year is in progress. In the opinion of many American League experts, the searchers need look no farther than Cleveland, where one John Geoffrey Heath has carved a definite niche for himself with the second-place Indians. Jeff, who has been clipping the pellett at a 333 clip, is one of the few Canadian-born stars in the baseball firmament, and his consistent clouting is undoubtedly one of the main factors in the Tribe's showing this term. Manager Oscar Vitt has been so impressed with the 190-pound native of Fort William that he has moved him to the clean-up spot in the batting list, an honour seldom accorded a first-year man. When the pitching staff of the Indians fell apart and the Tribe went into the slump that cost them the A.L. lead, Heath was one of the few members of the club who held up his end and his big bat has powered their comeback drive of the past two weeks.

Looking elsewhere in the major leagues we find two other Canadian rookies have made the grade in first class company. Goodwin "Goody" Rosen, Toronto sardiot product, is a fixture in right field for Brooklyn Dodgers. We saw him in action at Buffalo recently when the Dodgers played an exhibition affair with the Bisons of the International League, and his homer and two singles powered the Brooklyn attack.

Joe Krakauskus, Montreal-born youth who learned his baseball in Hamilton and later played in Brantford and Brockville, seems to have finally hit his stride with Washington after a rather shaky start. Lack of control handicapped "Krakky" at first but after several notable relief performances he finally earned a starting role and came through with a three-hit shut-out against Philadelphia A's recently.

Of course, we always have George "Twinkletons" Selkirk, Huntsville-born member of New York Yankees' famed Murderers' Row. Selkirk came back a few weeks ago after an injury put him on the bench for some time, and his return to the roster played no small part in the Yanks' drive to the top of the A.L. heap after they had trailed Cleveland Indians for a time. You'll hear about George if those Yanks get into the World Series again, as now seems almost certain, because the lanky Canadian is one of the greatest "money" players in the game, and invariably comes through in the clutch.

SPORTS ODDITY — Ted Jocelyn, of Hamilton has a unique record. In the past seven years he has played for three different teams in the Hamilton City Softball League, and each year has been on the city championship squad.

CANADIANA — It is doubtful if there ever was a champion in any sport who has so completely dominated his field as has Bobby Pierce, world's professional sculling champ, in the past decade. He demonstrated at the Ex that there is still no one fit to challenge his supremacy despite the fact that he has been ruling the roost for ten years now. Native of Australia, Pierce came to Canada with the Aussie Empire Games squad in 1930, took a liking to this country, and settled in Hamilton, Ont. Now he is planning a trip "home" for the coming Christmas. Here's one for the Yock — Delhi Tobacco Men have progressed to the second round of the provincial "C" playdowns, yet they lost fifteen straight games before hanging up a win. Playing in a higher class loop when they were unable to get suitable grouping, the Tobacco Men lost 14 straight in league competition. They also dropped their first saw-off fixture to Hagersville, but came back to cop the next two and advance to the second round. Wife Mary Pickford was an interested spectator at Oakville recently when Buddy Rogers, one-time matinee idol of the flickers, led Toronto Polo Club to an 8-6 victory over Oakville in a Grenfell Cup contest. Buddy, now an orchestra leader, made two scores for the Torontonians. Bill Holmes, who starred in professional hockey for more years than he cares to tell, will coach Port Colborne Sailors in the Senior O.H.A. race this winter. Bill socked away a goodly share of his hockey earnings, now owns a prosperous hotel at Crystal Beach, near Fort Erie, and is doing quite well, thank you. Talking about senior O.H.A. hockey, the association will have a brand new entry this year from St. Catharines. The Garden City has never had an arena, and with a new artificial plant going up, the whole town is hockey gaga. Reports say they are luring a ready-made team in to town for their first crack at the ice sport. Harold Wilson, Ingersoll speed merchant, failed in his second attempt to capture the American Gold Cup at Detroit on Labour Day, his craft developing mechanical trouble in the second heat. His time of 57.582 m.p.h., was far below the peak he had reached in trials. Better luck next year, Harold.

ANSWERS DEPT. — Goody Rosen, Toronto-born outfielder for Brooklyn Dodgers, got the only hit in a game with the New York Giants with Hal Schumacker pitching, and repeated the trick against Jim McGee, of St. Louis.

JOHN ROBERT TANNER

John Robert Tanner passed away in the Toronto Hospital on September 8th, in his 76th year, after a short illness. He was the last one of a family of ten and was the son of the late Elizabeth Cook Tanner and William Tanner. He was born on the 8th line of Rawdon Township, October 10th, 1862, attended the Brown School and was a member of St. Thomas' Church, living there until he was grown up. He spent a few years in Michigan, returning to Springbrook where he was stationary engineer in Morgan's Mill for over thirty years. After the mill was torn down he went to live in Trenton for a few years then moving to Toronto, to live with his son, Frank. He was married to the late Catherine Wilson, of Tweed, in 1887. He leaves to mourn his loss, four sons, Fred, of Stirling, Harry in Winnipeg, Clifford and Frank in Toronto; two daughters deceased, Marjorie and Emma; sixteen grandchildren and many nieces, nephews and cousins. He was of a kind disposition and made many friends who will miss him. His home was always open to friends, neighbours and the school children where he lived. He was a life member of Springbrook L.O.L. 442, under whose auspices the funeral was held on Saturday afternoon. Burial was made in the family plot beside the church.

BELLEVEILLE MARKET

Fall and early winter apples held the spotlight on Belleville Market on Saturday with the popular Macintosh Red selling at from fifty to seventy-five cents per hamper for windfalls. Tree-picked St. Lawrence were plentiful and sold well at one dollar per bushel with peck lots at twenty-five and thirty cents each. A fine quality of Wolf River was offered at seventy-five cents per hamper lot with other varieties of cooking apples quoted at Twenty cents per peck.

Imported Alberta peaches were offered at forty-five cents per basket, with other varieties selling at from thirty-nine cents to fifty cents, according to quality. Blue and white grapes were quoted at thirty-five cents per basket while Burbank and other popular varieties of plums sold at forty cents per basket. Prune plums and green gages moved well at seventy-five cents per six-quart lot. The first wild grapes of the season were in evidence with small basket lots offered at fifteen cents each.

The market offered a wide range of canteloupe and watermelon. The former in all sizes and prices from five cents up sold well with the watermelon offered from ten cents each up.

Home-grown tomatoes were plentiful with quotations holding firm at last week's level. Bushel-lots were offered at thirty-five cents with baskets quoted at ten and fifteen cents each. Sweet Corn of the Evergreen and Yellow Bantam variety was offered at ten cents per dozen ears, with some choice quality white corn moving briskly at two dozen ears for twenty-five cents.

Potatoes were offered at fifty cents per bushel and pecklots at twenty cents each. Table squash in varying sizes was evident with a good quality selling at from five cents up. Pumpkin in small sizes moved slowly at ten and fifteen cent prices. Onions, carrots, beets, lettuce, radishes and other staple seasonal vegetables sold briskly at prevailing prices.

In the inside market, a large crowd circulated around the various stands. Eggs were offered at thirty-five cents per dozen for "A" selects a decline of two cents from last week's quotations, while mediums and pullets' sold at thirty-three and thirty cents per dozen respectively.

Chicken was fairly abundant with young birds selling at from sixty cents to ninety cents each. Fowl and yearling chickens were offered from sixty cents each. Farmers' butter quotations were steady with two-pound rolls selling at sixty-five cents, although in some places "singles" were offered at thirty-five cents.

CHEESE BOARD

Two prices were registered on the Belleville Cheese Board during Saturday morning's trading. Of a total of 2500 white and 420 assorted boxes of cheese, 537 boxes sold to W. R. McCreary at 13 13-16 cents. The balance was distributed among Mr. Cook, Mr. Morton, Mr. Hart and Mr. Murphy at a price of 13 3-4 cents. Buyers present were Messrs Taylor, Hart, McCreary, Cook, Morton, Fraleigh, Murphy and Stiles. The following factors were represented:

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

New developments and harvesting of field crops are rapidly transforming the business of farming into one of our most mechanized and scientifically operated industries, whether we like it or not. Few if any of these new developments are receiving a more enthusiastic response from the constructive farmers than the practice of improvement of pastures through the use of chemical fertilizer.

Dairy farmers have been quick to realize the possibilities in conveniently-located permanent pasture areas. These are real time and energy savers and are in particular favour as night pastures during the rush period of harvesting, threshing and silo filling. Highly fertilized with essential mineral to promote the growth of our better pasture grasses and wild white clover, these pastures can be grazed earlier in the spring and later in the fall. Besides, says G. R. Snyder, soil chemist, practical farmers and animal nutritional experts who have studied the question are agreed that the summer mineral requirements of livestock can best be fed through the pasture herbage. High in minerals and exceedingly palatable, fertilized grass is much favoured by the dairy herd and results in both increased production and improved quality of milk.

Beer cattle men are interested in pasture fertilization from a slightly different angle. In areas specializing in this type of farming, many large fields and even whole farms have been continually pastured for many years. Year after year the calcium and phosphates have been carried away to form an essential part of the teeth, bones and blood of the grazing cattle. Today hundreds of these pastures have reached the stage of near collapse and are being rapidly overrun with weeds and other forms of poverty vegetation. Most of the soils of these areas contain an abundant supply of the seed of wild white clover, a carry-over from the days of virgin fertility, and it is by promoting the growth of this legume that the restoration of these pastures is possible.

Fertilizing pastures in the fall with high phosphate fertilizers of the type of 0-16-6 is now a generally accepted practice, for phosphates have a remarkable influence on root growth, and when applied in liberal quantities fortify the plants against winter killing and insure an earlier and more vigorous growth in the spring. On the lighter sandy soil and other areas that tend to be low in nitrogen, or where clover makes up less than 20 per cent. of the herbage, the fall application of mineral is supplemented by the spring application of a high nitrogen fertilizer, such as sulphate of ammonia or cyanamid.

The planning of work in advance is a factor of no slight importance in the success of any type of business and in the case of producing crops, a definite fertility plan designed to obtain the maximum cropping profits without impoverishing the soil is fast becoming a part of many a farm programme.

PLANNING PROJECTS IN BETTER FARMING

The planting and caring for a pet acre of wheat, corn or potatoes and the exhibiting of the product at the fair has encouraged many a young farmer to take a keener interest in both the work on the farm and the agricultural life of the community.

Present day farming, says G. R. Snyder, soil chemist, requires this keen and progressive outlook. If the fullest advantage is to be taken of the many new and truly surprising developments of recent years.

One of the most interesting and profitable ventures for the young farmer, and for the older ones too, is the establishment of a definite farm seed plot. This need be only an acre or two in area, and should be conveniently located, so that even in the busiest seasons it can be given the attention it deserves in regard to weeding and roguing. On this plot one bushel or smaller amounts of the seed of improved varieties of grain or fodder crops can be quickly multiplied, at little cost, to furnish seed for larger fields.

Factors related to the fertility of the soil are of increasing importance on every farm, demanding careful, intelligent study. This might well form the basis of an experimental type of project that could be started as soon as the rush of summer work is over.

Many soils are very strongly acid and require an application of limestone, and this can best be applied directly after the crop is removed, so that it may be well mixed through the soil during after-harvest cultivation.

Pastures in many parts of the country are rapidly deteriorating, both in yield and in the quality of herbage produced, and results of many experiments indicate the early fall as being the most effective time for the application of the chemical fertilizer — usually 0-16-6, which supplies the mineral plant food substances necessary for their improvement.

Before starting a project, one should first get as much information as possible on the problem involved, and in the case of soils a chemical test will quickly indicate whether unhealthy conditions exist, due to excessive acidity or alkalinity or to a deficiency or any one of the essential plant food substances. Instructions for the taking of soil samples can be obtained from the nearest agricultural college or from the technical service department of a commercial fertilizer company.

The day of the "good enough" methods of farming is past. It is not enough now simply to grow crops; they must be produced so that the quality will be of a standard to meet the demands of our modern highly selective markets.

MINTO

Mrs. Belch and children, of Stirling, are spending this week with Mrs. Sherman Brady.

Sorry to report Mrs. Will Wright is a patient at the Belleville General Hospital. Her friends all wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. N. Faul, of Thurlow, spent a few days this week with relatives in this community.

Rev. Mr. Delve took anniversary services at Rylestone on Sunday and Mr. Harry Atkinson, of Albert College, took charge of the service here and was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George McMaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Belcour, and Glen, Mr. Fred Cook, Evelyn and George, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Colden, at Roslin.

Mr. James Johnston and his mother were Sunday guests of Mr. Jacob Sine, in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. George McMaster and Della visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson.

School opened again for the year with Miss Margaret Danford as teacher for the term. There were five beginners: Eva Hagerman, Gweneth Cain, Betty Ryan, Gerald Ryan and Billy Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sarles and family spent Sunday with relatives at Frankford.

Miss Lela Johnston spent a few days last week with Miss Laura Wright.

Miss Jennie Dainard spent the week-end with Miss Jean Donald.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGee on the arrival of a baby girl.

On September 4th, over fifty relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McMaster to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Dinner was served at noon and a wedding cake adorned the table, with twenty-five candles on it. After dinner snaps were taken and they were presented with money enough for a cabinet of silver.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Mount Pleasant (Rawdon) Woman's Missionary Society held their September meeting at the church, based on the theme "World Peace." The service opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Herb David and the president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, gave the call to worship, "God is working his purpose out." The members sang "All people that on earth do dwell," followed by sentence prayers for our adopted missionaries. The roll call was answered with "Peace." The devotional period, based on "Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men" was taken by Mrs. Herb David, which brought out the necessity of peace at home, in the church and in the nation. All joined in "When Peace like a River" and Mrs. Roy Thrasher offered prayer. In the business period Miss Eileen MacMullen was appointed delegate to the Sectional Rally to be held at West Huntingdon United Church, on October 6th. The Autumn Thanksgiving will be taken on Sunday afternoon, October 2nd, with a special service based on the "Hunan Jubilee Mission." Each member is asked for an extra donation over last year to help along the allocation, especially the third quarter, when so many have been absent. This will be the last meeting at the church and October meeting will be held at the parsonage. The President introduced the new Study Book, "The World in Canada," by J. I. McKay and the study of it will begin in November.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers read a number of up-to-date clippings on "Peace" and brought together a few thoughts of interest to all, and an appropriate poem. Mrs. Roy Thrasher, assisted by others in the group, brought a leaflet on "World Peace" which had been prepared by Mrs. G. J. Blewett, for use in auxiliaries and brought out the spirit of world brotherhood. Miss Eileen MacMullen read one of John Oxenham's poems on "Peace." Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave the highlights of the "School for Leaders" at Whitby, when among the special speakers were Miss Minnie Shipley, Honan; Miss Luella Rorke, Japan; Little Tonko Kayahawa, the W.M.S. scholarship student for Japan, and Rev. Lydia Gruchy, the first woman to be ordained. The service closed with the Benediction of "The Son of God goes forth to war."

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Summers recently enjoyed a trip to the "Coblers", Crow Bay, the guests of Mrs. Robt. Fry.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver delighted with a vocal solo "Glimpses of Heaven" at the morning service at Mount

Rally Day

On Sunday afternoon at Mount Pleasant, the annual rally service was held, based on the theme "The Bible chained and free." Miss Vera McAdam presided at the piano and the superintendent, Mr. James Sharp, took charge, assisted by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Beckel. The service opened with "Break thou the Bread of Life." Four stories telling of the History of the Bible from 1538 to 1938, beginning four hundred years ago when King Henry VIII of England ordered that a copy of the Bible in English be placed in each parish church so that the people might come and read it until today when the Bible is the world's best seller. The stories were given by Miss Marion Phillips, Miss Gladys Summers, Master Carman Beckel and Master Carleton Phillips. The superintendent paid tribute to the lives of men who had been staunch upholders of the Bible in past days and he urged a better attendance at the Sunday School Sessions this autumn. The Junior Choir, composed of Joyce Johnson, Gladys Summers, Marion Phillips, Marion Rose, Evelyn Melville and Lois McAdam sang "Jesus Bids us Shine." Miss Gladys Sharp recited "Precious Bible." The offering amounting to nearly five dollars will be used for the Board of Christian Education to strengthen and encourage weaker Sunday Schools.

Rev. J. E. Beckel brought a message based on the subject "Translating the Bible into Life." He said the Bible is translated into one thousand languages and dialects and any man is happy whose chief joy is the Bible. He urged his hearers to make the Bible theirs and study its pages. Mrs. John Holmes presented her report as grading officer as follows: from Primary to Junior Boys, Robert Hoard and Gerry Melville; Primary to Jr. Girls, Grace Dunham; Junior Boys to Intermediate Boys, Douglas Campbell and Eric Summers; Junior Girls to Intermediate Girls, Evelyn Melville, Lois McAdam, Irene Calvert; Intermediate girls to Sr. Girls, Phyllis David, Alma Johnson, Edna Hubble; Intermediate Boys to Senior Boys, Donald Johnson, Frank Spencer, Douglas McAdam; from Senior Classes to Young Married Class, Mr. and Mrs. Ira David, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Higgs.

DAVID McCUMBER

The death of David McCumber, a highly esteemed resident of Fuller, occurred at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry Moore, at Crookston, on Saturday, following a lengthy illness, in his 63rd year.

The late Mr. McCumber was the youngest son of the late William and Harriett McCumber, and spent his entire life in the Fuller district, where he followed the occupation of farmer. For the past ten years he has been an invalid and following the death of his mother three years ago he has made his home with his sister, Mrs. H. Moore, of Crookston.

Left to survive are three sisters, Mrs. Henry Moore, of Crookston, Mrs. Seymour Bushell, of Belleville, and Mrs. Henry Kellar, of Manitoba, and one brother, Joseph, of Frankford.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held on Monday and was conducted by Rev. Thompson, of the Standard Church, assisted by Rev. Smith, of Madoc.

The pallbearers were Messrs John Geen, Chas. Moreland, Sam Calvert, Frank Kellar, Ben Brough and Herbert Burke.

Interment in Tweed Cemetery.

The floral tributes included: sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kellar, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Burke; wreaths, Mr. and Mrs. Moore and family, Mrs. Lovibond, Mr. and Mrs. Bushell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tust, Mr. and Mrs. Bowler, Belleville.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

SEVENTEENTH INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting fells a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands—a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

A voice from the circle of men addressed Laredo and he recognized it as that of Petersen, one of the nesters. "Do you mean Rourke, over on the D Bar T, Laredo?"

"That's who I mean," Laredo said softly.

"Why, you—?" Petersen began. "Cut it, Petersen," Laredo said sharply. "He's mine."

The killer's eyes slid wildly over the line of hostile faces as he cringed alone on the sidewalk.

Then he streaked for his guns, terror written on his face. Laredo whipped a Colt that had been wedged at his back around his side in a tight, swift arc that lanced out five shots in one roaring pencil of orange.

The killer's knees buckled slowly and he pitched forward on his face. Laredo spat noisily and looked around the crowd, his gun trailing a wisp of acrid smoke up into the night. "Anyone else want to buy in on this fight?"

"Ain't nobody but me goin' to buy in on it," a flat, uncompromising voice announced. Through the circle the sheriff shoved his way. He looked at the figure sprawled in a pool of blood on the sidewalk. "Anybody know him?" he asked instead.

"Name's 'Chinch' somethin'," a man in the crowd said. "Rode for Sayres."

The sheriff nodded. A couple you men take him across to Murph's."

The hardware store was also the undertaker's parlor. Two men volunteered. The sheriff turned to Laredo.

"Come on over to the office. I got to talk to you."

Petersen, the nester, and Chuck fell in behind Laredo and the sheriff. They went over to the sheriff's office.

Inside, they found the lamp lit. Rosy and Dave were seated watching the door.

"Well, I'll be damned!" the sheriff said. He glared at Rosy and started to speak.

"Save it," Rosy drawled, and grinned.

"You better start talkin'," the sheriff said ominously. "I got Crowell in jail and I ain't said why we really want him. Now you tell me."

Briefly and bluntly Rosy told them what he had overheard Crowell say to Winters at the D Bar T. Dave had heard it all on the way to town. Then Dave told them about his capture by Sayres and what he had heard Sayres say about the boss. He finished with the fight with the outlaws and his escape with Dorsey Hammond. Laredo explained his killing of Chinch and the reasons.

"What I can't figure out in the whole thing," Rosy said presently, "is what it's all about. Why do they want the ranch and the mine?"

"I reckon I can tell you," Laredo said.

"You tell 'em, Chuck."

"Gold," Chuck said. "Plenty."

And then Laredo told him of his discovery of Winters' working the gold, and how he had brought Chuck up to make positive.

"You mean," Dave said slowly, when Laredo had finished, "that Ted Winters was tryin' to get the place out from under his own wife?"

"It looks that way," Laredo said softly.

"There's just one thing left to do now," Rosy announced quietly.

"We got to turn Crowell loose and let him lead us to the boss."

Rosy gave instructions. Laredo was to go warn Hammond to act as if he were ignorant of the man behind his daughter's kidnapping when and if Crowell came to try and buy the mine. Then Laredo was to go back to the hotel, and keep a check on Crowell if he went there. Rosy gave Petersen a minute description of Crowell, then gave the nester some money with the injunction to watch the station and if Crowell boarded the night train to follow him and wire back for help. The sheriff was to go let Crowell out of jail with apologies. Dave and Rosy were going to follow Crowell and not let him out of their sight.

The San Angel County Courthouse was a sorry affair of board and abode brick.

Across from it on the top bar of a corral, Dave and Rosy lounged. In silence they were watching the dimly lighted rectangle which was the jail door.

When the sheriff's fat figure appeared in the doorway, followed by a small and slim one, they crossed the street and fell in behind the sheriff some thirty yards away. The night was inky.

"But man," they heard the sheriff say, "give us a chance. You looked like Henry. The only way we could prove it was to wire El Paso and that's what we done. They said Henry was caught and already hung."

"If I ever see that little runt again that brought me over to your office, I'll break his neck for him," Crowell stormed.

"I wouldn't," the sheriff advised quietly.

Crowell crossed to the Mile High corner and disappeared. Rosy and Dave saw him enter the hotel. In three minutes he was on the street again, where he cut across and headed down the side street.

Rosy and Dave saw his shadowy figure turn into Dr. Fullerton's.

Crowell's visit to Hammond was short. When he came out of the doctor's house he walked swiftly toward the hotel.

He came out of the hotel, a piece of luggage in his hand.

Rosy whistled softly as they drew back in the shadows. "So that was his hurry? Only ten minutes to catch a train."

Rosy led the way around the rear of the short train. On the other side of the tracks, they kept in shadow again, and walked a few hundred feet past the panting engine until they came to the stock pens.

Rosy faded away in the shadow. When the engine bell started to clang, he was again squatting with Dave. Slowly the train lumbered out of the station, pulled abreast of them and passed them.

Then Rosy chuckled and settled back on his heels. Something hit the cinders ahead of them and slid harshly a distance. It was a piece of luggage. Then the dark figure of a man could be seen as he swung down from the car.

They listened and soon heard the footsteps behind them to the rear of the pen. Rosy edged his head around the corner and saw it was Crowell.

Using piles of ties, tool sheds and a horse trough for shelter, Crowell swung wide of the station, walked beyond it a way, then crossed the tracks into the alley which ran behind the buildings of the main street.

In the alley, with the dim light of the town at the upper end, they followed him easily.

Suddenly Crowell swerved out of the alley, climbed over a small, neat hedge, moved around to the front of a house, mounted the one step of its low porch and knocked on the door. Evidently a voice bid him enter, as he disappeared.

Dave's amazed eyes sought Rosy's in the dark.

"Know it?" Rosy asked.

"God, yes!" Dave said huskily.

"That's Pearson's."

"Here's the dehornin'," Rosy muttered. "Come on."

They vaulted the hedge and stepped on to the porch cautiously. Testing the door, Rosy found it unlocked.

He drew a gun, as did Dave, and swung against the door. It opened readily, letting them into a low-ceiled half-darkened room.

Sprawled in an easy chair on the other side of the wide fireplace, at the far end of the room, sat Quinn. One of his guns pointed at the door. The other pointed at the two men, Pearson and Crowell, seated together on aavenport. Both men were holding their hands over their heads.

"Quinn!" Rosy exploded.

"Howdy," Quinn drawled. "Pearson seems to think I shouldn't have come here tonight."

Rosy was the first to find himself and he chuckled. "Reckon he'd like to tell Buck Hammond that?"

"I don't intend to tell Buck Hammond anything!" Pearson snapped. His face was stern and unyielding.

Quinn drew a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and handed them to Rosy. Pearson and Crowell, protesting, were handcuffed together.

"Reckon you and Quinn can take them over to Doc Fullerton's?" Rosy asked Dave. "I'm going to get the sheriff. We'll make this legal, anyhow."

It was a grim and silent group that collected on the sun-porch of Dr. Fullerton's at Rosy's behest. He had gone to the hotel to waken Mary, and had been told by the clerk that Winters was found dead in a hotel room. The clerk had informed the sheriff, who immediately started a search for Quinn.

"Did you tell Mrs. Winters?" Rosy asked swiftly.

"Sure. He's her husband, ain't he?"

Rosy had no desire to face her now, so he sent a note up to her room with the clerk, asking her to come to Hammond's. Then he picked up Laredo, Chuck and the sheriff, and they went back to Hammond's.

Mary was there ahead of them. Dave's face was strangely calm. Pearson and Crowell were sitting side by side on an empty bed. Dorsey was sitting on the far side of Hammond's bed.

Quinn was seated in the corner near the door. Hank eyed him suspiciously and Quinn changed his seat, a smile of inner amusement on his face.

The sheriff started in without preliminaries. "Pearson, we've got the goods on you," he announced.

"I haven't any idea what you're talking about," Pearson replied.

"Wait a minute," Rosy put in.

He lounged off one of the beds and sat on the foot of Hammond's across from Pearson and Crowell. Rosy built a cigarette, lighted it, and inhaled deeply.

"Matter of fact, Pearson," he drawled at last, "we haven't got a thing on you."

"Then let me go," Pearson said coldly.

"What connection have you got with Crowell?" Rosy asked mildly.

"Banking business," Pearson said.

"The kind that would make Crowell get on a train in front of five or six men to make it look like he was leavin' town and then jump off as soon as he was out of the station."

Pearson was unflinched. "What Mr. Crowell does is no business of mine. We had an engagement tonight. He kept it. That's all I know." His voice rose. "I insist that you free me!"

Rosy laughed. "What makes you think we have to?"

"Because I'm innocent of any crime. The law requires it!"

Rosy leaned forward a little, his face unsmiling. "Forget you have any rights under the law, Pearson."

"You see," Rosy continued softly, "he knows you're behind this bush-whackin' and dynamitin' and stealin' the same as we do. Only he didn't have what they call the 'judicial temperament'. Maybe you've wondered what's happened to Sayres."

Neither of them answered, but they looked at Rosy closely.

THE FARMER AND THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

A farmer talked with me today On working just eight hours a day; The motion struck me fine; He knew the hour when he'd begin. The only thing that bothered him Was getting through in time.

I'm up at five or six, he said, No longer I can stay in bed, I'm just a farming man; And though that's early in the day, The stock all start to look my way, And wonders where I am.

At noon I like to sit a bit And after dinner snooze or sit, To keep from turning sour; A little rest like that will pay, I take it every working day, For just a half an hour.

But when it gets on after two, My day should then be almost through And I should quit right there; I should go driving into town, Or get a book and sit me down, And find my easy chair.

But I have got to drive a team, I've got a pile of seed to clean, My work's not nearly done; I've got to mend a whiffletree, And clean some pests from out a tree, I haven't well begun.

When I get thorough the chores at night, I know if I have reckoned right, And figured it two ways, I've got it firmly in my head That since I got from out my bed I've worked two eight-hour days.

BURIED WHEN WALL COLLAPSES

Burying one man under tons of debris and injuring three others, the east wall of the Port Hope plant of Canadian Cannery, collapsed without warning on Monday morning. Thomas Boyle, aged about 20, Cobourg, was the man killed, while Frank Vogam, 43, Toronto; H. L. Boyace, Toronto; and Garnet Russell, Port Hope, were injured.

Vogam, talking with Blake and Wallford Vick, manager of the plant, at the doorway of the wrecked building was struck by a falling pole and is believed to have suffered a fractured hip. Blake, struck on the head by flying debris, was only slightly injured. Russell, working with the buried man on the south-east corner of the third floor of the building and pinned in by the wreckage, crawled out over the debris after the collapse.

One hundred and twenty-five employees, mostly women, were at work in the 53-year-old building when the wall gave way. Only a few men, however, were working in the Eastern portion, which was devoted chiefly to storage. The building, of brick construction, consists of three storeys and a tower which housed a huge tank. The tank, approximately 18 feet in diameter and 15 feet in height, and half filled with water, fell 50 feet from the tower when the wall of the building fell out.

Tons of canned tomatoes from broken cartons and cases which had been stored in the wrecked portion of the building were spilled from two floors. The canned goods hampered efforts of rescue workers.

Boyace, married, is the father of a six-month old daughter. His wife and sister are both employees of the plant, and, with other employees, they witnessed rescue operations.

The building, recently inspected, originally was built for a brewery.

COE HILL MEN ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Culminating nearly a year of police investigation, a father and son, both residents of the village of Coe Hill, were arrested on Thursday by Provincial Constable Palmer of Bancroft.

George Rosebush, the son, was apprehended on a charge of breaking and entering the garage of Clark Rollins, Coe Hill, and stealing therefrom a quantity of tools and garage equipment, while his father, William Rosebush, was charged with disposing of the stolen goods, which were recently recovered by police.

The theft of the garage equipment at Rollins garage in Coe Hill occurred late in 1937 with police investigations having been carried on ever since to be culminated by the recent recovery of the goods.

Nova Scotian Lights and Shadows

A lesson in the value of preserving natural beauty is written plainly across Nova Scotia's 21,000 square miles which retain an old-time charm not to be found in as great a degree anywhere else in Canada.

Three-quarters of the province remain forest clad, literally webbed with rivers and lakes; the eternal Atlantic and the mighty tides of the Bay of Fundy lap its sun-kissed shores; a wide programme of fish and game protection ensures sport for years to come; an inexhaustible supply of salmon from the ocean affords the world's best fishing in the coastal rivers each year.

The remaining one-quarter of the province is a beautiful blending of sleepy farmland, bustling cities, and secluded resorts, toned by the mellowness of age.

The province is rich in historic sites, which, because of their association with the early days of the Continent, are of peculiar interest to visitors. Annapolis Royal, Fort Anne, and the fortress of fully preserved places where important pages of history were written. The Park at Grand Pre shows the land of Longfellow's Evangeline as it was in the days of the Acadians.

Nova Scotia has still further appeals to the visitor—good railroads, modern roads, and splendid hotels where provision has been made for all types of summer sport. Of these hotels, the best known are The Pines at Digby, open from June 24 to September 14; Cornwallis Inn at Kentville, open all year; and Lakeside Inn at Yarmouth, open from June 23 to September 8.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

It was explained in last week's column that in face of every man-made effort on the part of the Federal and Provincial authorities in this country, to solve the unemployment problem in a permanent manner, these attempts have resulted in failure, and it is a salient fact that relief rolls have not diminished concurrently and proportionately with the improvement and expansion of internal and foreign trade. It was shown how the gates were closed for any kind of immigration in the hope that this would aid the employment market in Canada; it was disclosed that almost a billion dollars was spent since 1930 to aid indigents in various parts of Canada, although the resultant taxation levy was now almost unbearable; it was pointed out that social legislation such as old age pensions, early retirements, etc., were aimed to remove competition from the labour markets; it was reported that the Canadian authorities have intimated various New Deal plans of the United States and British Governments, especially on housing plans, but the decline and rise in employment figures have been of a seasonal and temporary nature. Consequently, the continued existence of idle persons in large numbers throughout the land has resulted in discontent and a logical breeding ground for new doctrines and foreign creeds that never fail to make sweeping and impractical promises, though it is a fact that they cannot aid anyone in this country. In other words, it is a challenge to the democratic institutions of government in Canada, and now it appears that a solution has been found, the challenge has been answered, and both Federal and Provincial Governments, regardless of political ideas, have united to remove the cause of the trouble.

The authorities have come to the conclusion that the best method that can be used to remove the cause of permanent employment slumps is to attack the issue at the start. Thousands of young people leave the schools of Canada each year without any prospects of employment through no fault or misdeed on their part. Some startling facts have been unearthed concerning their plight. A very small percentage continue their studies in the colleges, though upon graduation they usually find that they are unable to support themselves for quite a few years because their numbers far exceed the numbers whom death or old age remove from the professional fields. The vast majority step from school to the relief lines or they are dependent upon their families. The case of the farmer's children, particularly in the drought areas of the West, is sad because it usually increases the drain on public treasuries in the form of added relief burdens, but it is not as sad a case as that of the unemployed youth in the towns and cities of Canada, where artisan, mechanic, labourer, and unskilled worker often find it extremely difficult to gain a means of livelihood in a market where inventive genius constantly finds new devices to substitute the machine for manual labour. Then again, any youth who has no training or experience in any line of human endeavour soon loses his spirit, his psychological outlook on life, and even his or her health is sure to suffer adversely.

There are over 10,000 heads of families between the ages of 16 and 25 on relief. It is estimated that there are over 150,000 young Canadians who are unable to get married, raise families, take their proper place in society and assume their normal responsibilities in the usual manner on account of unemployment. Furthermore enforced idleness and reliance on relief has a definite deleterious effect on many youths, resulting in increased numbers of criminal offenses by young people as revealed in official statistics that are beyond question. For example, the number of illegitimate children born in Canada has doubled in the same period; the number of criminal offenses of young men and women has increased rapidly and in a way that can be attributed to the fact that it is no easy task to find a job, marry and raise a family in the present economic circumstances.

Therefore, the Governments have joined hands to aid youth, where it has been found that the greatest aid is necessary. Well-informed circles along Parliament Hill claim that there is a perfect accord between Ottawa and every other government in the land to help these unfortunate young Canadians. Politics has been forgotten in an effort to prove the worth of democratic government. The plans involve aiding these men and women by preparing them for an early exit from their places of despair, to train them for proper places in industry, on the farm, in the mine, or in any other manner to provide them with a decent standard of living and an opportunity to work. The re-establishment of these men and women will be carried out in a scientific manner, with Ottawa giving full co-operation to the provinces and spending a dollar-for-dollar to help the permanent cure of unemployment ailments in this country. Every young man or young woman in Canada, regardless of their racial origin, political views, or any other consideration, can obtain this help by registering his or her name with the proper officials, and they will be directed in some branch where the best can be made of their time and abilities at the present time. Some of the branches in which they can enter are reforestation, mining and prospecting, training for agricultural work, industrial learnership courses, and domestic service or home-making.

There is no doubt that social legislation will accompany these efforts to restore confidence in the youth of Canada in democratic institutions of government to help them gain a proper morale, to combat hopelessness and despair, and to give them new hope and ambition.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

When you were a smaller girl or boy than you are now, did you live in a small town, and did you frequently follow the band as it led some local parade through the dusty streets? If so, you will remember when — Our band, typical of those volunteer musical organizations in all mid-western towns, usually numbered about thirty pieces. Its membership included all the men in our community who could, or would, play a horn of some sort. This arrangement, however commendable as an example of co-operation, did not always provide perfect instrumental balance. For instance, our changing population at one time produced an excess number of trombones. Then, during the next year, a flock of clarinets all shrilling together, made it difficult for the cornetist to assume his traditional leadership.

The various instruments were the property of the men who played them, and there existed a friendly rivalry in the matter of keeping every horn brightly polished. The player of the big bass horn played a heroic part in this collective endeavour, and his instrument always presented an expanse of shining brass which was a joy to behold.

This man wore a huge blond mustache, in which the mouthpiece of his horn was completely hidden when he was playing a selection. It was fun to watch him each time he finished a rendition and the mouthpiece reappeared.

Our band practised every Tuesday evening in the low-ceiled town hall. There being so few other diversions in those pre-movie days, full attendance was the rule, both of players and listeners. A period of almost incredible dissonance preceded serious practice as each player idly tried his instrument.

During the summer a free band concert was given at least once a week. The programs rendered by our band nearly always consisted of marches and waltzes, played alternately. We youngsters were sometimes a bit impatient about the length of these waltzes, but even so, we were deeply impressed by the splendid persistence of the bass player as he unflinchingly maintained his "oom-pah-pah, oom-pah-pah" throughout the whole of "The Wedding of the Winds."

The Fourth of July celebrations and the annual Field Day of athletic contests at the close of each school year were big days for our band. The rigid alternation of waltzes and marches during the athletic events on Field Day sometimes brought about incongruous situations. I recall watching a most spirited bicycle race while our band played, with care and precision "The Beautiful Blue Danube." Was it disloyalty, I wonder, then, to wish they were able to play "The Ride of the Valkyries?"

These bandsmen, despite their limited training, generously met a recreational need which existed in small prairie towns some twenty years ago. — A. L. B. in Christian Science Monitor.

AUTUMN EXECUTIVE OF W.M.S.

The autumn executive of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the United Church of Canada was held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, with eighteen in attendance. The President, Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, presided and plans were made for the Branch meeting to be held next April in Lindsay. The delegates to the school for leaders numbered one hundred and thirty and the Dean, Mrs. W. L. Smyth, Pembroke, conducted morning worship on the theme "Modern Discipleship." Rev. Lydia E. Gruchy, B.A., Toronto, the first woman to be ordained in the United Church, gave a series of lectures on "Worship."

Each day special classes on the study books and how to use them were taught by Mrs. C. R. Carscallen, Mrs. R. G. Dingman and Miss Lois Allen.

Miss Jessie Murray gave an illustrated lecture on our work across Canada and Dr. C. R. Carscallen one on activities at the college.

Miss Minnie Shipley Honan gave an address on "Our Fortieth anniversary" in Honan, and several lectures on "Why Missions."

Mrs. E. D. Eddy spoke on the Baby Band department. Mrs. R. M. Seymour was in charge of Fun-ight and book reviews were given daily by Mrs. Carscallen.

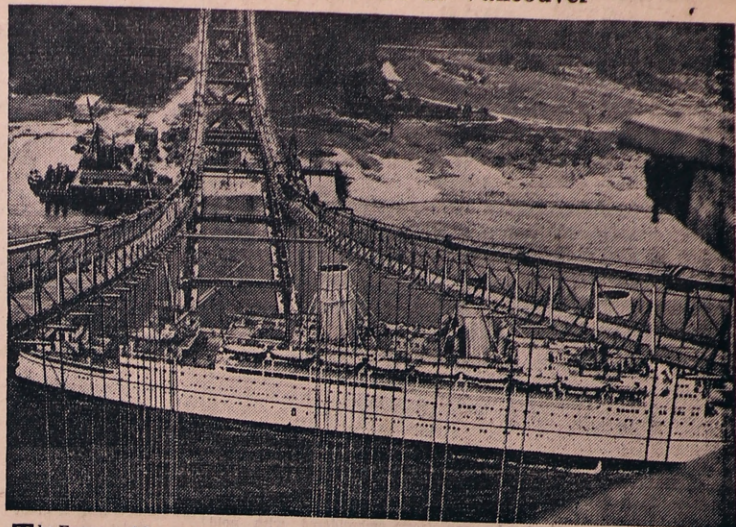

Mrs. C. D. McLellan conducted an evening of missionary education through Dramatization, when three pageants were presented.

Those who attended the fifth annual school for leaders in connection with the Conference Branch were especially pleased to meet Miss Luella Rorke, Port Hope, on furlough from Japan and our scholarship student, Tomiko Hayahawka, of Japan, who will spend two years at the United Church training school.

TO TRY OUT WITH CANADIENS

Honey Tompkins, formerly of Deseronto, who starred on the forward line of the Peterborough junior team last season and then finished the season brilliantly with the senior squad, has received an invitation from the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League to try out with the Flying Frenchmen and has decided to accept. He will report to the Canadiens' training school when the players are called together next month. If the youngster makes good with the Canadiens he will be a big loss to Peterborough hockey.

Police are seeking a hit and run driver who is said to have struck down Orrie Johnson, 26-year-old Sidney Township farmhand, near the entrance to the O.S.D. on highway No. 2 shortly after midnight on Sunday morning and left the injured man in the ditch. Young Johnston was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a badly lacerated neck, near the jugular vein and also severe facial cuts and bruises.

WE NEED YOUR HELP—THIS YEAR! EVERY YEAR!

Needy children from all over the Province are treated regardless of race, creed or financial circumstance.

This policy has been continued for over 60 years in the firm belief that everyone who understands the facts would want this great work to continue . . . would agree that no Ontario child should be denied a chance for health or escape from deformity if mere money makes the difference.

Over 95% of our beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

We must therefore appeal to a humane and generous public to take care of an annual deficit . . . this year it is $68,000.00.

Please mail a donation to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

The thanks of little children will be your reward.

The Hospital for Sick Children

Every morning in the year famous surgeons come to our operating rooms to donate their services. More than 8,100 operations are performed annually. But there are many extra lives involved and the maintenance of this necessary service is very costly.

Since 1928 the service rendered by the always-overcrowded Out-Patient Department has more than doubled. Last year 24,416 individual treatments were given. This service yields a small revenue—but not nearly enough.

THIS MUST STOP!

Don't drive when you can't see or be seen. You need two headlights correctly focussed, and a tail light if your car is to be visible to other drivers. You need clean headlights, delivering full illumination if you are to see the roadway clearly at night. Have your lights checked frequently to be certain that you fulfill these minimum requirements for safety after dark.

RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Word was received on Monday by Dr. W. H. Pedley of his appointment as Medical Representative of the Department of Pensions and National Health for Stirling District.

SAGER — EASTON

A pretty home wedding of local interest took place at Mimico on Monday, September 12th, at high noon, when Miss Doris Marion Easton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lennox Easton, was given in marriage by her father to Mr. John Allen Sager, son of Mrs. Janet Sager, and the late John Wesley Sager, of Stirling.

Rev. R. G. Stewart, of St. John's Presbyterian Church, of Toronto, officiated.

Autumn flowers and ferns were used to decorate the home and fireplace, which formed a background for the wedding ceremony.

The bride looked very charming in a gown of baby blue marquisette over blue satin in Empire mode, with shoes to match. Her finger-tip veil of French tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, and wore the gift of the groom, a Lorie watch of yellow gold.

Little Joyce Easton, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and looked very winsome as flower girl in a full length gown of turquoise blue and bandeaux of flowers. She carried a colonial nosegay of butterfly roses and carnations.

Miss Eileen Easton, sister of the bride, played very sweetly "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "The Bridal Chorus." Her gown was of claret wine shade velvet.

The bride's mother wore a becoming dress of peri-winkle blue crepe with corsage of butterfly roses. The mother of the groom wore navy blue crepe with a corsage of roses.

A dainty luncheon was served after which the young couple left on their honeymoon for a motor trip through the Eastern States and New York. The bride wore a dress of navy blue marquisette embroidered with gold thread and gold cloth coat with black accessories.

The happy couple will take up residence on the groom's farm near Stirling.

HEATH — GIBSON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 3rd, at high noon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson, Allan's Mills, when their third daughter, Grace Alma, was united in marriage to Ralph William Heath, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Heath, of Springbrook.

The wedding was performed under an arch of evergreens, by the Rev. Mr. Hind, of Hamilton.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white sheer with bolero and wearing a veil of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and maiden hair fern. Miss Blanche Gibson, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and was attired in turquoise blue satin, with matching accessories. She carried pale pink roses and fern.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Alvin Heath, of Toronto.

After the ceremony about forty-five guests repaired to the dining room which was tastefully decorated in white, and a buffet luncheon was served.

During the signing of the register, Miss Evelyn Gibson and Mr. Garland Irwin sang a duet. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Gladys Munby, sister of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful silver tea service, to the bridesmaid, pianist and Miss Evelyn Gibson, necklaces, and to Mr. Garland Irwin and Mr. Heath, tie clips.

The bride travelled in a rust suit with brown hat and accessories, and a fox fur.

H. B. Johnston, Sidney; Rev. S. L. Osborne, Napanee, and Rev. J. B. Beckel, Stirling.

In the afternoon the Presbytery was honoured by a visit from Rev. Chas. Endicott, D.D., of Saskatoon, Sask. Dr. Endicott spoke of the special quarter million fellowship Campaign which is to be introduced this fall throughout Canada in the United Church. Dr. Endicott, who came to the Presbytery from Western Canada, reports that crops are good in spots. Gardens are good. He said the great menace in the West this year is rust and grasshoppers. He claimed that the west would probably produce at least 330,000,000 bushels of wheat. In his remarks on the coming campaign in Canada Dr. Endicott stressed the need of seeing the good and the power of goodness. He urged the need of a crusade to persuade people to come to church. He urged people to pray for something outside the Church. He urged the need of a definite objective. He pointed out that the Church has a great leader in Jesus Christ. He said that it was unfortunate that our fathers who were poor sent out Missionaries to China, and now their children who are so much better off financially than their fathers are going to bring the Missionaries home again. He closed his message with a challenge to support the new crusade within the Christian Church.

As a result of the Committee's work a visitation has been arranged of every pastoral charge in the Presbytery under the direction of the Evangelism and Social Service Committee. Missionary Rallies will be held in different parts of the Presbytery in October, under the direction of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund Committee and Young People's Rallies also in October under the direction of the Religious Education Committee.

During the day letters of sympathy were ordered sent to Mrs. H. M. Wood, of Crookston, whose husband died some weeks ago, and to Rev. Rufus Garratt of Wellington, who is seriously ill.

The ladies of Madoc Church served a good dinner in the Sunday School Rooms of the Church, and the minister, Rev. I. E. Kennedy, and his officials did everything to make the day a happy one.

Councillor Rollins gave notice of motion that at the next regular meeting he would introduce a by-law to raise $1500 by debenture for completion of the High School.

The completion of the pumphouse at the new well was next discussed, and the property committee were authorized to have the work done at once.

On motion of Councillors Anderson and Stapley the Stirling Creamery was offered use of the Village water at a flat rate of $10 per month.

The property committee were instructed to move all equipment from the pumphouse on W. C. West's property on motion of Councillors Eggleton and Rollins.

Reeve Cranston made a request for a fixed assessment on his bakery at the corner of Mill and James Streets.

He pointed out that he already employed a large number of men and intended increasing his staff in the near future, and thought he merited some consideration from the Village. The sum of five hundred dollars was suggested as being favourable by the Reeve. Members of Council were not prepared to decide the matter and it was left over until a future meeting.

A by-law to govern the disposal of garbage in the Village was given its several readings, passed and numbered 454.

The question of a caretaker for the water pumps at the new well was discussed and Councillor Stapley was appointed to look after them until a permanent caretaker was appointed.

Council adjourned.

VILLAGE COUNCIL MET ON MONDAY

Councillor Anderson promoted a lengthy discussion on the disposition of the general fund of the cemetery, objecting to the surplus being transferred to the Village Treasury. Reeve Cranston strongly defended the practice and the matter dropped.

On motion of C. B. Rollins, seconded by Roy Eggleton, the Stirling Agricultural Society was given a grant of $100.

The Salvation Army, of Tweed, was given permission to hold a tag day in Stirling on Wednesday, September 21st, on motion of Councillors W. L. Anderson and Roy Eggleton.

On motion of Councillors Rollins and Stapley the Clerk was instructed to forward a letter of condolence to

VISITED LOCAL SCHOOL

Mr. A. W. McGuire, I.P.S., of Tweed, paid his first visit to the Stirling Public School since the local school has been re-included in his inspectorate, on Thursday last. The various subjects of the course of study were discussed with the members of the staff by the inspector, who found the school well organized for the year's work.

INJURED IN FALL

Chas. Fargey, Ridge Road, suffered painful injuries this morning when he fell from the top of the silo at his farm. The injured man was engaged in putting a covering on the top of the silo chute when a scantling on which he was standing broke, throwing him to the concrete floor below. Dr. E. A. Carleton, of Stirling, was summoned and dressed his injuries, which included a badly cut hand and an injured back, in addition to multiple bruises. His many friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

On Thursday evening, Sept. 15th, members of the Community Friendship Circle W.M.S. of St. Paul's United Church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rosebush to celebrate with Mr. Rosebush the occasion of his eighty-second birthday.

The evening was spent by singing hymns and in friendly conversation. The Circle presented Mr. Rosebush with a beautiful basket of fruit. A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Rosebush, after which all sang "God be with you till we meet again." On departing each wished Mr. Rosebush many more happy birthdays.

Donkey Baseball

Over five hundred wended their way to the Stirling arena on Saturday night to witness the first exhibition game of Donkey Baseball ever held in Stirling. The game was sponsored by the Stirling Citizens Band and had members of the Springbrook and Glen Ross Softball teams opposing a team composed of members of the Band and other prominent citizens of the village.

The players took regular playing positions on the field, each mounted on a donkey, with the exception of the batter, pitcher and catcher. When the batter got a hit he mounted a "jack" and headed for first base, but it was not often that he reached his destination ahead of the fielded ball and the donkeys required all sorts of coaxing and manoeuvring to get them to go in the right direction. The chief source of amusement was the ability of "Satan", a jet black donkey, to toss riders whenever they attempted to ride him. The score was 2-2 after seven innings had been played.

The teams were composed as follows:

Team No. 1: G. Broadworth, p; M. McKewen, c; M. Gibson, 1b; A. McDowell, 2b; G. Pyear, ss; R. Pyear, 3b; C. Burklitt, cf; Holland, lf.

Team No. 2 — B. Long, p; E. Fox, c; G. Miller, 1b; H. Conley, 2b; P. Gibson, ss; J. Ward, 3b; F. Hulin, lf; B. Luery, cf; J. McGowan, rf.

Rey Horton, 13 Rawdon; J. Sills, 16 Thurlow.

Apples, Wealthy—B. Whalen, Hungerford; Doris May, 11 Thurl.; Clinton Heath, 1 Rawdon; M. McCoy, 6 Madoc; A. Breney, 23 Sid.; L. Blakely, 16 Madoc.

McIntosh Apples—D. Aitkins, 7 Sidney; R. Thompson, 22 Tyen.; D. Geen, 1 Hung.; J. Ketcheson, 12-14 Thurl.; B. Hulin, 8 Rawdon; F. Wrightman, 3 Rawdon.

Apple Collection—No Name; Francis Shannon, 22 Tyen.; L. Wallace, 22 Tyen.; H. Heath, 17 Sid.; N. Dunlay, 9 Thurlow.

Tea Towel, linen—Ann Marie McCullough, 12-14 Thurl.; Rosemary Meraw, 7 Hung.; J. Hanna, 14 Tyen.; T. Mullet, 10 Hunt.; L. Weaver, 3 (Continued on page five)

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL FAIR

ARE EXCELLENT — DULL
WEATHER AFFECTS CROWD

Every year finds its Fair Day in Stirling, and each occasion finds a bumper crowd in town. This year was no exception, for from early Wednesday morning cars started moving into the village bearing loads of interested citizens of the district arriving for the one event of the year in which all may find enjoyment. This year's Fair was no exception, other than probably being even more interesting than many in the past. Although dull, cold weather was not conducive to large crowds, there was a good attendance at the annual exhibition, and those who spent the afternoon viewing the various attractions were not disappointed, for in all divisions, this year's fair was one of the most successful events to be held here.

No effort had been spared by the committees in charge of the various parts of the programme, and although this year's fair was arranged so that the patrons would find entertainment of a little different type than that usually found at the Fall Fairs, those who were present were quite favorable to the variety of entertainment offered. Although the customary horse races were not on the program, there was no lull in the programme, and the track events were supplied by the farmer-competitors of the district.

President J. B. Thompson and his able band of directors were on hand early to look after all arrangements and everything was carried out without a hitch. From early morning the Fair ground was a scene of bustling activity, with the various concessions being erected and the last minute details being looked after.

The main building, which housed the garden produce and roots, grains and seeds, ladies' work, home cooking, flowers, cheese, art, etc., as well as the Championship School Fair exhibit, was thronged with interested spectators most of the afternoon as they inspected the various exhibits; others circulated through the grounds where the livestock and horses were shown, while still others lined the race course to witness the programme of novelty races. The softball game between St. Clair and Leaside girls teams, Toronto, also drew a large crowd of spectators, but the cold weather and rain eventually drove them to the shelter of their cars. The teams were well matched, and the tilt proved to be a battery-duel as Leaside grabbed off a 7-5 victory. For the winners Ruth Elson pitched a splendid game with Leila Empey on the receiving end, while Ada Selby did the heaving for St. Clair and Grace Cheesman worked behind the plate.

The exhibits in the main building were numerous and well arranged so that every article was clearly displayed, with the quality being of the best. This was particularly noticeable in the vegetable and fruit departments. Competition was very keen in this section of the prize list, with C. H. Wilson, of Foxboro, W. L. Adams, of Thomasburg, D. A. Thrasher, of Belleville, J. M. Carl, Stirling, C. H. Ketcheson, Sidney, and Ivan Caldwell, being among the main exhibitors.

The grains and seeds department has the usual number of entries, with J. M. Carl, C. H. Ketcheson, C. H. Wilson and D. Thrasher, of Sidney Township providing the main competition. The fruit exhibit was much better than last year, with some of the finest samples of apples, especially in the (Continued on Page Eight)

SUCCESSFUL AGENT

It will be of interest to many friends in Stirling and community to know that Mr. P. C. McGuire, of Belleville, formerly of Stirling, has attained membership in the Leaders' Club of the Mutual Insurance Co. Mr. McGuire is the agency supervisor of the company for this district, and was among the company's leaders in life insurance production during the club year recently closed.

STOLEN PURSE FOUND

When members of the Stirling Agricultural Society were moving the Band stand at the Fair Grounds last week, preparatory to holding the fair, Mr. Arthur Scott discovered a purse belonging to Mrs. Jack Morrison, of Stirling, underneath the stand. The purse was stolen from Mrs. Morrison's car, which was parked on the Fair Grounds on July 11th, 1937, while she was helping prepare for the Orange Celebration held here, and contained a sum of money, a cheque and a wrist watch. When found, its contents were intact, with the exception of the money. All efforts of the police to apprehend the thief at the time were fruitless.

Celebrate Anniversary

On Monday evening, September 19th the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, Mount Pleasant, was the scene of a happy gathering when they entertained over thirty guests on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The rooms were prettily decorated with bouquets of yellow autumn flowers and asters. The dining table was charming with a tiered wedding cake with gold leaves as the centerpiece and the colour scheme was in yellow and gold. Fifty years ago Miss Maggie Merrick became the bride of Mr. John Johnson and they were married at the home of her sister in Trenton by Rev. Mr. Gee. The sister, Mrs. Manda McKay, who now resides in Duluth, Minn., and her daughter, Mrs. E. Butterick, are the only ones living who attended the ceremony fifty years ago. They were unable to be present but sent greetings and a beautiful gift of handiwork. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Johnson received many cards and telephone calls of greeting and several old friends called to extend congratulations. During the wedding supper Mr. Ernest McDonald of Warsaw was master of ceremonies and carried out a splendid program of toasts.

On April 7th, 1903, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Johnston celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in the same home and at that time special verses were written to commemorate the event. These were framed and kept in Mr. Johnson's possession as a fitting tribute to those who had passed on. The verses were read by Mrs. Ernest McCook, of Campbellford.

During the evening the eldest son, Mr. Wilbur Johnson of Trenton, gave an impromptu address of appreciation to his parents on behalf of the older members of the family and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were presented with an upholstered studio couch and occasional chair. The recipients suitably replied, thanking their children for the gift and the kindness which prompted the thought. They also received several lovely gifts. Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are able to be about although they are not enjoying the best of health. In earlier years Mr. Johnson was a councillor of Rawdon Township and for a lengthy period he was Secretary-Treasurer of the Williams School and now one of his sons holds that position.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are members of Mount Pleasant United Church and a host of friends extend kindest greetings to them at this time. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Weaver, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, Margaret and Max, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnson, Don and Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson, Joyce, Eleanor and Joan; (Continued on Page Eight)

MIXED DOUBLES TOURNEY HELD

KINGSTON RINK FIRST — MEMBERS OF LOCAL CLUB
AMONG PRIZE WINNERS

What bids fair to be the last tournament of the season was held on the Stirling bowling greens on Monday afternoon and evening when eighteen rinks took part in the annual mixed doubles tourney, under the auspices of the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club. The weather was anything but favourable, with rain falling intermittently during the day, but the bowlers persevered and the final games were completed about two o'clock on Tuesday morning. This was the third tournament sponsored by the local club on which the weather man had frowned, and it was entirely due to this that the bowlers continued to play under conditions that were far from pleasant, particularly for the ladies. The draw was made up of one rink from Norwood, two each from Belleville, Campbellford and Madoc; three from Kingston and eight from Stirling. Three 12-end games were played and some exciting finishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heagle, of Kingston, proved to be the best bowlers on the day's play and won three games with a score of 38 points to win first prize of a lace tablecloth for the lady and a motor rug for the gentleman. Mrs. P. W. O'Long and A. Heyworth, of Stirling also had three wins and a score of 32 points to take second prize, sheets and pillow cases for the lady and a motor rug for the gentleman. The prize for two wins also went to a Stirling rink, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson, who won two games and tied one for a score of 32 1-2 points. Mrs. Patterson took sheets and pillow cases and Mr. Patterson a shirt. A Campbellford rink comprising Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiggins, won the second prize for two wins, with a score of 33 points, the former taking a pair of flannelette blankets and the latter a shirt. The prize for one win went to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, with a score of 26 1-2 points. Mrs. Whitty received a hostess tray and Mr. Whitty a shirt.

First Game

In the first game Mr. and Mrs. Backus, Belleville, defeated Mrs. J. R. Beatty and J. Watson, Madoc, 13-4; Mr. and Mrs. Heagle, Kingston, defeated Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Carleton, Norwood, 13-4; Mr. and Mrs. J. Topping, Kingston, defeated Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, 14-4; Mrs. P. W. Long and Alf. Heyworth, of Stirling, defeated Mrs. H. Kellar and P. Gunn, Madoc, 12-5; Mrs. Nora Wescott and J. E. O'Donnell, Stirling, defeated Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Belleville, 12-5; Mrs. J. Whitehead and C. R. Bastedo, Stirling, defeated Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiggins, 11-6; Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Carleton defeated Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tompkins, 12-5; Miss E. Shea and F. R. Mallory defeated Mr. L. Glover and A. Meyers, of Campbellford, 13-4; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson defeated (Continued on Page Five)

DOG TAXES REMAIN UNPAID

On another page of this issue will be found a notice from Chief of Police S. Eggleton demanding payment of the dog tax on or before Saturday, October 1st, or legal action to collect the same will be taken. The Chief Constable has been instructed by the Village Council to collect this tax forthwith and delinquent dogowners should pay up and avoid any unpleasantness. Year after year the same trouble in collecting the license fee on canines is experienced, and while we would dislike very much to see any resident of the Village have to pay court costs in addition to the license fee, no blame can be attached to the Village Council if such action becomes necessary.

IT IS A STRANGE THING

It appears that no matter what steps are taken by the local Council to facilitate the disposal of garbage and refuse within the Village limits, there are those who appear to delight in offsetting their best efforts. Year after year the Council has spent various sums of money in cleaning up the Municipal dump, only to have some person or persons with little sense of civic pride throw their refuse on some side street or, failing that, take it to the dump and scatter it along the driveway. This year a man was engaged during the spring clean-up period to supervise at the municipal dump, and a few weeks ago arrangements were made for a garbage collection service. In spite of this, complaints were again received at the last Council meeting of refuse being thrown just inside the gate of the driveway. Council passed a by-law in which the garbage collector was the only person authorized to do this work in the village and in which penalties were prescribed for offenders. Citizens are asked to observe the regulations themselves and to co-operate with the authorities by notifying them of any person seen disregarding the same. There are many towns with populations from 1500 to 5000 without any systematic collection of the town garbage, and refuse, and the local council is to be commended for its initiative in providing such a service. It behooves every citizen to assist in every way possible to make it a success.

FOR A MORE INTERESTING PAPER

To keep the members of the community informed about each other's activities, this paper depends to a large extent on its staff of correspondents, its contributors and its advertisers. There is always room for improvement, however, and this can be effected if the members of our Family of Subscribers take the following suggestions which we noticed in one of our exchanges:

"There has never been a newspaper printed that satisfied everybody. But there is a very simple method by which better newspapers can be produced and that is for those who subscribe to them to take an individual interest in seeing that they get more local and personal news. Not that you are expected to become a reporter when you become a subscriber, but because the newspaper stands as the exponent of all that is good for your community and because civic pride should, therefore, lead you to encourage such an institution.

"If you have visitors, if you have been a visitor, if you are going to be one, your neighbors are sure to be interested about it. Tell them through your home town paper. Every little item of a local or personal nature helps just that much more to make a still better newspaper and getting it to the editor requires very little exertion on your part. That is how you can help make your newspaper more interesting, and you are invited to start doing so at once.

"Do as many others are doing: Write the item on a sheet of any kind of paper, sign it, hand it in at the office, or drop it into the post office with our address on it. Do not seal it,

INGRATES

(Fergus News-Record)
It is said that a couple of merchants in a town not far away were going into the post office when they met a relief recipient coming out carrying a large parcel addressed to himself, bearing a label of a Toronto department store. Such a sight does not put any town merchant in good humor but in this case, the pair began to think how they were being taxed to provide "relief," and that made it all the worse.

but mark 'Printer's Copy' on the envelope, put a one cent stamp on it and mail it from any point in Canada."

Church reports, society reports and association activities should also be reported fully in these columns and we depend to a large extent on the secretaries of these various bodies to keep us informed of news-worthy happenings. The daily newspapers record world-wide events — the weeklies the simple, homey little things of your community and our community, but the great difference is in the friendly, sympathetic interest shown by the weeklies as against the impersonal policy of the dailies.

We will appreciate your co-operation.

BUSINESS TAKES NOTICE

Increasing public interest in the menace of venereal diseases has now reached Big Business as evidenced by the prominence given to the subject in the current issue of the official organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The feature article in this number of Canadian Business is an interview by Carlyle Gilmour with Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada. The concern of business in health generally is emphasized in the opening sentence, which points out that "two per cent., or one in fifty, of Canada's population is always too sick to work — a total loss per year of twenty-one million working days — an annual cost of $300,000,000.00 to business and the country."

Of this, thirty million dollars are attributed to syphilis.

"Today in Canada," the interview states, "at a cost of two dollars a day per patient (a conservative estimate) the cost to Canada of hospitalization of those suffering from general paralysis of the insane (syphilitic) and those with cerebral syphilis would probably be a million dollars annually."

The financial problem involved in the control of syphilis is a major one and as a practical solution the suggestion is offered of a system of special clinics operating both day and night.

"How can the business executive help to eradicate this wide-spread and dangerous disease?" is asked, and then answered as follows: "Obviously he should be interested in co-operating, for it affects his costs and his work-efficiency. Many industries maintain medical departments where each employee can readily be given a Wassermann or other blood test. Cases can be sought out and while it is seldom necessary to dismiss an infected employee, except in rare cases, the employer can ensure that treatments are continued until the disease is rooted out. Treatment can be made available privately through some reliable physician or arrangements can be made with a hospital or clinic to treat the men at some nominal charge per visit."

The closing paragraph in Canadian Business is thought-provoking. It says:

"Public health is purchasable. It is up to business, even in its own selfish interest, to buy its share in co-operation with public authorities and in removing Canada's No. 1 health menace."

CURRENT COMMENT

Rural mail carriers at their annual convention held in Whitby recently, again took an official stand against the contract system. Apparently everyone is opposed to this plan of employment for the mail carriers, but it seems that the government in power always refuses to make a change that is long overdue.

The heavy rains of the past weeks were welcome to the farmers of this district. With the threshing season completed the majority of farmers were starting their fall plowing and the soil was too hard for the job. The increased moisture has remedied this and fall plowing operations will be general from now on, according to district farmers.

An invention of interest to every telephone user has been made by an American engineer and may be purchased in Montreal, according to Almonte Gazette. The purpose of the invention is to detect those listening in on party telephone lines and recording long-winded conversations by legitimate subscribers. It would be a fine thing if the telephone companies would all install this equipment. We believe that the practice of eavesdropping on party lines is more general in some districts than others, but it has reached the stage where it is impossible to discuss any matters of a confidential nature over a telephone.

UNDESIRABLE CITIZENS

(Almonte Gazette)
There was a time when Germans were considered good emigrants but that time has passed. No emigrant makes a good citizen if he reserves his loyalty for the land he has left rather than the land of his adoption. If an emigrant considers Canada or the United States worth while living in, surely he should consider these countries are worth fighting for in time of war. But that isn't the way our present-day German citizens regard countries in which they settle. They seem to think they have a right to take everything that the land of their adoption has to offer while reserving the right to fight for the land they left. This is no good and the way to meet such a menace is to bar Germans out of the country. If Hitler thinks it is alright to run the Jews out of Germany, Canada, the United States and other countries have at least the right to refuse German citizens admission. Hitler takes the attitude that German minorities everywhere continue to owe loyalty to the Fatherland. That makes them traitors to the country of their adoption and they should be treated accordingly. Wholesale deportations should be the order of the day whenever this German minority becomes openly traitorous.

(Bowmanville Statesman)

"There you are, ladies and gentlemen, the lady wins a side of bacon for one dime — 10 cents. Who is next to take a chance on a side" and the voice of the master of ceremonies, presiding at the wheel of fortune, takes up the chant, that inveigles dimes out of pockets and purses and into the funds of Service Clubs and other charitable organizations across the province. Why? In order that these organizations may have money to pay for operations, equipment, medicine, treatments, milk, required by children whose parents are unable to pay for these services. A splendid object you say. Granted!

Service Clubs and similar organizations, with the backing of the people are devoting a good deal of time and money to this splendid cause. This might seem to indicate that humanity is advancing slowly up the ladder of progress toward a state of unselfishness toward our fellowmen fortunate or unfortunate, in our community or on the other side of the world. They have an old name for it, Brotherly Love, but this expression may have become a little hackneyed and threadbare. The churches are practically unanimous in endorsing it, and quite a large number of people practice it, that is, within reason and with reservations.

And so, progressing toward this state, we are quite generous with our financial offerings to the crippled children. How much of a factor in our generosity is the wheel of chance and the side of bacon for 10 cents. You have fairly accurate indication when you compare the receipts of the town service club carnivals in our town this year, with the receipts of the house to house canvas made last spring in aid of our blind fellowmen. Consider the driving effort on the part of dozens of workers in the larger centres to raise their quota for the Community Chest Funds without the aid of the wheel or bacon. Or the instances where our own Welfare Committees, seeking donations, are asked to graciously receive for distribution, old clothing which is practically unusable, except for turning into rag carpets.

We all believe and hope in evolution — the working out of better ways and means of doing things. So many of our present ways are haphazard, hit-and-miss, thoughtless, selfish. By all means let us continue to raise money for the assistance of our unfortunate fellowmen, even if our methods do come under the above categories on occasions. There is a challenge in the Biblical quotation, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these," Surely we can evolve a better method of "doing it" to the least of these and to the Great Teacher, than by way of the surplus gathered in the process of catering to our own desire to have something of value for very little.

TIME TO SOBER UP

We have never been quite able to understand why it should be taken for granted that governments are not subject to the same laws of economics that govern individuals.

Human experience through the ages has taught us that the man who lives beyond his income, who is always accumulating fresh debt which he makes no attempt to liquidate will sooner or later be overtaken by disaster. Yet our national and provincial governments go on merrily year after year piling up debts without any thought of a day of reckoning. Municipalities have also been guilty of like folly.

It is so easy to borrow money and pay interest on it instead of taxing the people to pay for current expenditure. The argument has been that posterity will be the greatest beneficiaries from money spent today and that therefore posterity should repay the principal while we pay the interest. Unfortunately we have now borrowed so much money that it has become necessary to borrow more if we are to even pay the interest. And so we go on piling up a mountain of debt which will some day completely crush us, unless we immediately go into reverse and start cutting it down. Balancing budgets will not be enough. Surpluses which can be applied to debt reduction must be the rule.

Today the people of Canada owe more than seven billion dollars. The Dominion debt is $4,300,000,000; the provinces owe $1,370,000,000 and the municipalities in addition to that we owe on our $1,415,000,000. So that every one of our homes, our businesses, our furniture, our radios, and anything else we may have bought on the instalment plan, are in debt to the extent of $700 for every member of the family.

The interest on this public debt alone is $230,000,000 a year, and in twenty years we shall have paid out in interest almost six billion dollars, or almost as much as we now owe, even if in the meantime we do not add any more obligations.

When we look at some of the provinces we realize how hopeless the situation has already become. Saskatchewan has a net public debt equal to 64 per cent. of the entire annual income of the people of that province. Manitoba has public debt charges which total 47 per cent. of the provincial Budget and New Brunswick's net debt is almost 60 per cent. of the annual yearly income of the people. When we turn to the municipalities we discover that in some cases as much as one-third of the total property tax has passed to the municipality because the property owners could not meet the taxes.

Le Petit Journal, of Montreal, boldly states that these debts will never be paid, and that sooner or later governments will be forced to repudiate or otherwise cancel a large part of their obligations. Until that time the prospects are that taxation will get heavier and heavier, business will be more and more stifled, and unemployment will increase.

Unless Unless the people of Canada stop being a lot of idiotic spendthrifts and send representatives to our parliaments who will have courage enough to apply ordinary horse sense to governmental spending.

It is time we sobered up. The jag has lasted long enough.

JURY CALLS ORSER DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Investigating the death of James Orser, of Frankford, a Coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death at Belleville on Monday night. The verdict stated that "James Orser came to his death in the Belleville General Hospital, on July 11, when a car, driven by his brother, John Orser accidentally came into collision with a car driven by Floyd Clare."

The jury recommended that stop signs be erected or the visibility improved on the intersection where the accident occurred, at the Seventh Concession of Thurlow and a side road, about eight miles north-west of Belleville. George Spencer, of the Seventh Concession of Thurlow stated that "brush on the sides of the roads obscured any vehicle travelling on either road." "I noticed the Clare car pass the house and it was not going at an excessive speed, probably about 36 miles an hour. The collision

LOSES BARN AND CROPS

The barn and crops of Wesley Crawford, Roslin, were a complete loss when fire suddenly broke out during threshing operations. The separator and other threshing mechanism, the property of Mr. Holgate, were saved. The fire broke out during the morning's threshing activities and before assistance could be provided the entire barn was enveloped in flames. The barn and crops suffered loss, but fortunately the majority of Mr. Crawford's stock was in pasture at the time. Some insurance was carried it is alleged.

"AS QUICK AS LIGHTNING"

"As quick as lightning" is a common way of saying that the speed referred to is the greatest ever. But the speed of light is faster than lightning; it is in fact, the fastest speed we know of. Lightning travels only about one-sixth or one-tenth as fast as light. Camera studies seem to show that lightning travels from cloud to earth by a series of steps. When the charge reaches the earth, an intense illumination builds up along the whole path. This luminous streak may last as much as a whole second, which is a long time in matters concerning electricity.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

Just for a laugh, let's look back three years to an annual sports record book giving a resume of sport highlights for 1935. Under the heading "Automobile Racing", we find the following:

"The 1935 season brought about the most titanic feat in auto racing history and saw the dream of Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, come true on the salt beds of Utah, near the town of Bonneville, over the 13-mile racing stretch. Sir Malcolm, who has been shooting at 300 miles since 1931, reached his goal on Sept. 3, 1935, when he sent his "Bluebird Special" over a measured mile at 304.331 miles per hour for the first mile and made the return mile at 298.1292 m.p.h.

Sir Malcolm is the only man that ever travelled over 300 m.p.h. on land. Only four others ever bettered 200. All are dead. They were: Major H. O. D. Seagrave, of England, (203.79 in 1927), killed in a motor boat accident in 1930; Ray Keech, (207.562 in 1928), killed in an auto accident, 1928; Frank Lockhart, killed in 1928; Lee Bible (204 in 1929, first heat), killed in accident during second heat."

The chuckle, of course, comes when one surveys the results of the duel with death now being staged on the Bonneville Salt Flats between Capt. George E. T. Eyston and John R. Cobb, both of England. Eyston on August 29 boosted his year-old mark of 311.42 to 345.49, only to see his compatriot excel this achievement on Sept. 15, when Cobb zoomed his super-Railton through the measured mile twice at average speed of 350.2 m.p.h. The next day, Sept. 16, Eyston rocketed his "Thunderbolt" to the terrific speed of 357.5 m.p.h. to regain the laurels.

Perhaps by the time you read this one of this duo of devil-drivers will have reached even greater heights. Both have stated that they will continue the costly and hazardous duel until victory, but surely if they keep on they will reach a millennium. Mechanically, there is said to be no limit to the speed that could be maintained, but the problem is to build tires that can stand the terrific strain. A blowout, or even a minute obstruction on the salt bed racing surface — and Death with bony fingers will chalk out one of the contestants in this epic struggle.

A notable feature is that Eyston, Cobb and Campbell, the only three humans to ever surpass the 300-mile mark on land, are all Englishmen, and their machines have been British-made.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — Who made the first established automobile speed record for the measured mile, and what were the particulars of the effort? Who was the first man to travel better than 100 miles an hour?

Recently we had the pleasure of attending a meeting where H. Harold Bailey, of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, was the chief speaker. Mr. Bailey outlined the principles of six-man football, which is being introduced this fall through western Canada, as a stimulus to the regulation twelve-man game. Glancing through the rule-book for the abbreviated gridiron game, as compiled by O.R.F.U. President John DeGruchy, assisted by R. H. Bailey and others, under authority of the Canadian Rugby Union, we find that it embraces most of the general rules of the regular game, with certain changes to curb mass play, reduce the necessity of costly equipment and generally open up a new vista for playing by making it available to any school or group with a desire to participate.

The playing field required is only 80 x 40 yards. Six regulars and four alternates make it necessary for a maximum of only ten players to form a team. Players must wear canvas shoes with soft rubber soles or soft rubber cleats, this rule being designed as an economy and safety provision. Several factors have been introduced to eliminate mass play and the attendant danger of injuries. First, except of pass or kick plays, the ball must be snapped back to a receiver, who in turn must pass back clearly so that the ball travels through the air to another player before passing the line of scrimmage. At all times players must be back of the ball when it is put into play. Only three players of the attacking side must be on the line of scrimmage when the ball is put into play. Huddles are forbidden. A forward pass may be made from any point behind the line of scrimmage, and all players are eligible as receivers. Most other rules are the same as found in the C.R.U. handbook.

Mr. Bailey pointed out that six-man football is not intended to replace the standard game. The object behind its introduction is to encourage and enable more boys, in and out of schools, to play the game. It is to be a "kindergarten" of football, and it is expected to prove a boon to the 12-man game in future years as more and more players advance to junior, intermediate, senior and college ranks.

Any public or high school, or club desirous of information on six-man football may obtain rule books from R. H. Bailey, 12 Glen Manor Drive, Toronto, Ontario.

SPORTS ODDITY — Kenneth Wilcox, playing for Castleton (N.Y.) high school football squad, ran 105 yards yet failed to score. In a game against Salem (N.H.) high, Wilcox caught the ball five yards behind his own goal line, ran down the field and collapsed 18 inches short of a touchdown. (N.B. — In the American game the field is only 100 yards long, not 110 as in the Canadian version).

THIS AND DATA — What do you think of Joe Krakauskas beating the New York Yankees the other day? The Canadian speedballer has at last got a grip on that elusive thing called control. With Hamilton Tigers depending on a squad of green youngsters, minus kicking star Huck Welch and plunging Half Ted Manorek, Montreal A.A.A. wrecked by the raids of Fred Porter's new Montreal C.N.R. squad; and Ottawa Roughriders an unknown quantity, it would seem that Big Four officials would be in order to take the league crown, wrap it up and mail it to Mr. Lew Hayman, c/o Toronto Argonauts. But then the thing that gives football its great attraction is that the dopeday is frequently thrown for a decided loss. We have called Western to take the Intercollegiate title so often, and they have failed in the clutch, just as often, but the law of averages indicates that they're bound to live up to expectations sooner or later. Latest addition to the London squad is Clem Faust, who graduated from St. Bonaventure's College, near Buffalo, over two years ago. After two years in Hamilton, Mr. Faust, no relation to the famed character of the drama, has decided he needs more education.

ONE YEAR AGO IN SPORT — On Sept. 23, 1937, the Carnival of Champions was staged at the Polo Grounds in New York City. Fred Apostoli of San Francisco stopped Marcel Thill, Paris, European middleweight champ; Harry Jeffra of Baltimore took the world's bantamweight title from Sixto Escobar, of Puerto Rico; Barney Ross of Chicago retained his world's welter laurels against Cefterina Garcia, Filipino; and Lou Ambers, of Herkimer, N.Y., took a dull 15-round decision from Pedro Montanez, of Puerto Rico.

ANSWERS DEPT. — The first recorded effort for one mile was made in 1893 by Chasseloup-Laubaut, driving a Jentaud, in France. His average was 39.23 m.p.h. The first man to travel better than 100 m.p.h. was Rigolly, in 1904, at 103.66.

EIGHT INJURED AT KALADAR

Four persons were seriously injured and four others suffered minor injuries in an accident Sunday night one mile west of Kaladar, on Highway No. 7.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight, when an eastbound car driven by Miss Irene Macartney, of Toronto, collided with a westbound car driven by Elvin Lindsay, of Norwood on a bad curve. The injured were: Miss Macartney, lacerations to the face and knee; Russell Dadds, Toronto, had gash on face; Beattie Craig, Toronto, possible fractured jaw and injuries to both legs, all passengers in the Macartney car. Elvin Lindsay, driver of the westbound car, suffered fractured left leg. His wife, daughter and two sons suffered minor injuries. Traffic Officer J. Hatch of Marmora investigated the accident and stated that charges were pending.

Pansy's Fancy, a junior two-year-old, has produced 6,556 lbs. milk, 355 lbs. fat, with an average test of 5.33 per cent in 365 days. C. A. C. Noble Jewel, has produced 6,342 lbs. milk, 336 lbs. fat, with an average test of 5.30 per cent, as a junior two-year-old in 365 days.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Horseshoeing Competitions At International Plowing Match Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree the Village Smithy Stands

The above lines of Oliver Goldsmith might well be paraphrased in these days and times to "used to stand". Blacksmith shops in Ontario are becoming almost as scarce as fried chicken at the North Pole. It is a serious situation from a farming standpoint and fully realized by the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The cream of Canadian and Ontario plowmen will be competing for the highest plowing honours in the world at the International Match at Minesing, near Barrie, October 11, 12, 13 and 14 this year, so why not have horse-shoeing competitions for the former's friend, the blacksmith, reasoned officials of the Ontario Plowmen's Association. With this thought in mind, competitions for mature and junior blacksmiths will be held each day at 2 p.m. during the match. Prize lists and rules may be obtained by writing to Bert Guest, Guthrie, chairman of this committee, or to J. A. Carroll, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

Mr. Carroll, secretary of The International, is most enthusiastic over the horse-shoeing contests. "We will always have horses, good horses, and care must be taken of their feet," said Mr. Carroll. We will either have to have more blacksmith apprentices or young farmers must learn to shoe their own horses. We hope by introducing competitions to revive interest in what is fast becoming a lost art.

"These competitions have been held in the Old Country for years and have been most successful. I feel they will be a most attractive feature of the match at Minesing," concluded Mr. Carroll.

The International this year promises to be the best on record. The farm machinery exhibits in the "tent-city" will occupy almost a mile of frontage and will be the largest ever seen in Canada. The best plowmen in the world will be seen in competition and there will be a number of tractor competitions as well as numerous interesting educational demonstrations.

Every farmer should plan to spend at least one day at the International. The exhibits will interest his wife and family too. Minesing is within easy motoring distance and on a paved highway.

Low Cutting of Corn Helps Control Borer

Professor L. Caesar, Provincial Entomologist, O.A.C., Guelph, urges low cutting of corn this fall as a help in the control of the borer and as a means of avoiding the unpleasant task of hand-picking stubble in the spring. Professor Caesar writes as follows:

"There is a large crop of corn almost all over the province this fall and as a result many persons will be tempted to cut it high. To do so would be a mistake because the borer is decidedly more abundant this year in most counties than usual and extra care will have to be taken to hold it in control. Long stubble means that several times as many borers will be left in the fields after removing the stalks as there would be if the corn had been cut low. Moreover it is very much more difficult to plow long stubble under completely and not drag it up again in spring when working the field; hence farmers wishing to avoid the necessity of hand-picking their fields next spring should cut their corn as low as practicable.

In Essex and Kent, where fortunately there has been some reduction of the borer this year, thousands of acres are being cut level with the ground by a short, heavy hoe. Some individuals there have cut as many as from 50 to 200 acres in this way. Where corn is cut level with the ground the regulations allow the farmer to dispense with plowing if he wishes to do so, although plowing even in such cases is advocated as a help in still further lessening the number of the borers. Other counties are also beginning to use the hoe, and all who do so are well pleased with the result. Where binders are used they should be set to cut at 4 inches if the surface of the field will permit this.

In addition to cutting low, we advise running a planker or leveler consisting of four ten-inch planks lapped one on another, over the stubble in both directions to break it off. This makes complete burial easier and at the same time kills a good many borers."

Current Crop Report

Yield per acre of spring grains are considerably higher in Ontario than in 1937 and 1936, in both of which years yields were below normal. Present estimates indicate that the yield of spring wheat, oats and barley will be just about normal. Fall wheat was below average with a large quantity of the grain produced in the northern counties of Western Ontario rather poor due to shrunken kernels caused by rust and late frosts. Oats are generally reported to be of good quality but barley is only fair to good with some discolouring and a considerable amount of light grain. Rust-resistant varieties of spring wheat are of good quality, but the non-resistant types were affected by rust, especially in Eastern Ontario.

The yields of spring wheat for Ontario as a whole is now estimated at 18.6 bushels per acre as compared with 17 bushels in 1937 and a preceding ten-year average of 19.2 bushels. Oats are placed at 36.7 bushels per acre as compared with 32.6 bushels last year and a ten-year average of 33.7 bushels. For barley the yields are 31.5; 28.8; and 30.6 bushels per acre respectively, and fall wheat 27.0; 25.0 and 24.7 bushels. The first estimate for hay and clover production shows the average for the province at 1.69 tons per acre, which is the same as last year, with the yield in Southern, Western and Central Ontario lower than in 1937, slightly higher in Eastern Ontario and considerably greater in Northern Ontario.

Pastures are reported in good condition for this time of year in practically all counties except Middlesex, South Simcoe and the four or five counties along the St. Lawrence River where supplementary feeding of dairy cows has been resorted to on account of poor pasturage. Milk flow during August was well maintained and was above normal. Livestock are in average to slightly above average condition.

Late crops generally give promise of good yields, with the exception of potatoes which are reported to be below average in most counties due to insects, dry weather, and blight. In many fields the number of tubers per hill is reduced, although the size and quality are good. The main crop of buckwheat is now in full blossom and promises a very good yield throughout the greater part of the province, but in the counties along the St. Lawrence hot weather which prevailed in a critical period will result in below average yields. Corn for ensilage has matured unusually early this season and silo-filling commenced in Eastern Ontario during the last week in August. In Western Ontario the crop was permitted to grow longer owing to more favourable moisture conditions and silo-filling was expected to be general about September 10th. The yield of fodder corn is above average.

Turnips and mangolds are developing well and with a continuance of good weather during the next four weeks should produce better than average crops.

BROOMS SAVED HIM

When Joseph Barker, elderly blind broom vendor fell off the wharf of the Halifax Harbour in June, he took his own life-saving raft with him. It was in the form of a bundle of brooms which was strapped to his back and to which he clung until his cries for help brought rescue. It was the first time in history that a drowning man looking for a straw to grasp found 10,000 within his reach.

The orchestra, composed of Mrs. Merle Spencer, piano; Messrs Robert Melville and John Coggins, harmonicas; Mr. Burton Calvert, violin; Miss Anna Sharp, guitar, and Mr. Ray White Jew's harp, gave several numbers. Brief addresses were given by Mr. John Scott, of Bethel; Mr. Clifford Holmes and Mrs. James Sharp; Master Don Spencer gave two guitar selections; Miss Marion Rose read a selection and Miss Marion Phillips gave a piano solo. Mrs. Merle Spencer and Mr. Burton Calvert rendered a musical number, piano and violin. Mr. Herb David told a humorous story. Miss Eileen MacMullen read the following address and Mr. John Coggins made the presentation of a purse of money. The young people also received a few other gifts.

Mount Pleasant, Ontario.

Dear Faye and Herb,—
Tonight your friends from Mount Pleasant and surrounding community have gathered here to extend to you both our very best wishes on the happy occasion of your marriage. It is our wish that the future may bring to you more joy than sorrow and that your Matrimonial voyage will be calm and peaceful. Both of you have assisted with our Young People's Society, our Sunday School and our church choir, as well as giving of your musical talents to help along social events in the community and we appreciate your efforts more than mere words can tell.

We are most grateful that you are both remaining with us at Mount Pleasant and we shall be glad to have your continued help in both church and social activities.

We ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of our appreciation and affection and we hope that as you use it you will be reminded of your many friends and our wish that your married life may be rich in life's most worthwhile blessings, health, contentment and the joy that service for others always brings.

Signed on behalf of your Mount Pleasant friends — John Coggins, Muriel Sine, Doris Sine, Eileen MacMullen, Irvine Potts, Burton Sharp.

Both Herb and Faye suitably repelled, thanking their friends for the gifts and inviting all to visit them. All joined in "For they are jolly good fellows" and an appetizing lunch was served.

BEAUTY PROBLEMS

DISCUSSED BY

Barbara Lynn

Eminent Beauty Authority and Adviser,
who writes weekly articles on Beauty
Problems for many Canadian Newspapers.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

A surprisingly large number of girls and women suffer from this affliction, judging from the volume of letters I receive asking for advice on this subject.

And it is a very perplexing and distressing problem. Superfluous hairs are unsightly, and spoil the appearance. In not a few instances, too, they create a feeling of inferiority which curtails one's enjoyment of life.

Of course, the hot weather tends to bring out little downy growths even on faces that are usually immune from hairs. In most of these "seasonable" cases, however, the coming of cooler weather will discourage the growth, so that it is hardly advisable or necessary to take any drastic eradicating action.

Razors should never be used to remove unwanted hairs from the face. How often I hear of the pain and distress caused readers who have taken this easy path to hair removal! I cannot too strongly urge readers to avoid razors like the plague! Temporary relief will too often be followed by an increased growth of the ubiquitous hairs, and it is no uncommon experience for the skin to be harmed.

Many correspondents ask whether face creams or soaps cause hair to grow on the face. I can say definitely that tissue creams, cleansing creams, lotions and soaps do NOT cause unwanted hairs. With some people, tendril has a slight tendency to do so, but only when used to excess. If you use any lanolin facial treatments, do so only occasionally and you will have no cause to worry.

There is a widespread misapprehension that peroxide removes superfluous hair. This is not so. Peroxide is used merely as a bleaching agency, and will never remove unwanted hair.

I have prepared a special leaflet on "Superfluous Hair", and will gladly mail you a copy if you will send a 3c stamp.

Enlarged Pores
Enlarged Pores require time and patience to correct. Massage a rich soap lather into the skin, let it dry and rinse off in clean warm water. Then rinse in cold water, dry, and pat on an astringent or face freshener. Cold water or ice rubs are excellent for closing the pores after the skin has been thoroughly cleansed.

My leaflet on "The Face — and its Care," goes deeply into facial blemishes and treatments for conserving facial beauty. You can obtain a copy and any of the following leaflets by sending a 3c stamp for each one required: How to Slim; Underweight; Eye Beauty; Your Hair; Hand Beauty; Reducing in Spots — Hips, Thighs, Arms, etc.; Hand Beauty; Care of the Hair. When writing, please don't hesitate to ask about your own beauty problems. I shall gladly advise you personally and without publicity.

Please mention the name of this paper and address your letters to: Barbara Lynn, P.O. Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

ST. PAUL'S W. A.

A large number of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. R. Duffin for the purpose of the Woman's Association meeting. The president, Mrs. Macklin called the gathering to order and all joined in the singing of the W. A. theme song and the Lord's Prayer was repeated. Secretary, Mrs. Bronson, called the roll with 29 members answering with ideas "How to raise money." The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Personal thanks were expressed by Mrs.
W. Jones on behalf of Mrs. Woods; also Miss E. Donnan expressed thanks on behalf of her father. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. F. Fitzgerald, now living in Picton.

Four calls were reported made during August. Visiting committee for September were volunteers workers,
Mrs. E. Munro and Mrs. E. Jackman.
The Treasurer, Mrs. E. Jackman, gave the monthly report. Mrs. Wescott, flower convener, gave list of cards sent out.

Business was properly dealt with.
After closing the business meeting Mrs. J. L. Good was chairlady in the absence of Mrs. Geo. Luery.

Psalm 96 was chosen by Mrs. H.
McCutcheon and read by Mrs. A.
Scott, followed by a prayer by Mrs. W.
J. Scott.

The program was based on favourite hymns, authors and music composers, "Nearer my God to Thee", taken by Mrs. J. L. Good. Mrs. H. C. Martin gave the life history of Louise Alcott, author of the book "Little Women." Miss Hilma Matheson rendered a solo written and put to music by the same woman. Mrs. N. Wescott gave the story of "Abide with Me".
Mrs. C. Macklin sang "My Faith looks up to Thee". Mrs. H. L. Fair told the story of the beautiful old hymn "Tell me the old, old story." Several of the hymns were sung during the program.

Mrs. J. J. Wilson sang "Under His Wing I am safely abiding." Mrs. M.
Hick was pianist. The meeting closed with the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction.

At the close of the social and luncheon hour, Mrs. J. J. Wilson voiced the appreciation of those present to the hostess.

CONSERVATIVES TO SELECT CANDIDATE

The Conservatives of the Federal Riding of Hastings-Peterboro are calling a convention at Marmora, on November 2nd, to select a candidate for the next general election. Mr. Percy Lancaster, ex-M.L.A., of Havelock, Mr.
George Thompson, Reeve of Rawdon Township, Dr. S. Lumb, of Bancroft, and Mr. Geo. S. White, Barrister, of Madoc, are mentioned as candidates.

MARMORA PREPARES ITS BOWLING GREENS

Marmora's bowling green, which has not been in use for the past few seasons, is being put into shape with the expectation of having five greens in operation next spring. Stan Lowe is taking the initiative in the matter and is being supported by W. A. Sanderson.

WELSH — KETCHESON

A very pretty September wedding took place at two-thirty Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Billa Ketcheson when their elder daughter, Edna May, became the bride of Mr. James Nelson Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Welsh, of Moira. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, the Rev. F. J. Everson, of Plainfield, in front of a large bay window banked with ferns and gladioli.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the room as the Wedding March was played by Miss Mildred Ketcheson, sister of the bride. She wore a lovely gown of white silk net over taffeta simply fashioned with long full skirt and bolero jacket with braid trimming. A shoulder length veil of tulle falling from a Juliet cap and caught with lily-of-the-valley white lacy silk mittens and white satin shoes and carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Jean Badgley, of Frankford, was bridesmaid and looked charming in a beautiful gown of turquoise blue georgette over taffeta with matching taffeta bolero jacket and pink ribbon trimmings. She wore a pink shoulder length veil held in place with a bandeau of flowers, pink lacy silk mittens and pink shoes and carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses and cornflowers.

Little Barbara Fargey, of Stirling, was flower girl and was clad in a dainty taffeta dress of Hondeu shade and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pink rosebuds and cornflowers.

Mr. John Ketcheson, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

During the signing of the register
Mrs. Charles Fargey, of Stirling, sang in fine voice "Until".

Following the ceremony the bridal party retired to the dining room which was tastefully decorated in pink and white, the table being arranged against the fireplace banked with autumn flowers and centred with the wedding cake and pink tapers in silver holders. The buffet luncheon was served by Misses Mae Stevenson and Ena Kerr, Mrs. Mabel Hayton and Mrs. William Chambers, past teacher associates of the bride, also
Mrs. Fred Elliott and Misses Ila Sayers, of Peterboro and Leda Chambers.

Mrs. Ketcheson, mother of the bride, received in a gown of black striped sheer over printed silk and wore a corsage of red Supreme roses, while Mrs. Welsh, mother of the groom was attired in a navy sheer gown and wore a corsage of red Supreme roses.

Over one hundred guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Frankford, Roslin, Peterboro, Kingston and Toronto.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Welsh left amidst showers of congratulations for a honeymoon trip to Lake Placid,
New York, via the Thousand Islands
Bridge, returning by Montreal and Ottawa. The bride's travelling costume was Versailles blue dress with navy accessories.

CHARLES C. DICKENS

To many old friends in Belleville and to numerous old Belleville boys in distant parts the announcement of the death of Charles C. Dickens, which occurred at the Belleville General Hospital on Sept. 16, after a lengthy illness, will bring sincere feelings of regret.

The late Charles C. Dickens was born in Stirling, 76 years ago, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William Dickens. Practically all his life was passed in Belleville. During his young manhood he took an interest in sports and in musical circles he took an active part, being for many years associated with the old Oddfellows' Band and other bands which succeeded that organization. He was an entertainer of ability and was a prominent member of the old Belleville Minstrels when they added much to the entertainment of Belleville citizens. During his entire life he followed the vocation of salesman, and was well known and respected. In religion he was a member of Bridge Street United Church. "Charlie" Dickens will be missed by many old friends.

Surviving him are two sons, Mr.
Harry Dickens of Southend-on-Sea,
England, and Mr. Clarke Dickens of Belleville; three brothers, Mr. A. W.
Dickens, Belleville; Mr. B. F. Dickens, Vancouver, B.C.; and Mr. Ed. F.
Dickens, of Belleville. — Belleville Intelligencer.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. met for their first meeting after the holiday season. Mrs. Scott took charge of the meeting as the president was absent. The call to worship was given, and the hymn "The Church's One Foundation" sung. The Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs.
Pollard and a reading was also given.
Prayer was offered by Mrs. A. Martin. Mrs. Chambers sang a beautiful solo, "More about Jesus," accompanied by Mrs. C. Lansing. A chapter of the Study Book was very well taken by Mrs. C. Macklin and roll call was then taken and the various secretaries reported. Some letters of thanks were read by the Secretary, Mrs. H.
Hulin had a splendid report on her work visiting the elderly ones who are in their eighties, but in the past two months two have gone to their reward. Collection was taken and dedicated. This closed a very helpful and inspirational meeting.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

EIGHTEENTH INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by rustlers and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

"He's dead," Rosy said. "Trials are expensive, the sheriff thinks."

"I'm talkin' to you now, Crowell," Rosy said. "I was under the davenport when you were talkin' to Mrs.

Winters and her husband. I heard the conversation you and Winters had when Mrs. Winters went out of the room. Dave overheard from Sayres that you ordered the kidnapping of Dorsey Hammond, and the deed signed was in your favour. More than that, you left orders before Hank arrested you to burn the D Bar T, so as to make Mary sign away her half the spread. What've you got to say?"

"Prove it," Crowell said calmly. "I demand to be placed in jail and have this go through the regular channels!"

Rosy sighed and turned to the sheriff. "Hear that, Hank?" He demands a trial."

"Yeah. I heard it," the sheriff said. "Better let me take him to jail."

Rosy shrugged. "All right. Dave'll go with you. I'll talk to Pearson."

"I can handle him alone," the sheriff said. There was menace in his speech. "Gimme them keys," he said to Quinn.

Suddenly, Mary cried out. She took three swift steps and faced Rosy. "Rosy, don't do it! Don't do it! You know what will happen!" The room was deathly still.

Rosy shrugged, avoiding her eye. "I ain't the sheriff, ma'am," he muttered.

Mary wheeled to face Dave. "Dave are you going to let him? Are you —" are you that callous?" She sank into a chair, sobbing quietly.

"You better be careful, Hank," Hammond said cautiously.

"Yeah. I will," the sheriff grunted. "Come on," he said to Crowell.

No one spoke as they heard the front door shut. Rosy watched Pearson's face. The banker sagged.

Two muffled shots from some distance came to them and they looked at each other.

"Mr. Pearson," Dorsey broke in from Hammond's side, "if you know anything, tell it! It's — it's awful!"

"For God's sake, yes, Everett!" Hammond broke in gruffly.

Pearson hung his head.

The outer door opened, and heavy footsteps trailed through the house. The porch door opened to let the sheriff in again.

"A quick trip," Laredo said quietly. "Uh-huh." The sheriff rolled a cigarette and lit it, then looked at Rosy. "Well?"

"No go."

The sheriff walked over to Rosy's side and stood looking down at Pearson. There was a faint smell of gunpowder on his clothes.

Better come along, Pearson," he growled.

"One's enough, Hank," Hammond put in curtly.

"It might be for you, but it ain't for me. I got elected on a oath that I'd do my best to prevent crime. If you think I'm going to let him go and have this to go through all over again, you better take a longer guess."

"How you goin' to cover it up?" "Crowell's over at Pearson's place now, lyin' on the floor with a gun in his hand," the sheriff said brutally.

"Pearson can be across the room with a gun in his hand when I come in with my deputy in the mornin' after the bank asks me to find him. Just a plain case of two men shootin' each other."

He turned to face Pearson, but the banker had crumbled.

"Oh, God, get him away!" Pearson moaned through his hands. He crawled down the bed against the wall, where he huddled like a small boy fearing punishment. "I did it! I did it. Get him away!"

The sheriff made his way out of the room.

"I reckon it begins with the train hold-up, don't it, Pearson?" Dave asked.

Pearson nodded. "How did you know that?"

"That Ranny by the name of Chinch out at Sayres' place," Dave said.

Quinn frowned, then turned to Pearson. "The money in the baggage car was goin' to your bank, was it?"

Pearson nodded. Crowell gave Sayres the order to stick up the train. Part of the money would be given to Sayres, and the rest turned over to me. You see that money was insured. I would get that same amount back from the insurance company."

"And about three-quarters of what was stolen back from Sayres through Crowell, is that it?" Pearson said.

"That's it," Pearson said.

The porch door opened and Crowell stepped into the room, prodded by the sheriff's gun.

Pearson's jaw slackened and he stared at Crowell.

Rosy grinned at Pearson. Crowell walked to his seat by Pearson, glaring at the sheriff.

"Want to go on?" Rosy said to Pearson.

The banker shook his head. Rosy grinned. "It's a little too late to stop, now, I reckon. You've confessed to robbin' a train and falsifyin' reports to the insurance company. That ought to be worth about twenty years apiece in the pen."

Still Pearson said nothing. "Maybe it's that you don't want to mix Crowell in this? Is that it?"

Rosy asked. He laughed softly. "I reckon you will though, Pearson. To begin with, you couldn't stand to see Crowell turned loose, freed, while you were servin' a life term in the pen, could you? He did all the dirty work, was responsible for all the crimes and he goes free. It isn't fair, is it?"

"Maybe he'll send you some tobacco around Christmas time," Rosy taunted.

"He will not!" Pearson suddenly snarled. "He'll go with me!"

Crowell's fist drove into Pearson's face and Rosy leaped on the two figures. Crowell struggled as if insane, kicking, biting and cursing impotently. Laredo stepped in to help Rosy and after a mild clapping with gun barrels, Crowell gave up.

Rosy and Laredo sat down again. "Let's have it, one of you," Rosy said.

Both men began to babble at once. "Pearson, let's hear you first. No. Wait." Rosy's eyes sought Dave, and he leaned over to him. "What about it?" he asked softly, motioning to Mary.

"Is it about Ted?" Mary asked calmly.

Dave nodded. "I'd rather hear it now," Mary said. Pearson drew a long breath and began. "It starts when I offered to buy the Draw Three, Buck," he said to Hammond. "You remember when I had the expert come look at it? He told me there was gold there, lots of it, but that you were missing most of it. He said it would be over to the north more in the quartz. So I tried to loan you enough money so that the control of the mine would be in my hands. It didn't work."

"And there's gold there now?" Hammond asked incredulously.

"Enough to make you rich," Pearson said. He addressed Rosy again. "Then I got hold of Winters. He tried to forge a check once and I caught him."

Rosy looked at Mary. Her eyes were moist but her chin was up.

"Was that before he was married?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Why didn't you prosecute him?"

"I can always use men that have brains but no courage," Pearson said. "I was repaid, all right. A little while after he had been married, he came to me with the story of gold on the Turner place. He wanted me to buy the place from his wife and Turner, and then we'd work it together. That was when I conceived my plan. I wanted a man with brains, with courage, with resourcefulness — and who was poor. Crowell fitted that order. He was out to get rich, and when I found him in Walpals, I knew my scheme would work. Crowell was a gambler — and a poor one."

"A fool, you mean," Crowell said.

"So I was careful to work it all out," Pearson said. "I knew that Sayres was a blackguard, and that he could be bought. So I put Crowell up as my front, for I was to remain unknown. Crowell tried to buy the D Bar T from Mrs. Winters. She would not sell. He tried to buy the Draw Three. Hammond wouldn't sell. I know of the quarrel over the lake, and that fitted into my scheme to perfection. I thought if the lake was blown out, both the ranch and the mine would be ruined, and that Turner and Hammond would both sell to Crowell. Winters was to persuade Mrs. Winters."

"And he was cheating you all the time," Quinn put in quietly. "He was mining that gold on the sly and selling it, and gambling the money away." He told them of his discovery of the room Winters kept in the barber shop and the source of his money. "That's why I went to see you this afternoon, Pearson. And" — he smiled slightly — "that's what's goin' to get you hung."

"Why?" Rosy cut in.

"Because Pearson told Winters I was snooping around and Winters decided to kill me before I found out too much and told Pearson." He told them of the note, and the killing in the hotel room. The sheriff listened intently, nodding his satisfaction.

"And when I caught this jasper that was with Winters down in the alley," Quinn finished, "we had it out. I downed him. Then I knew Winters could have learned about me from only two people — Sam, the barber, and Pearson. And Sam was too scared to talk. So I headed for Pearson's."

Rosy looked at him for a long moment, then turned to Pearson. "Go on."

"I'll go on," Crowell rapped out, steering at Pearson. "Let me tell about this Eastern genius. The lake was ready to blow when Dave got home. When Pearson heard about Turner coming home, he lost his nerve. He hired Freeman to bush-whack Dave, and make it look like Hammond did it. Then he had Sayres blow the lake out. When Hammond wouldn't sell, even then, he ordered Dorsey Hammond kidnapped. Hammond would have to sell the mine to get the money to ransom her, of course and Pearson's money that I would give Hammond for the mine would go to Sayres and back to me and then to Pearson again." Crowell sneered and smiled evilly at Pearson.

"He even ordered the D Bar T spread burned, so Mrs. Winters would be frightened into selling her half of the place."

"And I was to be murdered," Dave put in quietly. "Murdered by those whooperoos of Sayres' after they tortured me into signing away my half."

"C'mon," the sheriff said stolidly to the two of them. "Put out your hands." He leaned over his fat belly to handcuff them together.

With the swiftness of a striking snake, Crowell whipped one of Laredo's guns out of the sheriff's belt and pointed it at the sheriff. Crowell backed away a few feet across the bed, his gun nosing steadily at his captors.

He was laughing quietly, a little insanely, in the still room.

"You'll never make it, Crowell," Rosy said softly. "You'll only get one of us before we cut down on you."

AGRICULTURAL SERVICE DIPLOMAS TO BE GIVEN

The Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies has expressed the opinion that some form of recognition should be shown to persons throughout the province who have given years of faithful service in furthering Agricultural Society work in their districts.

To this end the Association has appointed a Board to receive recommendations from individual societies that the Agricultural Service Diploma which is to be the form of recognition to be awarded to anyone whom the society names as outstanding for service rendered.

A copy of the attractive diploma will be exhibited at District Meetings and each year one will be available upon request of each society. Stirling Agricultural Society will have the privilege of recommending such a person for recognition this year. This will be done by nomination at a meeting of the directors of the Society.

Sir Edward Beatty Becomes Freeman of Cranbrook

When Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, attended Cranbrook's Pioneer Reunion, Friday, September 9, he received the freedom of the city and heard himself extolled as an outstanding Canadian and head of the company which 40 years ago forged the Crow's Nest Pass link of its great railway system into the rich Kootenay country. Sir Edward is receiving a silver tray commemorating the occasion, from Mayor T. M. Roberts. On Sir Edward's left is Judge G. H. Thompson who swore him in as a freeman of the city, and to the right is Ross H. McMaster, director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is at the extreme left of the picture. This, the third ceremony of its kind in which Sir Edward has participated, Saint John and Vancouver having previously conferred the freedom of their cities, was a joint tribute to Sir Edward and to the pioneers present to see the brilliant ceremony and to hear their own work of four decades ago praised.

OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

It is not difficult to discover evidence along Parliament Hill that the authorities in the Capital are gradually formulating a definite foreign policy to counteract the alarmist rumors which have been circulating throughout the country since world affairs have been marked by startling developments which featured treaty-breaking, international anarchy, medieval chaos, and many futile efforts to establish peace on a permanent basis.

The essence of this country's foreign policies is qualified reaction against any entangling alliances, but this does not imply absolute neutrality in every issue, nor does it tolerate the opinion that isolation from the actual theatre of war provides security. Although there is an absence of any excitement in the official circles and quivering voices do not hesitate to proclaim that it is a difficult situation but not insoluble, yet it is evident in the Capital that every day of increasing tension in world affairs brings an additional reason to believe that the Dominion of Canada is facing an entirely different set of problems from those which marked Canada's foreign relations in the years just prior to the last Great World War.

In order to understand the present position of this country and to comprehend the essence of Canada's foreign relations, it is essential to know certain facts. When Confederation of 1867 created the Dominion of Canada, different countries recognized the principle of free trade, but in nearly every country the production of certain goods was influenced by artificial measures. Before the World War this was carried out by imposing a duty on imported goods and allowing export bounties and subsidies on products to be exported. Likewise, numerous other ways were found to protect home markets. Nevertheless, a substantial world trade was built up before 1914. After the World War, there was a widespread movement of economic nationalism to back up the ideas of political nationalism, with the object of producing the necessary requirements primarily or entirely at home. However, Canada's position was exceptional and this country's problems were peculiar. Though still nominally a constitutional dependency the Dominion of Canada achieved political and economic independence during that period of history. She had become one of the select few money-lending nations of the world. She produced wealth at a rate which allowed the net export of about a billion dollars during that time. In 1914 she was in a position of obscurity in world trade matters, but owing to the sudden increases in the secondary productions, which consist largely of manufactures, she became a well-known producer of such articles, taking fifth place amongst the nations of the world. In other words, it must be admitted that the World War, despite its cost in men and money, helped the creation of the Canadian nation as a world power. Every year of war cost Canada an average of $300,000,000 and 20,000 men, yet spiritually and economically, she emerged from the world conflict a full-fledged nation in itself.

Furthermore, the United States and Great Britain spent over two billion dollars during that period in this country's endeavours to create an economic structure to produce the necessities of war, and when the world conflict was finished, there remained a skeleton structure whose potential output was far in excess of the requirements of the small population of this country. Hence, Canada was faced with the problem of either abandoning this enormous capital investment and 'cut down the production, or maintaining this economic structure and compete for the export markets of the world. She decided in favour of the latter policy and it has been carried out successfully due mainly to the fact that Canada has a tremendous and vast source of supply of raw materials, that Canada's technological progress has been managing to keep pace with the rest of the world, and that Canadians have a pioneer and sturdy spirit which helped in no small degree to open up the west and north country. When it is remembered that of all countries in the world Canada stands first in the production of nickel and asbestos, second in cobalt, third in gold and silver, fourth in lead and copper, sixth in zinc, and that Canada is one of the world's greatest producers of forestry products and hydro-electric energy, it is not difficult for anyone to understand how Canada has taken an important place in world affairs. But it is also to be noted that the benefits of this tremendous expansion in world influence and trade has brought equally important responsibilities that were unknown in Canada's foreign relations prior to the World War. Therefore, an entirely different situation forces the Canadian Government to abandon every proposition which favours the adoption of absolute neutrality, nor can any thoughts of interfering in an official manner in international affairs be entertained along Parliament Hill.

Canada is today one of the great nations of the world, with a comparatively definite foreign policy towards every international issue, and every statement to the contrary, particularly by alarmists, is without foundation of fact. This country has complete freedom of judgment and action in international affairs, permitting the Government in Ottawa to remain neutral in conflicts, to fight for the respect of law and order, or to be totally indifferent to any bloody parade. But what are the foreign policies of Canada? What are the means and measures that will be adopted by Canada in the event of a war involving the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States, or any other world power with whom Canada maintains political and economic relations? These questions, which are of paramount interest and importance to every citizen of Canada will be answered in next week's column.

TWIN BABIES, BORN 40 MILES APART, SURPRISE PARENTS

Twin baby girls, born at two different places, rested in the hospital with their mother at Ottawa, on Wednesday. A distance of forty miles and a period of two hours separated the birth of the two, and the second came as a surprise to the parents. At 5.30 a.m. Mrs. Ward Whitteker gave birth to a girl weighing six and a half pounds at her home at Winchester Springs, forty miles from Ottawa. Mother and baby were taken to the hospital and an hour after arriving the second baby, also weighing six and a half pounds, was born.

T. H. SWEETMAN (Frankford)

T. H. Sweetman, a highly respected resident of Frankford, died in Hotel Dieu, Kingston, Sunday evening, September 18th. Many friends will deeply regret to learn of his passing. He was 63 years of age and had resided in Frankford and district all his life. A year ago he retired from the position of village constable after serving satisfactorily in that capacity for some years. In religion he was a faithful member of St. Francis of Assisi Church.

Surviving him are his widow; one daughter, Miss Margaret Sweetman, Reg. N., Rochester, N.Y.; one son, Mr. Garrett Sweetman, Buffalo, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. T. J. Hurley, Belleville, and Mrs. E. J. Jordan, Winnipeg, Man. The funeral took place from his late residence on Wednesday morning, September 21st, at Church of St. Francis Assisi for Mass at 10 a.m. Interment in St. Francis cemetery.

THOS LAYCOCK OF MARMORA PASSES

In the death of Thomas E. Laycock, which occurred in Nicholls' Hospital, Peterborough, on Friday morning, the Marmora district has lost one of its most respected residents. Death was due to a heart ailment for which the deceased was admitted to the hospital about three weeks ago. Son of Mrs. R. Laycock and the late Ralph Laycock he was born sixty years ago in Marmora Township. As he grew to manhood he followed in his father's footsteps as an industrious agriculturist. He also found time to fill many public offices, in which faithfulness to duty was in evidence. For some years he was clerk of Marmora and Lake Townships, and later held the Reeve-ship for a number of years. He was also Past President of the Marmora Agricultural Society. At the time of his death he had served for a few years on the High School Board.

In politics he was an ardent Liberal, but was popular with followers of both political parties. He was the Liberal candidate for North Hastings in the Provincial campaign but when the riding was changed he withdrew in favour of Dr. J. A. Faulkner. He was President of the West Hastings Liberal Association for the years 1934-37. He was a member of many years' standing of Marmora A.F. & A.M. No. 222, holding the office of Worshipful Master in the year 1912. Later he received the honour of being elected D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District. He was a member of the United Church, being on the official Board of St. Andrew's. He will be long remembered for his life of usefulness and his kindly disposition. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Florence Heath, of Rawdon Township; his mother, who also resides at his late home; three brothers, John, New York; William, Montreal, and Professor Samuel R. Laycock of the University of Saskatchewan, and one sister, Mrs. J. Thompson, Edmonton.

The funeral, under auspices of Marmora A.F. & A.M. No. 222, was from his late residence on Sunday, to St. Andrew's United Church, at 2.30 p.m. Interment was made in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

"YOUTH AT THE WHEEL" MUST DRIVE WITH CARE

"The safety of the streets and highways of tomorrow is in the hands of the boys and girls of today," main tains John J. Floherty, well-known author of books for young people, in his latest volume, "Youth at the Wheel," which has just been published by the J. B. Lippincott Co.

"In that fact," he says, "lies the brightest outlook for the future. Unlike their elders, these young people shall take the wheel with a knowledge and an understanding of the vehicle they drive. Instead of blindly steering a car of which they know nothing, as millions of drivers have done before them, they shall go forth upon the highways proud of their knowledge of the modern motor car."

In his book, Mr. Floherty declares that nearly every traffic accident is caused either through ignorance or carelessness on the part of the driver. The number of accidents that occur as a result of mechanical failure of cars that are properly cared for is such a small part of the total that it is negligible.

"Ask one of these young drivers," the writer challenges, "what task is performed by the carburetor, for instance, in the complex operation of a motor car and ten chances to one he or she can tell you."

The reason for this, says Floherty, is because the good driver is interested in the mechanism of the car he drives. To him the automobile is more than a device intended merely to transport him from one spot to another as if it were a sleigh.

To be a safe and good driver, he writes, one should be familiar with the more important units of a motor car and have at least a rudimentary knowledge of how they work and why.

"By acquiring this knowledge, the driver gets an appreciation of the almost unbelievable forces he sets loose by the mere pressure of a toe. He develops a respect for the great power at his command and a sense of the dangers that arise as a result of its improper or unwise use. He in fact becomes safety conscious."

This safety consciousness, the author thinks, is something like the mental attitude of a person who handles a loaded shot gun. He knows that it is a deadly instrument if carelessly handled. He knows that to use it recklessly would bring down on him the wrath and disgust of those near him. He senses the shattering power that is stored up in waiting for the touch of a finger to release it. So he handles it according to the rules of safety.

"It should be remembered," says "Youth at the Wheel," "that when a person sits behind the wheel of a car, he still has the same characteristics and the same mental habits he had before he entered the car. The mere stepping from the ground to a comfortably cushioned seat and taking control of a high-powered piece of mechanism does not make a different person of him.

"If he bowls along at a safe speed, steadily and carefully, observing the rights of others and paying attention to the signs that are placed for his safety, you can mark him as one who stands well in his daily affairs and in the estimation of his fellow men."

"If, on the other hand, he jumps from one traffic lane to another tearing along at unnecessarily high speed, cutting in and out in front of other cars, frightening timid drivers and disgusting good ones, you may rely upon it that he is scatterbrained in his business and social activities, and that he has neither courtesy nor self-control."

"Should he race along a few feet behind the car ahead, knowing well that if it stops quickly, nothing can save him from one of those rear-end crashes that sometimes have frightful results, you may put him down as one who thinks only of the moment and lets the future and others take care of themselves."

The "road hog" declares the author, will be found selfish in and out of a car, and the "show off," no matter how pretty his tricks at the wheel, is a bluff and a humbug wherever he may be. When he crashes, as he often does, he blubbers like a baby and insists he did not mean to injure anyone, as if that were solace to his victim lying on a stretcher.

"One may drive a car for years," Floherty believes, "and cover tens of thousands of miles and still be a very bad driver. When a person boasts he has been driving a car for years, it means very little. Nor does the fact that he has not had a serious accident prove much, for one may drive a long time and never come face to face with an emergency which calls for knowledge and control of a car. As the mileage increases, however, the chance of escape diminishes.

"Driving an automobile is a job in itself and must be looked upon as such. It requires the exercise of skill and concentration during every moment at the wheel. Some drivers expect the same ease and lack of responsibility as if they were passengers. This is a grave mistake that has caused many bad accidents."

Floherty cites the case of one Greyhound bus driver who has gone over 500,000 miles on one of the most traffic-congested routes in the world without ever having had even the slightest accident.

He quotes the driver as saying: "I keep five bus lengths of clear road ahead of me, and I always watch the car ahead and try to figure out his possible movements. I have found that high speed is not the secret of fast driving. Steady driving at a moderate speed gets you there more quickly."

Some drivers, the writer concludes, adhere to the old-fashioned belief that "accidents will happen." This is an admission of unfitness. The good driver adheres to the motto that "accidents shall not happen," and he is alert while at the wheel to see that they do not happen.

"Accidents can be avoided, but to avoid them drivers of all vehicles must play the game according to the rules. There is, in fact, no such thing as an unavoidable accident, for the investigation of millions of accidents shows that in every case a rule was broken by someone. The philosophy that 'it can't happen to me' is false and misleading. It most certainly will happen to the driver who disregards the rules of driving and the laws of physics."

WE NEED YOUR HELP—THIS YEAR! EVERY YEAR!

Needy children from all over the Province are treated regardless of race, creed or financial circumstance.

This policy has been continued for over 60 years in the firm belief that everyone who understands the facts would want this great work to continue . . . would agree that no Ontario child should be denied a chance for health or escape from deformity if mere money makes the difference.

Over 95% of our beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

We must therefore appeal to a humane and generous public to take care of an annual deficit . . . this year it is $68,000.00.

Please mail a donation to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

The thanks of little children will be your reward.

The Hospital for Sick Children

Every morning in the year famous surgeons come to our operating rooms to do their services. More than 100 operations are performed annually. But there are many more who need the maintenance of this necessary service is very costly.

Since 1925 the service rendered by the always-renowned Out-Patient Department has more than doubled. Last year 64,414 individual treatments were given. This service yields a small return—but not nearly enough.

S. D. MCGEE BURIED AT STRASBOURG

Funeral services for the late Samuel D'Arcy McGee, whose death occurred in the Grey Nuns' hospital, Regina, on Monday, Sept. 1st, were held from the United Church in Strasburg the following Thursday, with full rites of the Masonic order of which Mr. McGee had been an active member for many years. Mr. McGee was born in Stirling, Ontario, in October, 1876. He came to Manitoba as a young man and farmed at Rosser for a short time before coming to Strasburg in 1904. He homesteaded about six miles west of town, later selling that land and buying a farm just a mile from town. In 1912 he married Miss Hannah Kerr, who survives him. Also surviving are three brothers, Archibald, George and Thomas, and one sister, Mrs. Elgin Jackman, all of Stirling, Ontario.

Rev. J. Bright, of the United Church conducted the services and the pallbearers were J. Hooper, F. Strickert, W. W. Henry, L. A. Seller, H. W. Klein and D. F. McKenzie, who had all been associated in the Masonic lodge with the deceased. Interment was made in the Crescent road cemetery. — Regina Leader.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Tuesday night of this week a very happy birthday party was celebrated at the home of Mr. Charles Devolin. The occasion marked another milestone in the life of Mrs. Arthur Devolin. The occasion marked another Jubilee. At 6.30 p.m. those present sat down to an excellently prepared dinner prepared through the effort of Mrs. Devolin and Miss Inez Elgie. The table had been carefully decorated with coloured streamers and a birthday cake with coloured candles. After dinner Mrs. Juby received numerous gifts, while the remainder of the evening was spent in music and games. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Juby, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Devolin and family, Messrs Harold and Roy Juby, and Misses Inez Elgie and Pearl Pidgeon.

Notice has been given rural teachers of the County that the annual Teachers' Convention for the Inspectorate of North Hastings will be held at Bancroft on Thursday and Friday, October 6th and 7th.

ZUFELT — BRUCE

In Kingston Road United Church, Toronto, Saturday, the marriage took place of Florence Margaret, daughter of Mrs. Bruce and the late Mr. John Bruce, to Mr. William Elgin Zufelt, son of Mr. William C. Zufelt. Rev. Harold Toye officiated and Miss Daisy Roberts played the wedding music. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Alex McGregor. She wore a white suede lace gown over taffeta, veil and halo of gardenias, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Miss Ruth Zufelt, bridesmaid, wore a pale blue velvet gown with matching halo and carried pale pink roses. Mr. George Duffin was best man and the ushers were Mr. James Syme and Mr. John Ferguson.

The reception was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Bruce received and wore Olympic blue lace with matching accessories and corsage of Tailsman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother in Royal Blue velvet, and corsage of Tailsman roses.

Following a trip to the Eastern States, the couple will live in Toronto. For going away the bride wore a coral French wool dress with brown fitted coat and brown accessories.

Among the guests were: Mrs. R. W. Batchelor, of Toronto, and Mr. J. Zufelt, Stirling, grandparents of the groom; Mrs. R. Duffin, Mr. George Duffin, Mr. David Duffin, Mr. J. Zufelt, Stirling; Miss Ida Zufelt, Belleville; and Mr. Alex McGregor, Moose Creek.

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

The September meeting of the R.V. W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Kane on Thursday, September 8th, with an attendance of sixteen. Mrs. Geo. Heasman, president, opened the meeting by all singing the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business was discussed and the roll call taken. The programme on Historical Research was under the supervision of Mrs. Geo. Heasman. This part of the meeting opened with some community singing. Mrs. W. H. Hanna read a humorous poem entitled "Life's Evils", which proved to be patching overalls. Mrs. Roy Bush supplied the members with some valuable information about the first school fair in Sidney, which was held at Oak Lake. She showed a hand-made apron which was exhibited at it. This was in 1913. Mrs. C. Lansing gave some interesting items in connection with the life history of the early settlers of the Bay of Quinte District. Mrs. Geo. Heasman gave a splendid paper on the finding of radium. She outlined clearly the hardships which had to be overcome before radium was eventually put in use. A dainty lunch was served by some of the members. Mrs. J. Kane was tendered a vote of thanks and the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

HOLD ANNUAL FAIR

McIntosh section, seen in many years. Mrs. Harold Detlor, J. M. Carl, C. H. Ketcheson, L. J. Ketcheson and Miss Evelyn Bailey had the majority of entries.

The Championship School Fair, under the direction of Mr. H. L. Fair, local Agricultural Representative, was up to its usual high standard and again proved a big drawing card, and a source of interest to all. The exhibit occupied a large section of the main building and was well arranged.

The Horticultural Society's section again had a large exhibit, with the competition being keen in every section. Among the main exhibitors in this department were Mrs. E. Ward, J. B. Belshaw, J. E. O'Donnell, of Stirling.

The exhibit of ladies' work occupied a large section of the main building and was up to its usual standard of both quality and quantity. Among the exhibitors in this department were Miss Pearl Stapley, Miss Gena Spry, Miss Mary Thomas, Miss J. Clements, Mrs. F. N. McKee, Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mrs. W. H. Pedley, Miss D. Caldwell, all of Stirling; Mrs. Bryant, of Wooler; Miss Evelyn Bailey, Harold; Mrs. H. M. Countryman and Miss Hazel Blakely, of Tweed.

The Stirling School Sections and the exhibits of Manual Training, Household Science and Art drew favourable comment from the many who inspected the work of the pupils.

In the livestock division the classes in most cases were much better filled than last year. The swine department was about the same as last year, with Geo. Hutchinson & Son, Warkworth; C. U. Heath & Son, and Walter Lindenfield providing the competition.

The Poultry Department had not quite as many entries as last year, but the quality was excellent with Lorne Hutchinson, of Warkworth, having a particularly fine exhibit. Other exhibitors were Shaw & Son, of Thurlow; J. B. Keeble, of Prince Edward County; and Wm. Fitchett, of Stirling; R. J. Messervey, of Belleville, was the judge of this department.

The horse division was featured by a big showing of colts and was one of the finest exhibits seen in years. Among the exhibitors were Alex Hume & Son, Burnbrae; W. B. Potts, Don Campbell, Carl Hay, V. Heath, Geo. Weaver, Victor Irwin, Wm. Yateman, Thurlow, and R. Stevens, Campbellford.

The cattle classes were also featured by an increase in entries over last year, with many of the prominent breeders of the district having exhibits. In the Ayrshire section Alex Hume & Son, of Burnbrae, and Ross Ketcheson, of "Molra Farm", Molra, provided the main competition, while in the Holstein classes J. C. Nelson & Son, of Campbellford, and Ramsay Cooney, were the exhibitors. The Jersey classes had competition from Allan Hubble, of Havelock, Garnet Kerr and R. Stevens, of Campbellford, Earl Bonter, of Prince Edward, was the judge for the dairy classes.

In the beef section W. H. White and Son, of Roslin, and C. Gregg, of Rosemeath, were the main exhibitors with Col. Roscoe Vanderwater as judge.

The potato race proved interesting with Don Stevens, Chas. Shepherd and Harold Elliott winning in that order. In the running race, in which the competitor was required to race once around the track, leading the horse the last 100 yards while in a sack was won by Fred Thompson, Don Stephens and Chas. Shepherd.

The milking contest found Don Stephens a bit too fast for C. Gay, forcing the latter to take second position in the milk-extracting exercises. Geo. Montgomery put his car in the proper position on the "teeter", and was rewarded with first prize for his efforts. The boys' bicycle races found H. Vandervoort just a bit too speedy for Dave Farney, the latter forcing Don McIntosh to take third position, while Mary Morrison, Eileen Kerby and Jean Ketcheson led the parade in the girls' cycle event. Fred Thompson, F. Lindenfield and Cecil Scott made the rest of the field take dust as they led the parade in the running race for horses of 1200 pounds or over, while in the shoe race Bob Farrell's shoes, once he found the right ones, carried him in ahead of Leo Ryan and Lindsay Silks in the race.

Throughout the day Stirling Citizens Band supplied the music, and their numbers, as usual, were well received.

SIXTH ANNUAL WEAVER REUNION HELD

One hundred and twenty-five sat down to dinner on the occasion of the sixth annual Weaver reunion, held at Oak Lake Tabernacle on September 5th, and after Grace by Rev. Mr. McClintock, of Belleville, all enjoyed the many fine things spread before them. After dinner a short address was given by the President, Mr. Roy Weaver, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio. He spoke of this happy reunion being started by Mrs. Cynthia Rodgers, of Stirling.

The Secretary's report and Treasurer's statement were read, and last year's officers were returned to office: President, Mr. Roy Weaver, Cleveland Heights, Ohio; Vice Pres., Mr. George Weaver, Stirling; Secretary, Mrs. Chas. Johnston, Trenton; Associate Secretary, Miss Nina Carlisle, Stirling; Treasurer, Mrs. Louis Rodgers; Programme Committee, Henry Farrell, Fred Vandervoort, Geo. Carlisle; Sports Committee — Louis Rodgers, Harry Brown, Ross Weaver. Property and Purchasing Committee, Mrs. A. Gordanier, Mrs. Geo. Weaver, Mrs. D. A. Weaver, Mr. A. Gordanier.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION BAND

The Hands Across Mission Band met in the Sunday School rooms on Wednesday, September 14th, at four o'clock. The call to worship was read by Mrs. Woodbeck, and was followed by responsive reading by all. The treasurer's report was given by June Woodbeck. Business was discussed by Mrs. Woodbeck. Collection was then taken and amounted to $1.37. June Woodbeck gave a selection on the guitar, following by the Scripture lesson taken from Matthew 5: 39 to 48. This was read by Muriel Gibson. Mrs. Gerald read the Worship story. A piano solo was given by Joan Pedley. Muriel Gibson and Marion Tulloch were nominated to get up the program for October. Mrs. Gerald gave the study story, which was followed by a hymn. The Mizpeth Benediction was read by all.

Don't drive when you can't see or be seen. You need two headlights correctly focused, and a tail light if your car is to be visible to other drivers. You need clean headlights, delivering full illumination if you are to see the roadway clearly at night. Have your lights checked frequently to be certain that you fulfill these minimum requirements for safety after dark.

APPOINTED TO FILL VACANCY

R. B. DUFFIN TO FILL TERM
OF LATE DR. H. H. ALGER
ON SCHOOL BOARD

R. B. Duffin, local undertaker and furniture dealer was chosen to fill the vacancy on the Stirling Board of Education, occasioned by the death of the late Dr. H. H. Alger, at the regular meeting of the Board, held in H. C. Martin's office on Monday evening.

Chairman Walter Wright occupied the chair and Dr. E. A. Carleton, Dr. C. F. Wait and Messrs H. C. Martin, Wm. Patterson, J. S. Morton, N. E. Eggleton, E. G. Bailey, J. B. Belshaw, C. F. Linn and Ewart Bailey were in attendance.

The first item of business to occupy the attention of the Board was the filling of the vacancy. It was moved by Dr. E. A. Carleton and seconded by H. C. Martin, that Mr. Roy B. Duffin be appointed to fill Dr. Alger's unexpired term. On being informed of his appointment, Mr. Duffin took his seat and was welcomed by Chairman Wright. He assured the members of his deep interest in education and his desire to fill the position in a capable manner.

Mr. C. A. Wells, principal of the Public School, made requisition for a quantity of supplies for the school and reported favourably on the work of Mrs. Bird, who is acting as supply teacher during the illness of Miss Fenwick, teacher of Kindergarten work. It was expected that Miss Fenwick would resume her work on Thursday, stated the Principal.

A brief outline of the new courses of study in grades 7 and 8 was also given by Mr. Wells, who pointed out the absence of text books for subjects such as history, grammar and geography, necessitating the purchase of various manuals by the teachers in order to successfully teach the subjects. He also requested permission to convert the present duplicating machine into a ditto machine, and the purchase of supplies for it. A brief outline was also given of a visit by Mr. A. McGuire, I.P.S., to the school. Permission for the purchase of all supplies and the alteration of the duplicating machine was given on motion of the Board.

Principal Wells also questioned members of the Board on the matter of having milk supplied to the children at the school at the morning recess period. This was done in several schools in the district and inquiry had elicited the information that about 90 per cent. of the local public school students were favourable to having it done here. On motion of J. S. Morton and Wm. Patterson, no action will be taken on supplying milk to the children.

A report of the attendance showed it as practically the same as last year, 13 being in the beginners' class, 22 in Grade II, 17 in Grade III, 16 in Grade IV, 10 in Grade V, 20 in Grade VI, 24 in Grade VII, and 21 in Grade VIII, for a total of 130.

The need of a meeting-place for the Boy Scout organization of the Village was also stressed by Mr. Wells, who has been acting as leader for the past few years. The Scouts previously met in the Ward block, but with the retirement of Mr. Ward from business this hall was no longer available. On motion of Messrs C. F. Linn and E. Eggleton, the Scouts were given permission to meet in the Assembly Hall at the High School.

On motion of Dr. C. F. Wait, seconded by H. C. Martin, the engagement of Mrs. Bird as a supply teacher by the teachers' committee, at a salary of $4.00 per day, was approved.

Mr. J. L. Good principal of the High School, opened his report with an outline of the attendance at the school. From Rawdon Township there were 48 pupils; from Sidney, 26; Huntingdon, 9; Thurlow, 1; Northumberland, 1, and from Stirling 37, for a total of 117. The attendance of County pupils was approximately 72 per cent., stated Mr. Good.

A requisition of supplies for the teaching of the various subjects was also presented by the principal. A moulding above the blackboard in one of the rooms was also needed and additional stools for the laboratory. On motion of H. C. Martin and Dr. C. F. Wait the principal and the teacher of

TWEED TEAMS WIN

On Monday afternoon Tweed High School Rugby and Girls' Softball teams met and defeated the teams of the Stirling High School, by decisive scores on the home grounds of the locals.

The girls' softball game took place on the public school diamond and the locals, who were together for the first time this season, proved no match for the visitors, who won as they pleased with a score of 30 to 5. However, with the benefit of practice, the locals will produce a much better brand of ball on their next appearance.

The rugby game was played on the High School grounds and was won by the visitors by a score of 16-0. As in the case of the softball team the local rugbyists showed the lack of practice. While they held their own along the wing line, there was evidence of lack of timing in getting their plays under way and the backfield were woefully weak in running back or on extension plays. Their forward pass attack also failed to gain any ground.

Tweed, on the other hand, presented a well drilled squad who made few mistakes. While their forward line failed to make much impression on the Stirling line offensively and repeatedly stopped the Stirling attack before it really got under way. However it was in the backfield where they showed the greatest superiority over the locals, with their running and forward passing attack accounting for big gains. Two touchdowns were scored in the second quarter and one in the last to account for all their points.

Hambourg Trio Here

Music lovers of Stirling and vicinity were given a musical treat on Monday evening when the internationally famous Hambourg Trio, of Toronto, presented a program at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The concert, which was arranged by Mrs. R. H. Williams, organist and director of St. Andrew's Choir, was one of the finest of its kind ever presented in Stirling, and it is regrettable that there was not a larger attendance.

Mrs. H. P. Ellis, of Stirling, contributed a number of solos throughout the programme, with her efforts receiving the well-merited applause of an appreciative audience.

The program opened with the trio giving Op. 11 by Beethoven, following a brief introduction by Mrs. Wagner. Isidor Desser, violinist, then displayed mastery of the strings in his rendition of the fast-moving "Gypsy Aires" by Sarasale and "Cannonetta" by Tchaikowsky and Mr. Clement Hambourg at the piano. Mrs. H. P. Ellis gave the next number "Tosti's Good-bye", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wagner, with Isidor Desser playing the violin obbligato. In response to long and hearty applause Mrs. Ellis gave an encore. For their second group the trio turned to the more popular and well-known classic offering Kreisler's arrangement of "London-derry Aires" and Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 11".

One of the highlights of the evening was the solo work of Boris Hambourg, cellist, who included in his group of selections Nocturne (Chopin) and Beethoven's Minuet in G. In her second group of songs Mrs. Ellis sang "Angus Macdonald" and the very popular "Macushia," a Suite on Briton Aris by Jean Hare was the next offering of the trio, the suite being performed in three movements preceding the final number "Bells of Aberdoney".

As guests of St. Andrew's choir the visiting artists were entertained to luncheon at the close of the program in the church parlors.

Agriculture were authorized to purchase equipment essential to the teaching of agriculture up to the sum of two hundred dollars, as well as all other supplies for the school.

Rifles Reported Stolen
The theft of two B.S.A. rifles from a cupboard in the school some time during the summer vacation was also reported by Principal Good. Discovery of the theft had been made on the day previous to school opening and the military authorities at Kingston had been notified by phone said Mr. Good. The local policeman was also notified, but all efforts at tracing the rifles had been futile and no word had been received from military authorities. On motion of Dr. C. F. Wait the principal and the teacher of

LOCAL YOUTH ACQUITTED ON NEGLIGENCE CHARGE

NEGLIGENCE FOLLOWING
AUTO MISHAP

Russell West, 17-year-old Stirling youth, was honourably acquitted on a charge of criminal negligence before Mr. Justice Urquhart at the Supreme Court sitting in Peterboro on Wednesday afternoon. The charge followed the death of Thomas Anderson, 68, retired railway conductor, of Havelock, who was struck by a car driven by West in Havelock on July 3rd of this year.

The trial opened on Tuesday afternoon and was featured by the testimony of four Toronto men, who denied any connection with the accused, but who wished to see justice done.

William Wellford, the first of the four men, told how they had arrived on the scene at the time the accident happened. He said they were driving from Ottawa to Toronto and in Havelock heard the squeal of skidding tires. They stopped and noticed Anderson lying on the roadway while West, alleged driver, had not yet time to leave his machine. After West went in search of medical aid, Wellford described how they had flagged down a car that was approaching the scene at a high rate of speed and which they thought would pass over the dying man.

He was certain that it was this car that made the lengthy skid marks attributed to West's machine.

W. Slater, of Osler Avenue, Toronto, corroborated the former witness's testimony and added that the quartet, without summons, had driven from Toronto to Havelock after they had read a newspaper story stating police alleged West's car made the seventy-eight-foot marks on the roadway.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuting attorney, asked why, since he admitted being at the inquest he had not volunteered this information when the Coroner asked the gathering if any person could add further light on the accident. Slater started to answer when Charles Payne, K.C., of Belleville, defense lawyer, told the court that he had paid particular attention at the inquest, and that this question was never asked.

John Williams and William Bunker, the other members in Slater's party, described in detail how the marks made to be on the road.

Russell West went in the box in his own behalf and described how he had struck the aged man. It was dark, and the lights were poor on the street. He said he did not notice Anderson until he was within ten feet of him, and had stopped immediately.

Clarence E. Hastings, automotive engineer, of Toronto, gave technical evidence relating to tests he had conducted with the car in question, and stated that the marks shown in a photograph were not produced by the car West was driving. Mr. McElderry questioned him closely in regard to the behaviour of tires under varying conditions, and he was sent to measure the tread while court was in session.

His measurements made with skid marks from the West car were approximately an inch narrower than the skid marks measured by police.

Neither the car nor its equipment had been altered since the accident, Mrs. Mable McNabb, of St. Louis, Mo., the owner, testified.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., based his case on three points in addressing the jury.

He declared the evidence including tire marks proved excessive speed, that West was guilty of negligence in not keeping a proper lookout on the road ahead of his car, and that in driving with dimmed headlights, he was also guilty of negligence. Judge Urquhart (Continued on Page Eight)

TEACHERS' CONVENTION

The annual convention of Centre Hastings Teachers' Institute will be held in the United Church, Tweed, on Thursday and Friday, October 6th and 7th. All members of the staff of the local Public School will attend and Principal J. L. Good, of the High School will be present for the Friday afternoon session. Mr. A. McGuire, of Tweed is the inspector of this district.

MINISTERIAL MEETING

The first meeting of the Ministerial Association of Centre Hastings was held at the Rectory at Bonarlaw on Monday, Sept. 26th, at 2.30 p.m. The officers for the new year were elected as follows: President, Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, Bonarlaw; Vice-President, Rev. W. J. Scott, Stirling; Sec.-Treas., Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, Stirling; Executive, Rev. J. A. McConnell, Stirling, and Rev. A. W. Harding, Springbrook. Among the items of business transacted was the arrangement for a retreat in Madoc in November and plans for the next meeting which will be held in Rawdon Parsonage, Stirling, on Monday, October 17th.

The paper for the afternoon was given by Rev. W. A. Hunter, of Madoc. At the close of the meeting Canon and Mrs. Swayne served lunch and a very pleasant half hour spent.

Among those present were Rev. E. M. Cook, Foxboro; Rev. W. A. Harding, Springbrook; Rev. J. E. Beckel, Stirling; Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Beazer, Roslin; Rev. and Mrs. McDonald, Roslin; Rev. H. B. Herrington, Thomassburg, and Revs. J. E. Kennedy and W. A. Hunter, of Madoc.

Will Hold Short Course

The young men and women of Stirling and the surrounding townships are invited to enroll in a twelve-weeks' short course in Agriculture and Home Economics to be held here between November 22nd to February 24th. Similar short courses have been held in other sections of Hastings County in other years by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, but this is the first time for sixteen years that residents of this community have been offered such an opportunity.

The Department bears the full expense of the course, with the exception of the hall accommodation in which to hold classes, and a nominal fee of 50 cents from each member of the classes will be charged. This is the only cost to those taking the course, except for a notebook and pencil, all materials and supplies necessary for demonstration being given by the Department.

Several have already signified their intention of attending this course and Mr. H. L. Fair, local Agricultural Representative, is arranging for canvassers in each school section in order that a sufficient attendance may be obtained to warrant the expense of time and energy in such an undertaking.

The Agricultural course for the boys will include lectures on care and management, judging and showmanship of livestock, feeds and feeding of livestock, dairying, poultry, field crops, soils and fertilizers, orcharding, marketing, etc.

The course in Home Economics for the girls will include foods and cookery, household management and clothing, etc.

All the lectures in both courses will be given by outstanding experts of the Department and every boy and girl in the community will be well repaid for attending.

Anyone interested in these courses is asked to communicate with Mr. H. L. Fair, Agricultural Representative, or any one of the canvassers whose names will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wallace and baby, of Windsor, are spending this week visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Eggleton, Mr. Geo. A. Eggleton, and other relatives.

BARBERS TO CONTINUE HALF HOLIDAY

Although the half holidays have ended for this season for the merchants, the Barber Shops of the Village have agreed to observe the Wednesday half-holiday until the end of October. Patrons of the various shops will please note.

SOME ACTION NEEDED

Now that daylight saving has ended for another year, the confusion in regard to time is over, and once again the rural dweller may visit the urban centres and transact his business without having to worry over the difference in time. It would be a good thing if rural and urban dwellers could agree on having either standard time or daylight saving time universally before another summer rolls around. But this doesn't appear likely to happen. Farmers will not have anything to do with daylight saving and merchants in towns and villages depending on the rural sections for their trade have to fall in line. On the other hand those working in factories and offices in the larger centres of population are in favour of the advanced time, and there doesn't appear to be anything that can be done about it. Our opinion is that standard time should prevail throughout the land, with those desiring the extra hour of daylight going to work an hour earlier in the morning. It would produce less confusion.

SHORT COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

The attention of the young men and women of Stirling and surrounding district is called to a short course in Agriculture and Home Economics to be held here from Nov. 22nd to February 24th, under the direction of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Similar courses have been held in other sections of the County in recent years, but this is the first time for sixteen years that residents of this community have been offered such an opportunity. A sufficient number of students is required to make these courses successful, and Mr. H. L. Fair, local Agricultural Representative, is particularly anxious that the boys and girls, farmers and farmers' wives, register as soon as possible to warrant the expenditure of time and money involved in such an undertaking. The courses embrace an intensive study and practice period in all phases of home economics for the girls and agriculture for the boys, and should be of inestimable value to all those participating. Canvassers will be appointed for each school section in the near future and it is hoped that the boys and girls of the Village and district will take advantage of the opportunity of further education in these topics and attend the course.

TOO MUCH BUTTER

Dairy producers in Canada are faced with a period of deflated prices for butterfat owing to the huge surplus of butter now in storage, according to reports appearing in the daily press. In order that the creamery industry may be assured a reasonable return over the cost of production during the winter months, the Canadian Produce Association urges that about twelve million pounds of butter be exported before December 1st.

However, the next step is to secure a market for such large shipments. The question is one that concerns every creamery and creamery patron in the country and various suggestions are heard on how to overcome the situation. An editorial in the Peterborough Examiner contained the following suggestion, which should prove of interest to the dairy producers of this district. It says in part:

"This situation has been in the making for months and the reason is there is too much material sent to creameries and not enough to the cheese factories which are operating to a lesser extent than they were a year ago. The cheese factory runs as a rule from May to October and there is still a chance to turn for even a brief period to the cheese factory. Canada can export and sell cheese against world competition and we cannot do that with butter. I consider it is more profitable for farmers to sell to the cheese factory because in that way they are doing two things, (1) turning their milk into a cash crop, and (2) preventing the butter market from becoming glutted with a surplus which will bring down the price of butter fat. From the cheese factory they also get their whey back and the food value in that for hogs is more highly regarded today than it ever was before. In short it is this way — we cannot sell butter. That is the situation today. A far greater use of the cheese factory is the solution."

PEDESTRIANS — WATCH YOUR STEP

Official statistics of the Department of Highways show that 40 per cent. of last year's highway accident victims were pedestrians. There is a grim lesson in these figures which every pedestrian should take to heart, for his safety depends upon his carelessness. Pedestrians — that is, the sort who run risks in traffic — are definitely gamblers.

They gamble with their lives every time they amble joyfully off the pavement into the midst of a stream of automobile traffic with an utter disregard of all safety regulations.

They are gamblers when they step from behind parked cars, unwittingly tempting death or serious injury every time they do it. They are gamblers when they select the middle of a city block as a good spot to cross the street, and forget the regulations — made for their own safety — against jaywalking.

And in the face of all these very evident demonstrations of carelessness on the part of pedestrians, the blame for a fatality, when it occurs, is usually placed on the motorist. Very often he is not to blame, for if the pedestrian had used ordinary common sense, he would not have been in the path of the oncoming car, and the accident would not have happened.

Traffic regulations have been carefully prepared, warning lights and other signals are installed at busy intersections more for the safety of the pedestrian than anyone else. Yet they are disregarded by a very large percentage of the pedestrian public, despite the grim fact that more pedestrians are the victims of highway traffic accidents than any other single group. The average motorist is careful; the average pedestrian is not.

"Pedestrians, watch your step" is certainly the best of advice. Walk carefully and you are more likely to live to enjoy your walks.

CURRENT COMMENT

Apple growers in this section suffered a heavy loss in the heavy wind and rain storm of last week, as much fruit ready for picking was blown from the trees. However, Eastern Ontario is said to have borne the brunt of the storm, with a large percentage of orchards being badly damaged. It is likely that increased prices for this fruit will result.

Attendance at the Normal Schools throughout the Province is reported as considerably lower than a year ago. Apparently the low salaries paid rural school teachers is commencing to have an effect on the attendance at these institutions, and it probably will not be very long before a scarcity of teachers will occur. Then salaries will advance to a level commensurate with the services rendered. At least eight hundred dollars per year should be the minimum salary paid to public school teachers, and we would like to see it raised to one thousand dollars.

Published statements of the "Old Home Week" celebrations held in the neighbouring towns of Brighton and Tweed during the past summer show a balance on the right side of the ledger in each case, which will be used for community purposes. It appears that this form of celebration not only provides a means of social intercourse for the citizens and the old boys and girls, but is a splendid manner in which to raise funds for community enterprises. Stirling Agricultural Society has announced an "Old Home Week" for the year 1940 and it is hoped that it may also prove a successful venture.

The report that the Dominion Government has chosen a site for the election of the new post office in the village of Brighton, has the citizens of Stirling wondering when some announcement will be forthcoming concerning the proposed new post office here. Some weeks ago an inspector from the Architects' Department at Ottawa was in town to survey the various sites and we expected that the building would be under way by now, but so far as we have been able to learn nothing further has been heard from the powers-that-be at Ottawa. There may be just cause for the delay, but it is our opinion that the citizens are entitled to some information from local members concerning the matter.

The compulsory pasteurization of milk which comes into effect in the larger towns and cities on October 1st, and in the smaller villages by January 1st next, is liable to mean the extinction of many of the small producers since their volume of business will not warrant an expenditure for the necessary equipment. There are a number of such dealers in Stirling, but no announcement has been made as yet concerning what action will be taken, and no one appears to be worrying anything over it. The situation is much different in the town of Deseronto where there appears to be much opposition to the new law. According to the "Post" the town Council has served notice that it will take no part in passing regulations to enforce or control it, and the circulation of a petition asking for special exemption under the new law is suggested. We doubt if their objections will get very far with the Department of Health. However, it will be interesting to watch the result of their efforts.

What Others Say

STILL FOOLHARDY

(Forest Standard)

It is difficult to fathom human nature. With over 350 accidents reported at railway crossings during six months, it is found that 78 motorists ran into lowered gates, 41 drove under the gates when they were lowered, 28 drove into the side of a train, 19 drove through lowered gates, and 12 failed to stop at a red light signal.

A NEW POINT

The Association of Ontario Mayors asks for an increase of one cent in gas tax, the revenue to go to the municipalities where the gas is sold. Thus a farmer comes to town and buys five gallons of gas and pays five cents to the municipality. The question is: What right has the municipality to take five cents from the farmer? — Peterborough Examiner.

A WORLD NEED

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

What this world needs just now is more men and women who are old-fashioned enough to be honest and honorable.

CONSCRIPTION OF WEALTH

(Cobourg Sentinel Star)

Today everyone is talking of war and rumours of war and it is generally anticipated that in the event of war breaking out conscription would be at once enforced in Canada as in other parts of the British Empire.

Should conscription just mean the enforcement of service of able-bodied young Canadians while others are allowed to remain at home and capitalize on munitions and other essentials of war?

Should men with money be allowed to exploit their fellow citizens as a result of war in order to create more millionaires?

Or should we not in the event of war breaking out first see to it that wealth is conscripted and used for war purposes? Then conscript not only the young able-bodied men of the country but every man and woman in the country who is able to work, in order that all may be forced to contribute to a somewhat equal basis as to their ability and talent?

During the great War, millions willingly laid down their lives in defence of the Empire we love; Millions of others were maimed and incapacitated and brought home either to die after lingering illnesses or to become fit subjects for relief, while thousands were able to exploit their fellowmen and accumulate great wealth without any risk.

Why not make the manufacture of munitions a national project instead of allowing a few ambitious industrialists to get their heads together and again enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow countrymen.

Revelations made a few years ago into the manufacture and sale of war materials by the United States Senate Committee, we believe definitely established the fact that practically all war scares were engineered by international munition barons.

OUR PUBLIC SERVANTS

(Winchester Press)

It is astonishing that so many people who have no time to do anything for the welfare of the community in general, grasp every opportunity to accuse public servants of being in office for the purpose of graft or personal gain. One has but to stop where a group of men are discussing public affairs in order to learn how crooked and deceitful the servants of the people are in handling the business of municipality or state. Such critics and fault-finders show themselves in a bad light for it is but natural for the listener to reverse the argument and conclude that graft and greed would indeed prevail if the said critics were to hold office.

The vision of a certain class of people is so obscured by selfishness that they fail to see where anyone can possibly serve his municipality or country with a genuine desire to be of some use to his fellow-men and not for personal fame or gain. In their narrowness of intellect they picture everyone as being of the same mental proportions as themselves with no thought of the general welfare of the people. Such a type of citizen is of no use to any community. His mind is centred on self and he has nothing to suggest that may be utilized to advantage by those who are striving towards a better town in which to live.

A redeeming feature, however, lies in the fact that such persons seldom have much influence on those about them. The old phrase, "actions speak louder than words", applied forcibly in most cases and the public-spirited citizen will dismiss such malicious criticism with a brush of the hand. In any case take note the next time you hear some individual offering a bit of scathing criticism of a public leader or servant. We are willing to bet that you are face to face with an individual who has never been of any practical value to the community in the past or likely to be in the future.

The world has been watching with so much anxiety, was formerly between Germany and Austria, and was included formerly in the Kingdom of Bohemia. It is, natural, peopled to a great degree by German-speaking people.

DIPHTHERIA TOXOID IS MADE COMPULSORY

At the first meeting since the summer vacation, held on Monday, Belleville City Council instructed the City Solicitor to prepare a by-law compelling all children attending public schools in Belleville, to be toxoided against diphtheria, provided he is of the opinion that such a by-law can be properly passed by this Council.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT CZECHOSLOVAKIA

In view of the intense interest created during the past few days by the Sudeten crisis in Central Europe, a short historical and geographical sketch of the country is in order.

Czechoslovakia is a country of about 500 miles long, averaging about 100 miles from north to south. It is bounded on the north by Germany and Poland, on the west by Germany, and on the south by Austria and Rumania. About 40 per cent. of the people are of agricultural pursuit, and about an equal number engaged in manufacturing. It is the largest democracy east of France and has a population of 14 millions, of which about 23 per cent. are German-speaking and 67 per cent. Czechs or Slovaks.

The Sudeten area is, as is almost all the northern boundary, mountainous, though there are passes through which access to Germany is possible. Notable among these passes is the basin of the Elbe river. The Sudeten peoples were never under German rule, but were under Austria before 1918.

Racially, the Czechs are a conglomerate, though Slavs are predominant, hence the warmth of feeling between Russia and Czechoslovakia. The country declared its independence after the break-up of the Central powers and formed a democratic government which was recognized by the Treaty of Versailles.

During the Great War, a Czech patriot, Dr. Masaryk, organized the Czech peoples who were outside their own country (then Austrian) in aid of the allied cause, enlisting them to help break the Austro-German domination of their native land. As a climax to his work the recognition by the powers in the declaration of independence and Treaty spoke eminently, Benes, President of the Czech government at this time commenced work in 1915 with Dr. Masaryk as his secretary.

Czech legions were accordingly formed of those enlisted by the independent Czechoslovak movement and their support of the Allied cause, chiefly in Russia, was a deciding factor in the recognition of the new Czechoslovakia.

At present Czechoslovakia is a comparatively prosperous country with natural wealth in the form of iron and coal, and fertile valleys where sugar beets, fruit, vegetables and dairy products are produced.

The loss of the German-speaking Sudeten peoples to Czechoslovakia would mean a loss of a great deal of the country's strength.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

They are calling the New York Yankees to win the world series. Most of the experts opine, the men of McCarthy will sweep the post-season spectacle in four straight games. But they are forgetting (or are they) that the American League champs will be facing something more than the winners of the National League pennant. Hovering in the background, ready and eager to trip the confident Yanks will be Old Man Jinx. For no team has ever won three consecutive world championships.

Few teams, for that matter, have ever won three pennants in a row: Pittsburgh in 1901-2-3; Chicago Cubs in 1906-7-8; Detroit in 1907-8-9; New York Giants in 1911-12-13 and again in 1921-22-23 and then 24 to create an all-time record; the Yanks in 1921-22-23, again in 1926-27-28 and, of course, the past three years; and Philadelphia Athletics in 1929-30-31.

Of these six super-teams, two have reached the threshold. The Giants beat the Yanks in 1921 and 1922, but the following year Old Man Jinx took a hand in affairs. In the crucial sixth game Art Nehf, who had hurled the Giants to two straight pennants, two straight world titles, and already taken one game for them in this series, was coasting along in the seventh inning with what appeared to be a safe lead. Suddenly his pitching arm gave out and after he walked a man with the bases filled, John McGraw had to take him out. The rest is incidental — the Yanks went on to take the game and series. Old Man Jinx was stalking the basepaths.

The mighty machine Connie Mack molded together at Philadelphia beat the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and the St. Louis Cardinals in 1930. But in 1931 an inferior band of ball players from St. Louis, aided and abetted by O.M.J. and Pepper Martin, beat the super-A's to the wire. You recall how Martin performed in the series — his great hitting and sensational base-running that fired the Cards to play far above their heads. He's still a good ball-player but never before or since has he reached the heights he did to prevent the Mackmen winning three consecutive series.

The Yanks, of course, have already smashed precedent by winning the pennant three times in a row for the third time. The won the world's championship in 1936 and 1937. Can they continue their record-smashing to become the first club in baseball history to capture three successive world series?

QUESTIONS DEPT. — Who is the champion scorer of all time in girls' basketball?

Too much of a good thing is not desirable, and apparently this applies to the sports world as well as other fields. Take the case of the Edmonton Grads, perennial Canadian and world champions. They won so often and for so long, that victory is commonplace and the hometown fans refuse to patronize their games. In a recent successful defense of their international laurels against a Canton (Ohio) squad, fans stayed away in such great numbers (to use an Irish figure of speech) that Coach J. Percy Page is thinking of disbanding the club unless patronage improves.

The team was formed by Page in 1914-15, winning its first Alberta title in that campaign. Since then, with the single exception of 1920, they have won the provincial title annually. In 1920 the Grads won the first official Canadian championship. In 1923 they defeated Cleveland for the international title, and have never relinquished it since. In 1924, 1928, 1932 and 1936 they accompanied Canada's Olympic squads, played all comers and remained undefeated. All told, they have played 479 games and won 463. Ironically, this magnificent record may spell finish to the club. Edmonton fans are surfeited with victory — and as a result the greatest name in basketball may pass from the sports pages of the country.

SPORTS ODDITY — J. Percy Page, coach of Edmonton Grads girls' basketball team, has never missed a game or practice of his team since he organized it in 1914. In 24 campaigns he has attended 479 games and over 2,000 practices.

Frequently one hears of the disinclination of the youth of today to pioneer. Perhaps ignorance prompts one to make such an observation. For in the Bruce peninsula, between Owen Sound and Sauble Beach, a young Canadian is carving out a future for himself that should be both remunerative and interesting.

James Tierney, of Hamilton, Ont., who started out as a caddy in his home town and later became known as the "boy hobo caddy" because his wanderings carried him around United States, Mexico, the Panama Zone, Cuba, Haiti, West Indies and England in pursuit of errand golf balls, is the youthful pioneer.

Jimmy caddied for Tommy Armour in the English open of 1935, and returned to Canada the following spring to accept an offer as pro at the Port Elgin-Southampton Golf Club. Many golfers coming into the pro shop told him that if there was a golf club at Sauble Beach they would spend the summer months there. So ambitious Jimmy went to Sauble, looked the situation over and decided to undertake a man-sized task. He resigned his job, purchased 70 acres two miles from the beach and commenced the monumental task of creating a golf course, practically single-handed, from a parcel of brush, scrub and stump-covered land.

Early in 1937 construction was started. This year many divot-diggers toured the attractive little layout which runs an aggregate of 3,180 yards through its nine holes. In less than two years, this resourceful young Canadian has brought about an amazing transformation — a golf course from a wilderness. The day of pioneering has not vanished — not while this country has young men like Jimmy Tierney who are willing to roll up their sleeves and go to work.

A YEAR AGO IN SPORT — Greyhound lowered the world's mile record for trotters at Lexington, Ky., on September 30th, 1937, from 1.56 3/4 to 1.55 in a race against time. The 5-year-old gelding the previous week had equalled the former mark set in 1922 by Peter Manning, was driven by Sep Palla.

ANSWERS DEPT. — Miss Margaret McBurney, who captained Edmonton Grads for 10 seasons and retired October 28, 1935, took part in 153 games and scored 2,064 points — an average of 13.1 per game.

EX-MAYOR SIMPSON OF TORONTO, IS KILLED

James (Jimmy) Simpson, the Lancashire emigrant, who started at the bottom of the ladder as a printer's devil and climbed to the topmost rung to become Toronto's Mayor, was fatally injured Saturday afternoon in an automobile-street car collision, which also took the life of his traveling companion, Robert T. Barton, Winneconne, Wis.

The double fatality occurred at Harbor and Bay Streets, where two veterans were killed under identically the same circumstances during the Corps Reunion. A year ago a motorist returning from the Royal Winter Fair, met death there in a similar manner.

Terribly injured, Mr. Simpson was, in fact, injured Saturday afternoon in an automobile-street car collision, which also took the life of his traveling companion, Robert T. Barton, Winneconne, Wis.

He drove his daughter's light cabriolet roadster through a stop street, and was struck broadside with terrific force by a southbound Bay trolley. The ill-fated car was travelling east — the same direction in which the other death car was proceeding.

Mr. Simpson was 64 years of age. He retired from public life in 1936 when he was defeated seeking re-election as Chief Magistrate after serving one year. His companion was said to be 72 years old.

Jimmy, as he was popularly known to the lowliest trade unionist and to the highest official was a jovial, amiable sort of man, small of stature but big of heart and mind. He lived to serve the labour movement and for his service he was rewarded with honours no other man in Canada ever received or expects to receive.

And he died as he lived — with the things he cherished most in life by his side. In the wrecked car, after his broken body had been taken out, were found several labour pamphlets. On the torn seat, partly covered with blood, was a monthly magazine published by a labour organization. And on the floor was a mute reminder of Jimmy's years of devotion to the cause of the workingman — a membership card in the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Egg prices slumped sharply on Saturday on the Belleville Market. "A" selects declined to 32c, a three cent decrease from last week-end quotations. Mediums were offered at 29c with pullets and some ungraded stock selling at 28c and 30c per dozen respectively.

Chicken was more plentiful than usual with choice four and five months' old birds selling at 90c and $1.00 per pair. Year old birds and fowl were quoted at from 75c each upwards. A few ducks were available with a fair quality offered at 90c and $1.00 each. Farmers' butter remained steady at 35c a pound, with two-pound rolls quoted at 65c.

Other prices were steady and showed little or no change from last week's quotations, with the exception of perhaps autumn apples, due to the storm of the midweek that wreaked havoc with tree fruit in all parts of the district.

MacIntosh Reds were quoted at $1.50 per bushel for windfalls with Wolf Rivers and other early varieties offered at from $1.00 per bushel upwards. Clapps' Favourite Pears sold at from $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel with Flemish Beauties and Bartlett's moving well at from 35c to 50c per peck according to quality.

Imported peaches again headed the fruit display with plums and green gages selling well. No. 1 Alberta peaches were quoted at 50c a basket for first quality with prices ranging downward. Plums were quoted at from 30c to 50c per basket the large Prune variety, and gages offered at 75c per 6-quart lot.

Melons Plentiful
Melons were plentiful with cantaloupe and watermelon in all sizes selling at from 5c each upward. Blue and white grapes were plentiful with 6-quart baskets selling at 35c each.

Home-grown tomatoes were quoted at 25c per bushel, with sweet corn in both yellow and white varieties offered at 10c per dozen ears. Beets, carrots, onions, radishes, lettuce sold at prevailing prices. Potatoes moved fairly brisk with bag lots quoted at 75c. A few mushrooms were noticed selling at 10c per berry box.

Whitefish at 22c per pound, a small offering of trout at 25c, mudcats at two pounds for 25c and pike at 10c per lb. rounded out the fish offering.

CHEESE BOARD

Of a total of 2367 white and 307 assorted cheese offered at Belleville Cheese Board, 2313 sold at 14 cents and the balance at 13 15-16c. Bidding progressed from an initial bid of 13 1-2 cents. Buying was among Mr. Cook, Mr. Hart, Mr. Murphy, Mr. McCreary and Mr. Fraleigh.

Buyers present were Messrs Taylor, Hart, McCreary, Cook, G. A. Morton, Fraleigh, Murphy and Stiles. One factory, that of Kingston, with an offering of 18 white cheese, refused the 13 15-16c balance bid by Mr. Fraleigh.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Harvesting of dry beans has made good progress in Western Ontario. In Kent county the yield is variable with fields which escaped excessive moisture fairly good. In Middlesex and Huron counties prospects are considered average. For the province as a whole the yield is now forecast at 17.8 bushels per acre as compared with 19.3 last year. The outlook is good for a normal crop of corn for husking, although in some parts of Kent county some damage was caused by storms.

Record Tobacco Crop

With very favourable weather conditions, the record crop of flue-cured tobacco in Southwestern Ontario was harvested without any frost damage. The crop matured very well this year and went into the curing kilns in excellent condition. Some difficulty was experienced in curing the early primings from the bottom of the plant and the leaves from the first primings were thinner than anticipated. The middle and upper portion of the plant, however, possessed much better body and cured well. Consequently the quality of the crop as a whole appears very good. Estimates place the crop at about 60,000,000 pounds as compared with 54,000,000 pounds last year.

Burley tobacco also ripened early this year and was harvested under favourable conditions. The quality will average better than last year with more good and poor tobacco and less medium than normally. Production of burley is expected to reach at least 10,500,000 pounds, which compares with 6,392,000 pounds in 1937. The acreage was increased from 2,300 acres last year to approximately 3,000 in 1938. Production of all types of tobacco in 1938 may be about 72,000,000 pounds, as compared with the previous record crop of 62,320,000 pounds harvested in 1937.

Annual Plowing Match

The 1938 annual four-day international plowing match, horse show, and demonstration of farm machinery and latest contrivances for the home, under the auspices of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association, will be held at Minesing, Ontario, on October 11, 12, 13 and 14 inclusive. Minesing is in the heart of the picturesque county of Simcoe, 14 miles west of Barrie. Celebrating its 15th or silver anniversary, this annual movable mecca of the ploughmen of North America has grown to such extent and importance that emphasis is now being laid on the fact that it is open to the ploughmen of the world.

Already several internationally-known ploughmen, both in Canada and the United States, have intimated their intention of competing this year, and bearing in mind the large entry of contestants and concourse of spectators at the 1937 meeting at Fergus Ontario, the management have every reason to expect that the silver anniversary will create a record. There will be a different programme every day.

Immature Peaches, Plums and other Fruits

An Editorial in the September issue of Canadian Horticulture and Home Magazine reads as follows:

The perennial old story of immature peaches, plums, and other fruits being shipped to market and thus damaging the industry is again to the front. Press reports throughout Ontario the past month called attention to the practice, in the interests of both growers and consumers. "There are peaches and plums going out of here not fit for human consumption" stated a Grimsby grower, in an interview. "They should be sent to Japan, or China for use as bullets. What we need in this country is a law to stop this kind of thing. Dealers are to blame. They tell growers to bring the stuff in at a certain time, and the fact of the fruit's not being ripe makes no difference to them. What right has a shipper to ship or truck stuff that no one can use? They might as well steal the consumer's dollar." All quite true, but does it not sound more like "passing the buck?" Some dealers certainly are to blame — if obeyed. But it is the grower himself who is mainly responsible. Hundreds of growers ship at the proper stage of maturity. But there are many others who persist year after year in shipping "green goods" in the hope of capturing his early prices — to get ahead of their neighbours. They never seem to take a lesson from the past, even though they know full well that the rushing of green fruit on the market injures, and in many cases even stops, the sale of the later and riper shipments. They prefer to take a chance — and thus perhaps condemn the whole crop. With the grape harvest starting this month of September, it is hoped that the recent hue and cry in the daily press will have effect toward curtailing the picking and marketing of basket grapes before they are ready for eating.

Fruit Crop Conditions

In Eastern Ontario very favourable growing conditions have prevailed during the past month and the sizing and colour of most varieties of apples are above average. The codling moth, apple maggot and white leaf hopper, have caused considerable damage, but thorough spraying in most commercial orchards has resulted in very clean crops. The demand for export apples is reported by Eastern Ontario to be quite keen with sales for local markets rather slow except in the St. Lawrence Valley district, where there is a good demand at prices equal to last season.

In Western Ontario apples have developed well with size and colour stated to be exceptionally good although some scab and infestation of side-worms is in evidence in many orchards. Fungus and insect pests are generally well controlled in commercial orchards where spraying was thoroughly carried out.

The total production of apples in Ontario this season is estimated at 825,400 barrels, which is an increase of 11 per cent above the 743,300 barrels picked in 1937. A gain of 37 1/2 per cent in Eastern Ontario's crop more than offsets a 23 per cent decline in the anticipated production for Western Ontario.

The plum crop is practically harvested with the exception of very late varieties. The quality and size are good. Total production is estimated at 57,700 bushels as against 56,000 last year. With the exception of some loss to peaches by ground rot, particularly in Rochester variety, and a greater than usual amount of split-pits, the quality of the peach crop has been generally good. The yield at 552,000 bushels, a gain of approximately 5 per cent over a year ago.

Sizing and quality of pears are above average and there is very little insect injury. Late varieties will be harvested within the next two weeks. The August estimated production of 188,500 bushels has been raised to 193,600 bushels and represents an increase of 5 per cent over 1937.

Grapes generally have a 1 and 2-bunch set as compared with a 2 and 3-bunch set last year. As a result the crop is estimated at 30 per cent below that of last year. Slight mildew together with considerable leaf hopper injury is expected to affect the development and the maturity somewhat. Blues show a reduction of 31 per cent, white of 10 per cent and reds 2 per cent.

MADOC JUNCTION

The Anniversary services held at Eggleton Church here on Sunday were largely attended. Rev. Fisher, of Enterprise, was the guest speaker. In the morning the choir sang the anthem "Glorify His Name" and "Onward and upward" and at the evening service Miss Marion McMullen sang "Love Lifted Me" and the choir sang "In the Highway of His Love."

On Tuesday evening a pie social was held in the church. The young people of Dartford presented their three-act comedy-drama entitled "Sadie Gets Elected." The characters in the play were well chosen and Mr. Geo. Nelson, the editor's handy-man, simply kept the audience amused by his witty speeches and was more than a match for the town's rich miser, Zeke Turner (Trevor Atkinson). The new editor, Sadie Lane (Helen McMullen) also had the courage to op-

Mr. Ray Donnan had the misfortune to be kicked by a colt, receiving a nasty gash on his leg which required four stitches to close.

Reception — Social Evening

Friends and neighbours gathered at Don Farley's home on Friday evening to tender to his bride a welcome to the community. Mr. Arthur Wilson was chairman for the following programme: readings were given by the Misses Jean Thompson and Hilda Moorcroft, and Mr. Phillip Carr; solos by Miss Marjorie Haggerty; Mr. Alvin Carr read the address of welcome and Messrs Sandy McCurdy and Harold McGee presented Mr. and Mrs. Farley with a handsome floor lamp and table mirror. The address follows:

September 23rd, 1938

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Farley,—

Dear Don and Lila,—

We, your friends and neighbours have gathered here this evening to congratulate you in taking this awful plunge, and to extend to you, Lila, a cordial welcome to this community. Knowing you as we do we feel sure you will make a real contribution in every activity of the community's welfare. In starting a new home you are fulfilling one of the divine commands and we trust that as the days go by our friendships shall grow and that we each one will be found applying those very appropriate lines:

"If nobody smiled and nobody cheered
And nobody helped us along,
If every minute looked after himself
And good things all went to the strong —

If nobody cared just a little for you
And nobody thought about me,
And we all stood alone in the battle of life,
What a dreary old world this would be.

Life is sweet just because of the friends we have made
And the things which in common we share,
We want to live on, not because of ourselves

But because of the people who care.
It's giving and doing for somebody else

On that all life's splendor depends,
And the joy of this world when it's all added up

Is found in the making of friends.
And now we desire to present to you this gift as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, and we hope you will accept it in the same spirit in which it is given.

Signed on behalf of your friends and Neighbours — Sandy McCurdy, Harold McGee, Judson McGowan, Alvin Carr.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Darlington, of Todmorden, Mr. Roy McGee and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Carr and Donnie of Campbellford.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Miss Vera McAdam Honoured

On Friday evening Mrs. Charles Hoard and daughter Betty entertained twenty-four guests in honour of the approaching marriage of Miss Vera McAdam. The guests were from Mount Pleasant, Carmel, Bethel, Hoards and Burnbrae communities. The young ladies gathered at 7 p.m. and all enjoyed a round of games, after which the following address was read by Miss Viola Parr to Vera, who was given a special seat of honour.

September 23rd, 1938

Dear Vera,—

Dan Cupid shot another dart.
His aim was true and Vera's heart
Was not real hard.

We guess it's just the same with Farley.

And so we thought we'd give this party.

Right here tonight.
There's not a thing that we can do
Since wedding bells will peal for you

So very soon.
You know you merit our best wishes
While darning socks and washing dishes —

Don't forget us.
Pump street won't seem just quite the same

When you go off and change your name.

But such is fate.
This happy couple you see here
Will let you see how you'll appear Tomorrow afternoon.

They bring some gifts for you to see
So while engaged in pouring tea,
Think of us.

Signed on behalf of your girl friends
— Phyllis David, Betty Hoard and Viola Parr.

Misses Joan Hoard and Lois McAdam, dressed as bride and groom, presented Vera with a pretty basket of gifts, and when they were unwrapped they displayed a charming array of cups and saucers, pieces of silver and other useful articles.

Vera graciously replied, thanking her friends for their kind thought of her and for their beautiful gifts and inviting one and all to visit her when she is settled in her new home near Belleville.

The hostess served a delicious lunch of sandwiches, pickles, cake and ice cream.

Over seventy from Mount Pleasant attended Carmel anniversary on Sunday, when Rev. F. G. Joblin, of Seungo, a former pastor, delivered two impressive sermons. Carmel choir, assisted by Mrs. Percy Hubble, rendered special music and the church altar was banked with fall blooms.

Mrs. A. Loizeaux, of Baltimore, Maryland, and Mrs. A. Sweeting, Toronto, are spending some time with their sister, Mrs. Frank Smith, and their father, Mr. J. A. MacMurchy.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Linn and Ruth and Mrs. Blake Sharp and Anna journeyed to Toronto on Friday. Master Bert Sharp, who has been in the Sick Children's Hospital for several weeks, accompanied them home and is greatly improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Calvert, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharp, and their respective families, visited Mr. and Mrs. Dave Thompson, Tweed, on Sunday.

The pupils of the Allen School, with their teacher, Miss Emma Cole, won first prize at Stirling Fair last week. The pupils looked chic in their Bell-boy suits of red. A large number from here attended the Fair in the afternoon at the movie at night.

Mr. John White was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Stone, Hoards. On Sunday morning at Mount Pleasant, Quarterly Communion was held with a splendid attendance from Bethel and Wellmans. Mrs. John Holmes presided at the piano and Messrs John Coggins and Robert Melville rendered a duet.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, Holloway, visited Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White, Mr. and Mrs. Nell White spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. George Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sine and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine on Sunday.

Mrs. Allan Bailey has received a letter from Mrs. Chas. Bailey containing a clipping from the Winnipeg Tribune re the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bush Jones, of Edmonton, at the home of their only daughter, Mrs. J. M. Danson, 141 Canora Street Winnipeg. Mrs. Jones is an elder sister of Mrs. Allan Bailey. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married on September 23rd, 1878, at the bride's home in Belleville, and the wedding was hurriedly arranged so the young couple could attend the opening of the first Toronto National Exhibition. The bride was dressed in mauve silk with a pretty train and was all handmade by the bride herself as there were no sewing machines in those days. This year Mr. and Mrs. Jones received a special invitation to visit the C.N.E. and to have reserved seats and assist with the celebration. However, owing to ill health, they thought the trip was too far, so they just journeyed to their daughter's, in Winnipeg. Ten years ago they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their daughter's home and were the recipients of five $20 gold pieces. At this party in 1938 Mrs. Danson received with her seven grown children and the tea-table was centred with Johanna Hill roses and white pom-poms and the table was lighted with pink candles in candelabra. Among those who presided were: Mrs. R. Thom, Mrs. H. F. Christie, Mrs. W. G. Hastings, Misses Phyllis, Marjorie and Grace Danson. Mr. and Mrs. Jones received a congratulatory cable from Their Majesties and a wire from Prime Minister Mackenzie King. At the Toronto Exhibition sixty years ago the bride sat on some cordwood while the groom went to see the engines. She enjoyed the flowers and fancy work, especially the array of quilts, as she was always a great quilt-maker. Among the guests was Mr. Chas. Bailey, a nephew.

Mrs. Edith Sharp and Jack spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Summers. Mrs. Emma Summers, who has been holidaying at Wellmans, accompanied them home and the party attended Carmel anniversary.

Mr. Freddie Lawrence, of Toronto, is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Calvert.

BEAUTY PROBLEMS

DISCUSSED BY

Barbara Lynn

Eminent Beauty Authority and Adviser,
who writes weekly articles on Beauty
Problems for many Canadian Newspapers.

This week I have chosen a few beauty problems that have appeared frequently recently in my mailbox, and am dealing with them here so that readers generally can gain the benefit of the advice given.

"How can I eradicate freckles?"

Bathing the face in buttermilk is a mild treatment that sometimes achieves results.

And here is a solution you can get made up for you: two ounces of witch hazel, one ounce peroxide, one ounce cologne water, one ounce glycerine; four ounces rose water. Shake well. Apply solution with a clean piece of absorbent cotton, patting lotion on the skin lightly. Allow it to dry on the skin.

"My upper arms are too fat, and this worries me as I like to wear short-sleeved dresses. What shall I do?"

Here is a little exercise that you must do every day. Sprinkle talcum powder thickly on one hand and with it massage the other arm deeply from elbow to shoulder. You can roll the flesh as hard as you like from side to side, because it won't hurt you, and it WILL work wonders. Work for five minutes or so on each arm.

"Can you give me any advice on strengthening my bust?"

Try this exercise. It will not only make your breasts firmer but will add grace to your upper arms and shoulders. Stand upright with feet apart. Lift your arms slowly sideways, and as far back as they will go; then up and over the head in an arch until the fingers meet. Lower your arms, keeping the hands palms upright until they reach shoulder level. My leaflet on Bust Development gives further advice.

"I have a red spot under the skin of my nose, and it simply won't disappear. How shall I dispose of it?"

Paint the spot every night with 20 vol. hydrogen peroxide solution and it will gradually fade away.

I have prepared special leaflets which deal fully with their special problems. You can obtain any one required: How to slim; Underweight; Superfluous Hair; Hand Beauty; Bust Development; Eye Beauty; The Face — and Its Care; Your Hair; Care of the Feet; Reducing in Spots; Hips, Thighs, Arms, etc. When writing, please be sure and ask about your own beauty worries. I shall be glad to advise you personally and confidentially.

Please mention the name of this paper, and address your letters to: Barbara Lynn, P.O. Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

VOTERS' LISTS, 1938

MUNICIPALITY OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RAWDON — COUNTY OF HASTINGS

Notice is hereby given that I have complied with Section 7 of the Voters' List Act and that I have posted up at my office in Bonarlaw, on the 26th day of September, 1938, the list of all persons entitled to vote in the said municipality at municipal elections and that such list remains there for inspection.

And I hereby call upon all voters to take immediate action to have any errors or omissions corrected according to law, the last day for appeal being the 21st day of October, 1938.

Dated at Bonarlaw, Sept. 26, 1938.

W. J. Barlow,
Clerk of Rawdon

RIVER VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Jack and Glenn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hanna, Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davies and baby were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Utman.

A rousing charivari was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sager last Friday evening.

Mrs. Harvey McCullough, Trenton, spent a few days this week with Mrs. Roy Irvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Jared Hanna were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane.

Mrs. Stanley Irvin spent a couple of days last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Jackman.

BONARLAW

In connection with the observance of Missionary Sunday throughout the Diocese, Rev. C. E. S. Radcliffe preached at St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, at 11.00 a.m. and at St. Thomas Church, 8th line of Rawdon, at 2.30 p.m. on Sunday last. Both services were well attended and Mr. Radcliffe delivered inspiring sermons along missionary lines. Canon W. G. Swayne took charge of services at Adolphustown.

Mrs. J. M. Barlow spent the week

SPRINGBROOK W. A.

The Springbrook W. A. met at the home of Mrs. A. Haslett on Thursday afternoon for their September meeting. Seventeen members were present. The meeting opened with the usual exercises. After instructive and interesting readings were given, Mrs. T. McKeown, Vice-Pres., took charge of the business part of the meeting. The meeting was then closed and over lunch provided by the hostess a delicious half-hour was enjoyed. October meeting will be held at the home of Miss Ethel Peake.

TWEED FALL FAIR OCTOBER 7 AND 8

Owing to preceding rains which converted the grounds into a quagmire, the Directors of Tweed Agricultural Society were forced to postpone the annual Fall Fair in that village, scheduled for Thursday and Friday of last week. The new dates selected are — Friday and Saturday, October 7 and 8. The postponement was a disappointment to many exhibitors, while a large number of people invaded the village in the afternoon since the weather, as it turned out, was eventually ideal. Tweed Fair is considered one of the leading fall exhibitions in the district and it is to be hoped that the Board are favoured with better luck in their next attempt on October 7 and 8.

BONARLAW COUPLE ROBBED IN SLEEP

Robbers broke into the residence of Mr. Thomas Caldwell on Thursday evening and took some bills from a purse lying on the table, then went into the room where Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell were asleep and took sixteen dollars in money out of Mr. Caldwell's trousers and made their escape. So far no trace of the robbers has been found.

MOVIE FILM OF NORWOOD TO BE MADE AND SHOWN

With the co-operation of the Reeve and Village Council moving pictures will shortly be taken of activities and points of interest in Norwood and vicinity. This picture will be taken by the Frank Carlton Productions of London, England, who are making films of Ontario country life to be shown in the Government campaign to show Canada to the people there. Pictures of Hastings villages are now in progress and it is expected work will begin here this week. The pictures will be given a public showing in the town hall when completed, after which a complete copy of the film will be presented to the village which may be shown on future occasions.

Films will be taken at the local schools and then there will be a movie film competition to select the prettiest and best child taken among boys and girls between the ages of nine and fifteen years of age. — Norwood Register.

WILLIAM LEONARD BEDELL

The following article pertaining to the death of William Leonard Bedell was taken from the August 31st issue of the Dresden (Ontario) News.

The burial of William Leonard Bedell, on Saturday afternoon, was one of the largest funerals held in this district. One of Dresden's prominent residents, Mr. Bedell died last Wednesday morning at the family residence, Brown street, after a long illness. He was in his 86th year.

Mr. Bedell was a native of Belleville but has resided in this district for the past sixty years. He was a member of the Masonic order, having been a Past Master of Sydenham Lodge No. 225, A.F. & A.M., and was Past Principal of McNabb Chapter, No. 88, Royal Arch Masons, of Dresden. Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Neville Whitson, of Dresden and Mrs. Douglas Ferguson, of Bothwell; four sons, Roy and James, both of Dresden, Noble, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Clifford of St. Paul, Minnesota, and one brother, Neil, of Harold, Ontario. One daughter, Mrs. Ernest Berlee, of Windsor, predeceased him a year ago.

The funeral services at the Bedell home were in charge of Rev. Charles R. Gower, pastor of the North Dresden Baptist Church. Graveside ceremonies were under the direction of Sydenham Chapter, A.F. & A.M.

The ritual of the order was exemplified by R. W. Brothers, Russell Dusten and Dr. Walter Jeffs, D.D.G.M. The following members of the order acted as pallbearers: Roy E. Carscallen, William McBean, Duncan Pattison, Myron Blackburn, Harry J. French and George E. Weir. A group of local veterans attended the funeral as a tribute to Mr. Bedell, whose youngest son, Roy, is an ex-soldier. Interment was held on Saturday afternoon in Dresden cemetery.

chief non-partisan officer of Czechoslovakia.

SHOWER PRESENTED BONARLAW COUPLE

On Thursday evening the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson was packed with friends and neighbours in honour of their daughter, Grace, who was married on September 3 to Mr. Ralph Heath.

A very appropriate address was read by Miss Jennie Thompson. Ralph and Grace thanked their friends and wishes all to visit them in their new home on the 9th line of Rawdon. Several musical selections were given by Miss Evelyn Gibson and Garland Irwin, also several solos by Mr. Ken Bain. A dainty lunch was served and they all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Mr. and Mrs. Heath will reside with Mr. Heath's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verney Heath. Many beautiful and costly gifts were a token of the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

FARGEY — ROLLINS

The Manse, Rollin, was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday afternoon, September 17th, when Lila Viola Rollins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rollins, of Fuller, became the bride of Donald E. Fargey, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fargey, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

The young couple were unattended. The bride was charming in her gown of robin's egg blue crepe with navy blue accessories.

After the ceremony, the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, at Fuller, where a reception was held for the immediate family and friends.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fargey left on a short motor trip. For travelling the bride wore a brown crepe dress with gold trimming, and an English Rust coat and brown accessories. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm on the Ridge Road.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL

The September Executive meeting of Belleville Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, convened in Holloway St. Church, Belleville, on Tuesday with an attendance of seventeen.

The morning devotions were in charge of the 3rd vice-President, Mrs. Stanley Spafford. Hymns were sung and the Scripture was Romans 8. Mrs. Spafford's message was a stirring challenge to Christian Missionary Women, stating the best likeness the world has of Jesus is the lives of his humble, true disciples. She said we must first believe that God is willing, then we must be willing to let God work through us. This part of the service was closed with an earnest prayer for guidance throughout the day's proceedings.

Mrs. F. L. Hooper, of Napanee, the new Presbytery President, then took the chair and introduced the new members present. Mrs. Earl Denyes, of Latta, Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Manley Fox, of Madoc, Secretary of Temperance and Christian Citizenship.

Mrs. W. C. Haggerty, Past President, was present, and acted for the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Knox, of Picton; also for the Treasurer, Mrs. Herrington, formerly of Picton, whose new address is Box 342, Napanee.

The Vice-President and the various Secretaries gave reports pertaining to their work. Before closing the morning session, a short memorial service was conducted in memory of Miss Marion Coon, our beloved missionary, who passed away during the summer.

At the noon hour, a delectable dinner was served at the home of Mrs. S. Hagerman, by members of the W. M.S. group.

Mrs. W. S. Gordon, of Tweed, the 1st vice-President, was in charge of the afternoon devotional service. Mrs.

Gordon read a part of the 11th Psalm, and briefly reminded those present of God's great enveloping love and His willingness to help us in every difficulty, and under all circumstances. This service was closed by singing "O Master let me walk with Thee."

Mrs. W. Osborne reported some of the highlights of the Whitty School for Leaders, emphasizing the friendly Christian spirit which prevailed. She also told of the lovely association which all enjoyed with Miss Tomiko Hayakawa, guest of honour from Japan.

Mrs. Hooper brought forward several items of business and considerable discussion took place. It was decided to notify all auxiliary Presidents of the next executive.

Mrs. Hooper brought helpful messages from the Laymen's Conference she had attended in Kingston on Saturday. It was stated there were one million United Church people who are not in our Church, and Mrs. Hooper felt there was need for a membership crusade for W.M.S. workers, as well as Church members.

In a discussion on the Temperance work, Mrs. Farnsworth quoted "only as a nation is free from alcohol, is it free for the Christ."

Rev. G. T. McKenzie, of Bath, was present, and closed this meeting with a helpful prayer and the Benediction.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

FINAL INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting skills a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by robbers and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

Crowell laughed again, that soft, insane laugh that struck chills to Rosy's spine. Crowell turned to Pearson, who had not moved in the last minute. The banker's face was gray with fear. "Let's get out, Crowell," Pearson said.

"You squealing swine," Crowell said tonelessly, a kind of secret mad delight in his voice. "I would have died for you and you turn me in."

Slowly his gun swiveled to Pearson, but his eyes were on Rosy and the sheriff. Pearson backed away against the wall, uttering small, unearthly cries of terror. Crowell slid his eyes to the gun and shot twice at Pearson. The banker's scream was cut short and he folded up like a tired child. Crowell's gun was trained again on Rosy and the sheriff, who did not dare move.

"A good job, wasn't it?" Crowell asked. Mary moaned a little in the corner.

Suddenly, Crowell laughed a high, frenzied laugh of a maniac, turned the gun to his chest and pulled the trigger. The impact of his own shot bumped him against the wall and he sagged to the floor.

"Probably the first good thing he ever does," Laredo said softly.

Rosy fell in beside Mary as they left the doctor's. Laredo and Quinn were ahead of them. The rest had stayed behind a moment.

"Let's walk slow," Mary said.

"I reckon I feel that way too," Rosy answered. "It come a little too fast." The silence was long.

"Rosy, do you mind telling me things?" Mary asked presently.

"Anything you want to know," Rosy said gently.

"Did you know that Ted was mixed up in this when you came to the house this morning?"

"I was pretty sure."

"And you didn't tell me. Why?"

"I—I couldn't," Rosy said huskily. "He was your husband."

"What would you have done if this — if Ted had been along with Pearson and Crowell tonight?"

"I wouldn't have been there," Rosy answered promptly. He amended this. "Yes I would too. But I would not have liked it."

"Why? Was Ted any more deserving of sympathy than the others?"

"Less," Rosy answered briefly.

Mary thought this over and asked why.

"Pearson was a lone wolf," Rosy explained. "Out for money and he didn't care how he got it. Crowell was a gambler. He'd risk his neck for a stake. Winters? Well, he had more to lose than the rest. He carried more with him when he fell." He turned to Mary. "Why are you asking me this?"

"I don't know," Mary answered soberly. "It's just—" She looked up at him. "Maybe you wouldn't understand me if I told you."

"I'd try."

"Well, it's hard to put in words. I can't remember very many men. Dave was taken away when we were both young. He was a good brother, but he didn't have much use for girls. Dad was — well, headstrong. Dave's arrest made him bitter and unjust. Dad was harsh, terrible harsh, even on people he loved. Sometimes he could be unjust too. Then after I married Ted, it seemed as if the same traits were in him. Harshness, even cruelty. Besides Ted and dad, I haven't been around men much — except the two hands that were working for us."

"And they weren't any different. Maybe worse," Rosy said.

"That's it. And when you and Dave came home, I saw you were different from the others I'd known. So when you were kind enough to hide all this from me, it was hard to believe. It was something new."

They rounded the corner and cut across the street to the hotel. Rosy's face was grim, his jaw set. Mary looked at him shyly; he did not look at her. As they entered the lobby Mary stopped.

"I'm sorry if I've offended you," she said humbly.

Rosy smiled a little crookedly. "Bless your heart, you didn't," he said gently.

"I don't understand," Mary said. "You looked so cross."

Rosy fumbled with his hat, not taking his eyes from hers. "Then some day, I'm going — I'm going to ask you something and if you answer it the way I hope you will—" He bogged down, then began again valiantly: "When this is all over and you know your own mind, I'm going to — I hope—"

"I think I know what it is, Rosy," Mary answered simply. She placed a hand on his arm. "I think I know what I'll answer."

Rosy waited for her to go on. She only smiled and squeezed his arm a little. "And I think it will be what you hope it is."

She turned and walked across the lobby and up the stairs, her back straight, erect.

Dave was the last to leave the doctor's.

"I'm going to sleep the clock around," he muttered as he descended the steps.

"Dave." It came from the opened door and he stopped. It was Dorsey. She came close to him.

"I couldn't let you go without telling you that I'm sorry I said what I did this afternoon," she said, her voice low and sincere.

"That's all right," Dave said.

"No, it isn't," Dorsey cried. "It was all wrong! I was wrong! I never understood how right you were until I heard and saw all this tonight."

"It was pretty bloody."

"But if a man doesn't fight for what he has and loves, people will take them away from him."

"I reckon that's right."

"And I was angry when you took to your guns to stop it," Dorsey said humbly.

"You were half right at that," Dave said. "I took to my guns once too often — a long time ago. I lost enough that time to make me think twice about going for them again." He looked down at her and spoke kindly.

"That's what you were tryin' to remind me of, wasn't it?"

"No," Dorsey said simply. "I have never thought you lost anything in jail, Dave. I didn't know you before, but you couldn't have been any — she hesitated, seeking a word, and feeling a slow flush come over her face.

"Any what?" Dave said.

"—any finer, more honest, brave," she finished.

She felt Dave's hand grip her arms, saw his dark face with its darker eyes looking down at her.

"It's worth eight years in the pen to hear you say that," he said huskily.

"It makes a difference."

"What difference?"

"I can hold my head up now," Dave said softly. "I can go on thinkin' there's somethin' to life besides fightin', eatin' and sleepin'."

"Just because I said that, Dave?"

"You make it sound small," Dave said. "It isn't."

He looked down at her fondly.

"It's like — well, like food for the way I've been. I guess I've been sick."

"Then you'll grow fat and sleek, Dave," Dorsey said with a little laugh.

Dave frowned. "I reckon I don't know what you mean."

"That was honest, anyway," Dorsey said. "It was like you."

"But I still don't see," Dave said humbly.

"If my saying I trusted you, believed in you, is food for you, Dave, then you will grow fat. There. Isn't that plain?"

Dave paused, suppressing a grin. "I reckon not."

But Dorsey did not see the grin. "I can't make it plainer without making it too plain," she said softly.

Dave did not answer and Dorsey sighed. She would be honest. "I'll be blunt, Dave. It's simply this: I love you."

With a low laugh, Dave caught her in his arms and kissed her. "And I've loved you from the first time I saw you."

At the corner of the Free Throw, Quinn asked Laredo: "Think I could send a telegram tonight, Laredo?"

"Sure. I know Stanley. He'll take it."

They walked down to the station, both of them silent. Both the Free Throw and the Mile High were lighted brightly, a pleasant din issuing from their doors.

They swung into the station and Laredo hammered on the lowered window. A mild man wearing eye glasses raised it and smiled when he saw Laredo.

"Hullo, Harvey," Laredo greeted him. "Reckon my friend here could send a telegram?"

"Sure."

The agent shoved the blank in front of Quinn, who wrote his message. When he was finished, he handed it to Laredo.

"I can't read," Laredo said dolorously. He swore. "It's the only time in my life I wanted to. What does it say?"

Quinn read aloud from the blank containing this message:

A. Wingert
Cattle Association, Phoenix, Ariz.

Case concluded successfully all principals killed off none by me stop split reward between Dave Turner Rosy Rand Laredo Jackson all of Single Shot Stop Suggest next case you put me in Range clothes since gambler's life not long Stop What will I do with six thousand I won running faro table in saloon

Martin Quinn

"Principals?" Laredo repeated after him. "What are they?"

"Sayres' gang. We've been after them for two years now."

Laredo stared at Quinn. "So you're a range detective?"

"That's it," Quinn said.

"Runnin' a faro game at the Free Throw?"

"I was working on the town end of it," Quinn explained, "checking up on where the heavy money was spent and by whom. That's why I got curious about Winters. He was spending so much money that I began to wonder if he wasn't one of the Sayres' gang. You know the rest."

Laredo shook his head and waited while Quinn paid for the telegram. Outside, they turned up the street again.

"Like a drink?" Laredo asked.

"I wouldn't like one. I'd like about four," Quinn said.

He started to cross the street to the Free Throw. Laredo grabbed his arm.

"Huh-uh," Laredo said. "This is a celebration. And when I celebrate I head straight for the Mile High." His eyes lit up strangely. "Let's you and me go clean that joint out," he suggested soberly.

M. W. DOHERTY IS DEAD AT 62

Manning William Doherty, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario in the Drury Government, died Monday in the Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, following two months' illness.

Senior partner in the firm of Doherty and Roadhouse, brokers, Mr. Doherty was at the time of his death Vice-President of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Yesterday the Exchange flag flew at half mast in his memory.

Mr. Doherty was in his sixty-third year.

In the early days of his political career Mr. Doherty was a supporter of the Conservative Party. Later he swung into the U.F.O. ranks as a Progressive. In 1925, when he retired from the Cabinet, he resigned his seat to support Right Hon. Arthur Meighen's Conservative platform in federal politics.

Surviving are his widow, Doreen Cassidy Doherty, and two sons, Brian William Doherty, author of the play, "Father Malachy's Miracle," which was an outstanding hit recently in New York, and D'Arcy Manning Doherty, an outstanding athlete while at McGill University.

The funeral service was held from his late residence, 293 Russell Hill Road, Wednesday morning at 9.30 o'clock, to Holy Rosary Church, where Requiem Mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock. Interment was made in Mount Hope Cemetery.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

It was explained in last week's column that every day of increasing tension in current world affairs brings an additional reason for well-informed observers along Parliament Hill to believe that today Canada is following a definite policy which is not only radically different from the activities of this country in the sphere of foreign affairs prior to the last World War, but it indicates that Canada is now a full-fledged world power and that she is enjoying complete freedom of judgment and action, though alarmists are trying to create the impression that this is not true and that Canada cannot remain absolutely neutral in any war involving the United States or Great Britain.

Notwithstanding all the stories to the contrary, this column reported exclusively several months ago that the United States intends to uphold the basic principles of the Monroe Doctrine, if any foreign power attempted to make an open attack on Canada, and lately this exclusive report was entirely confirmed by the President of the United States during the course of a speech delivered at the dedication ceremonies of an international bridge. As a result of this declaration there have been many alarmist rumours circulating in recent weeks concerning the relationships between these two powers, if the United States of Canada should become involved in any conflict, but it can be reported here that in the official circles along Parliament Hill there is a tendency to treat these rumours as absolutely nothing more than vague gossip. In other words, there are no facts and figures to corroborate these stories which have been gathered by the man in the street.

Both the United States and Canada are following the trends of action of the democracies of the world, but there is no doubt that their reactions to any international crisis or problem are peculiarly typical of the mentalities and ideals of the western hemisphere. Then again, even with this consideration in mind it must be remembered that Canada is completely independent of any other world power, including the United States, though there are probably no two other human societies in the world today that have their financial, cultural and diplomatic interests so closely intertwined as these two democracies of the North American continent. They have a common frontier of more than 3,000 miles; they derived their political background from the same motherland; they are important and vital customers of one another; since 1921 more than 1,280,000 Canadians have settled in the United States, and on the other side of the ledger, a great many Americans who were engaged in farming in the Dakotas, Nebraska, and Minnesota crossed the international boundary to take up homesteads in this country; there is scarcely a home in Canada today which has not one or more members settled in the United States, and then again, some of the greatest Canadians were born in the United States, including two presidents of the Canadian Pacific Railways, Sir William VanHorne and Lord Shaughnessy; the tourist trade from the United States has become one of the major sources of revenue; the American people have invested in Canada more than $3,500,000,000. The net results of these important facts have been a steady growth of mutual understanding and friendly feeling between the masses of these two neighbouring lands.

Of course, there are many reasons for the maintenance of contrary policies in international relations, and these two countries have travelled in different directions on several occasions. There are certain old prejudices against the United States that time has weakened in intensity but it has not been able to remove them. There are many Canadians who do not like the penetration of American capital in Canadian industries; there are a large number of people in this country who are anxious to do almost anything which would assure the maintenance of a separate identity; Canadians do not like the basic lawlessness which is tolerated in the judicial systems of their American neighbours since throughout the Dominion of Canada the administration of law is both just and efficient; there are strong opinions in Canada about the war debts attitude of the people of the United States since they enjoyed an enormous profit at a time when terrible casualty lists were bringing grief to thousands of Canadian homes, with the United States waiting two and a half years before entering the conflict on the side of the democracies; there is a lack of understanding in Canada why the United States did not join the League of Nations; Canadians believe that the United States is trying to put something over them in the Pan-American Union ideas; though Canadians believe in a so-called monarchy, with the added remark that the governmental system in this country is more responsive to the public will, they believe that they employ a greater degree of liberty than the Americans.

Nevertheless, both Canada and the United States are gradually adopting a common policy in international affairs because they have so many interests in common in their relationship with the rest of the world. They have destroyed the old axiom that "neighbouring nations are never friendly," and today the Canadian people not only live in peace and amity with their 120,000,000 American neighbours, but the two countries have never been as close in their entire history. This has raised an extremely important question. Does Canada intend to follow a policy of fore-going her position as an autonomous partner state in the British Commonwealth of Nations for the sake of possible greater economic returns and protection in the event of a foreign attack on this country, both of which have been virtually promised by the United States? This momentous question will be answered in next week's column. (Reproduction prohibited, 1933, Educational Features Syndicate).

MARMORA MAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Leith Robinson, of Marmora, was seriously injured and rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday evening, when his car turned over on Highway No. 7. Traffic Officer J. Hatch, of Marmora, stated that Robinson was driving in an easterly direction when his tire blew out. The car went out of control, crashed through the guard rail and overturned. He is suffering from a fractured pelvis, fractured left arm and dislocated elbow. Dr. A. Stebbins of Belleville is the attending physician.

WE NEED YOUR HELP— THIS YEAR! EVERY YEAR!

Needy children from all over the Province are treated regardless of race, creed or financial circumstance.

This policy has been continued for over 60 years in the firm belief that everyone who understands the facts would want this great work to continue . . . would agree that no Ontario child should be denied a chance for health or escape from deformity if mere money makes the difference.

Over 95% of our beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

We must therefore appeal to a humane and generous public to take care of an annual deficit . . . this year it is $68,000.00.

Please mail a donation to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

The thanks of little children will be your reward.

HALF HOLIDAYS END

The Wednesday half-holidays are over for another year, yesterday afternoon being the last. From now on the stores in Stirling will be open every day in the week except Sunday. This is the usual practice followed each year and is in accordance with the municipal by-law governing the same.

WITH THE BOWLERS

A number of the members of the Stirling Ladies' Bowling Club attended a trebles jiffy tournament held by the Tweed Bowling Club on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. E. A. Carleton was the only member of the local club to receive a prize, winning a box of note paper for the highest score with one win. Those from here who attended were Mesdames W. J. Whitty, J. S. Whitehead, E. J. Bailey, Nina Morton, R. A. Patterson, P. W. Long, E. A. Carleton and C. F. Linn.

Two rinks of Stirling bowlers attended the Men's Trebles tournament held in Kingston yesterday, each rink winning two of the four games played. Messrs W. J. Whitty, T. W. Solmes and A. Heyworth comprised one rink and F. R. Mallory, R. A. Patterson and H. L. Fair the second.

Messrs P. W. Long and J. E. O'Donnell, skip, and Dr. E. A. Carleton, who was paired with his brother, Dr. H. G. Carleton, of Norwood, attended the doubles tournament in Havelock yesterday. The O'Donnell rink won two of the three games played but failed to win a prize.

Mesdames E. A. Carleton, Geo. LeGrow, Nina Morton, W. J. Whitty, J. S. Whitehead and P. W. Long are in Madoc this afternoon attending a ladies' trebles tournament.

IS APPOINTED TO FILL VACANCY

Walt, seconded by C. F. Linn, the secretary was instructed to notify military authorities at Kingston that the School Board has taken all precautions to ensure the safety of these rifles and disclaimed any responsibility for the loss.

Principal Good was instructed to attend the last half-day's session of the Teachers' Institute being held in Tweed on October 6th and 7th, on motion of H. C. Martin and C. F. Linn.

Speaking for the Property Committee of the Board, Mr. J. B. Belshaw reported the mechanical stoker at the public school in need of repairs. The roof of the school also leaked during the heavy rain storm and the conductor pipes also needed repairing.

At the High School the halls were to be mureed, and repairs were needed to the drainage system to keep the water out of the basement. These several matters were left in the hands of the Property Committee, with power to act on motion of Messrs H. C. Martin and E. G. Bailey.

The following accounts were presented and ordered paid on motion of Messrs C. F. Linn and H. C. Martin: N. E. Eggleston, $2.70; Stirling News-Argus, $18.00; R. B. Duffin, $8.85; Ryerson Press, $2.90; J. S. Morton, $14.98; Remington-Rand, $8.20; Fred McCutcheon, $3.50; Cameron Montgomery, $1.50; L. Meiklejohn, $14.85; J. B. Belshaw, $5.75.

An inventory of the insurance carried on the High School was presented by Mr. H. C. Martin. A risk of forty-one thousand dollars was carried on the old building and contents, and sixteen thousand additional was added some weeks ago, being divided equally between T. W. Solmes and himself, making the total insurance carried, $57,000. It was the opinion of the committee that an additional $10,000 should be added now, stated Mr. Martin.

It was moved by H. C. Martin seconded by Wm. Patterson, that $10,000 additional insurance on the High School be placed in the Waterloo Co., through W. J. Whitty at a rate of 60c per hundred for three years, and that all the insurance be written on schedule.

An acknowledgement from Mrs. H. H. Alger, for the expression of sympathy by the Board at the time of the death of Dr. Alger, was received.

On motion of H. C. Martin, seconded by C. F. Linn, Mr. J. S. Morton was appointed chairman of the Internal Management Committee of the Board.

The following resolution of sympathy was passed by the Board, and ordered forwarded to Mrs. H. H. Alger. Moved by Dr. C. F. Walt and seconded by J. S. Morton:

"That we record on the minutes our appreciation of the many years of faithful service rendered by the late Dr. H. H. Alger as a member of this Board of Education, and as well our realization of the great loss the cause of education in our community has sustained through his death.

"We testify to his deep interest in the welfare of our youth and his support in all matters that from time to time have been considered for the improvement of our schools.

"We desire to most sympathetically convey to the bereaved next of kin, and especially to Mrs. Alger and to their daughter, Dorothy, this expression of our regard for our respected colleague."

Meeting adjourned.

SHEA-WHEELER NUPTIALS

The marriage of Marie Rose Wheeler, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wheeler, to John C. "Neil" Shea, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Shea, took place on Saturday morning in St. John's Church, Kingston Road, Toronto. Palms, hydrangeas, gladioli and autumn foliage decorated the church, and Rev. Father Dennis O'Connor officiated. Dorothy Duke played the wedding music, and Norbert Brown was soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, George Wheeler, the bride was lovely in a gown of white velvet, fashioned on empire lines. A row of velvet buttons encircled the neckline extending to the waistline. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting, puffed high at the shoulder line and the cuffs were edged with velvet buttons. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held with a bishop's cap of white violets. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Marie "Joe" Burgess of East Rockaway, Long Island, N.Y., the only attendant, wore a period frock of aquamarine bengaline taffeta with tiny rosebuds of peach interwoven at the neck and sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a head-piece to match. She carried yellow briarcliff roses. James Shea, of Goudreau, was groomsmen, and the ushers were Frank Shea and Eric Edwards.

The reception was held at the Alexandra Palace, where the rooms were gaily decorated with standards of gladioli. Dora Dunn, aunt of the bride, received in a gown of teal blue with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The groom's mother, who also received, wore an imported gown of fuchsia velvet with black accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Shea, left on a trip to Chicago, the bride travelling in a black suit trimmed with kid fur, white venetian lace blouse, black patent accessories, a doll's hat and shoulder knot of tulle and roses. They will reside on Glenmanor Drive, Toronto, on their return.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fitzpatrick, Stirling.

LOCAL YOUTH ACQUITTED ON NEGLIGENCE CHARGE

quhart, in his charge to the jury, said the last two grounds fell short of being conclusive, and he left it to the jury to decide if the evidence of speeding was sufficient to warrant a verdict of guilty. The jury retired to consider the case at 12.30 and deliberated one hour before bringing in their verdict.

Dean Kelly, Havelock, who lives on the south side of Highway No. 7, told of finding Anderson lying on the edge of the highway and of seeing the accused in the act of stopping his car after a turn had been made facing the car towards Havelock village. He had used a flashlight to flag oncoming cars so they would not strike the body.

Eugene Gordon, of Havelock, the next Crown witness, said at the time of the accident he was walking along Highway No. 7 in an easterly direction when he heard brakes being applied. He went to the accident and also saw the body lying on the road. He agreed that when he arrived there were several cars parked on the south side of the road.

George W. Varty, a railroader living in Havelock was walking east on the north side of the highway. He saw the brake light flash, heard noise of brakes being applied.

When he arrived the car was stopped and Anderson's body was lying about 8 feet in front of the car on the highway. The car was facing east. He noticed black tire marks on the pavement and the car was on the marks. Other cars stopped but their brakes did not make as much noise.

"Who was driving the car?" asked Mr. McDermid.

"Russel West got out of the car from the door at the steering gear," answered Varty. He told that at the time of the accident two cars were approaching from the east.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Payne, counsel for West, Varty admitted the car driven by West must have passed him and if it had been driven at an excessive rate of speed he would have noticed it.

Recalled to the stand Constable Broughton told of experiments which he and Constable McClure had made with West's car on the day following the accident. He said at 50 miles an hour on level road the car stopped in 69 feet. On a downhill test at the same speed the car stopped in 100 feet.

Mr. Payne suggested to Broughton that if a person dressed in black was walking in the same direction as a car at night and another car was approaching, there would be a short period of time when the driver would be unable to see the pedestrian. Constable Broughton admitted that this was usually true.

The jury was sent out while Mr. Payne moved for non suit but Judge Urquhart decided he would hear another witness who was known to be available.

James Baskin, Norwood, told of walking along highway 7 in an easterly direction. Was expecting to be picked up by a car and was watching the traffic. Saw the West car pass at an estimated speed of 35 miles an hour and later heard brakes squeal and saw the car come to a quick stop. He also told of noticing a car pass him directly after hearing the brakes squeal, and going in the opposite direction.
